Possibility of this section of the state receiving federal and state aid to assist in financing an extension of library service to rural areas was outlined at a district conference Wednesday afternoon at the court house in Thief River Falls.

Speaking to the group of 30 county board members, library personnel and other interested persons from five counties were Hannis Smith, state director of libraries, and Miss Emily Mayne, also of the state staff. Counties represented were Red Lake, Polk, Pennington, Marshall and Kittson. No one was present from Roseau county, which also had been invited.

Introduced by Richard G. Mahey, president of the Carnegie library board, Mr. Smith explained that the proposed plan calls for a central area library equipped with a large stock of books and audio-visual aids to be established in a city such as Thief River Falls, with branches in key towns thru-out the area, and with traveling bookmobile service for the smaller communities.

To aid in financing the system, Smith said, $100,000 in federal funds is available to Minnesota, to be matched by an equal sum from the state under terms of a bill now pending in the legislature. He stated that the grants would be available only during the first three years, and could not be used for construction of buildings.

The bill in the the legislature also provides that each of the counties supporting the area library system would be required to make a special levy of not less than one mill or more than two mills. Smith [illegible] at present slightly more than [illegible]000 a year is being spent for library purposes in the [illegible] area, while a one-mill levy would raise about $44,000.

Smith suggested that those present sound out the sentiment in their home communities as to the desirability of the plan, and then initiate action thru their county boards to set up an area library board. He added that on the basis of need this area should be one of the first to qualify for the service.

Coffee and doughnuts were served at the meeting by Mrs. A. E. Jacobson, Mrs. H. O. Chommie and Mrs. N. A. Holen, members of the local library board.

County Heart Fund Drive Passes Goal

Campaign Nets $1,718, with $1,100 from Chest

Pennington county residents topped their 1957 Heart Fund goal by better than $180, Gordon Hanson, county Heart Fund chairman announced this week.

The Pennington county quota for 1957 was $1537, and $1718.[illegible] was collected during the drive. Of the funds received $1100 came from the Community Chest, Hanson stated, adding that no general canvass was conducted.

Hanson said the highly successful campaign was largely due to the hearty response to the benefit sale conducted at the Joppru Sales Barn in February. He credited local merchants with exceeding generosity in donating usable new merchandise items which were auctioned by the Joppru organization to farmers and others at the sale.

Local Jaycees also played a very important part in the Heart Fund drive, Hanson said, by staging a benefit basketball game, the proceeds of which are yet to be added to the amounts stated above.

Memorials also swelled the total. One, a $5 donation in memory of Mrs. George Erickson, came from the Women's Benefit Association while the Silverton 4-H club sent $9.35 from the talent show conducted by the club.

Hanson expressed his appreciation to all those who cooperated by contributing their time, effort and money toward the Heart Fund drive.

Mrs. Don Bernhardson and Mark and Miss Audrey Clow of Karlstad visited at the Arnold Larson home Monday afternoon.

Ekeren Receives 2nd Shipment Botulism Anti-toxin

Within 24 hours of the call for botulism anti-toxin, after two Plummer children were suspected of having eaten food contaminated with Clostrida Botulina, Lederle Laboratories had responded by making two shipments of the scarce serum to Thief River Falls.

The first shipment arrived here via Air Force plane about 3:30 a. m. Monday, while another was received at 5:30 the same day, via chartered plane. Shown here is James Whitelaw, left, pilot of the [illegible] which made the flight here from Midway airport, Chicago in just three hours with the serum aboard. At right is Ekeren, who accepted the shipment. Just visible in the door of the twin-engine plane is Ed Barchard, who accompanied Whitelaw.

The Piehl children, Jane, 2, and John, 4, were discharged from Northwestern hospital Wednesday.

Governor Urges Support of State Easter Seal Drive

Asks Public Backing of Drive to Aid Crippled Children of Minnesota

Governor Orville Freeman today urged Minnesotans to contribute generously to the 1957 Easter Seal Appeal to help crippled children.

"I recently had the opportunity to meet Dianne Rowland, our state's Easter Seal child," said the governor, "and I hope that all Minnesotans will do their best to help youngsters like her by giving to Easter Seals.

"Dianne is one of the children who attended the Easter Seal Society's Camp Courage last summer," said the governor. "I've had an opportunity to see this fine camp and it truly offers hundreds of crippled children not only summer vacations, but a whole new outlook on life.

"Add to this wonderful camp the many other fine Easter Seal services, such as therapy treatments, distribution of equipment such as wheelchairs, hospital beds, walkers and other items, employment of handicapped adults, research, accident prevention and educational programs and you have a picture of what your Easter Seal contributions can do to help the handicapped," the governor said.

Mrs. Herbert Halvorson, Pennington county chairman, urges anyone interested in attending Camp Courage, Minnesota camp for crippled children and adults, to contact her.

IT DIDN'T COST THAT MUCH TO BE SICK WHEN I WAS A LITTLE GIRL!
OH, BUT ACTUALLY, SICKNESS COSTS LESS TODAY—AND MANY MORE CHILDREN GET WELL!

Back when today's adults were growing up, one out of every ten babies died before its first birthday. Now, advances in medical science are saving millions of young lives each year. Yet the cost of the better medical care available today is actually less than the best care you could get when you were a child!

The reason: new treatments and new medicines developed by the medical profession and the pharmaceutical industry.

A dramatic case in point is mastoiditis in children. Surgery was often able to save the child's life, but sometimes left him with a deaf ear. Nowadays, the doctor is often able to cure him with perhaps $25 worth of potent new medicines, and thus save the expense of an operation and hospital stay.

But most important, these new drugs are saving children's lives—by the millions. Once, the four most deadly child-killers were diphtheria, whooping cough, scarlet fever, and pneumonia. Nowadays, the number of deaths from all of these causes combined is actually less than the number of children killed by accidents.

And medical progress continues. Today, the dollar you spend for prompt and proper medical care buys more than ever before—and may well represent one of the really extraordinary bargains of your life.

Shootin' the Breeze

BY Mack Draper

Y'know, to come right down to bedrock, working on this planet is a mighty futile thing. People go to work every day of their lives, practically, yet never do get the job done.

If they do, how come they keep on going back to work?

A woman's work is never done . . . so goes the old saw. Well, the women feed us and the kids, but we still insist that's a simpler proposition than paying the grocery bill.

Best definition of a girdle we've ever heard is "potholder." We've heard a similar definition for a brassiere—but it wouldn't be polite to give it here.

We're of the opinion that fire isn't the only thing that is a good servant and poor master. Isn't the same thing true of the government on any level? (We could add automobiles and charge accounts to the list!)

We got a directive from the 2655th Air Reserve center in Minneapolis saying all Air Force reservists will attend training sessions—for pay or otherwise—in full uniform after July 1. Groannnnn . . . there goes another week's salary! Ante up, you reserve vets of World War II—your wartime uniform is obsolete, and you can't get into it anyway. TIME MARCHES ON!

We noted another harbinger of spring this week. The city crews were out with the flusher to wash off the streets, which might be somewhat of a record for earliness.

It might be well worth while some day to stand awhile at the La Bree - 3rd st. intersection to watch how different people approach the La Bree av. crossing from the Ben Franklin store to S & L.

One poor old lady we saw one day let a half-dozen cars take the right of way over her—they just bluffed her out.

The same thing happened yesterday at 3rd and Main—the Main av. light was red so two elderly ladies started across from Kellys to Penneys. Wouldn't you know that at least six cars turning onto 3rd from Main cut them off in midstreet until the light changed again?

We could say chivalry is dead—except that some of the cars that cut them off were driven by women almost as elderly as the two pedestrians!

Which leads us to wonder — would the two pedestrians have done the same thing if the shoe had been on the other foot? So long!

Quackgrass Harms Soil

Quackgrass seems to have a double-barrelled harmful effect on soil.

Recent research reported by Thor Kommedahl, plant pathologist at the University of Minnesota shows how quack grass is harmful.

Kommedahl has found that quackgrass produces some kind of substance that's poisonous to legumes and grain. And second, the studies show that quackgrass rhizomes — horizontal underground stems — are a harboring place for organisms that cause root-rot diseases in cereal crops.

This research helps explain why alfalfa and grain often don't grow well on soil that was infested with quackgrass the year before.

New alfalfa on soil that was free of quackgrass the year before produced two to three times as much dry matter per acre as a nearby plot that had been quackgrass-infested a year earlier in one field study.

Some of that difference might be explained by the fact that quackgrass robs fertility. But in tests where fertility was carefully controlled, Kommedahl again found detrimental effects from quack.

In a greenhouse, Kommedahl raised alfalfa on sterile soil and on soil that was "contaminated" with quackgrass in three different ways. In one test, he raised quack on the soil, then sifted the soil out and planted it to alfalfa. For a second test, he put ground-up quackgrass roots in sterile soil, and in a third test he poured into sterile soil run-off water from pots that had quackgrass growing in them.

In every case, alfalfa seeds in quackgrass - contaminated soil didn't grow properly. Some were stunted and disease-susceptible, others didn't grow at all.

Crops

A new barley variety and a new oats variety, both developed by the University of Minnesota Agricultural Experiment Station, have been released for seed increase. The new varieties are Forrest barley and Minhafer oats. No seed of either variety is available yet for direct distribution from the experiment station, but about 4,500 bushels of Forrest and 6,000 bushels of Minhafer have been distributed to seed growers by the Experiment station through county seed distribution committees in cooperation with the Minnesota Crop Improvement Association.

Forrest barley is similar to Kindred in yield and height. Forrest has stronger straw though, along with larger kernels, higher bushel weight, and matures slightly later.

Forrest has been better than Kindred in heavy epidemics of leaf and head infections of spot blotch. It is resistant to stem rust, but susceptible to loose smut, mildew and Septoria. It has been tested in Minnesota for four years.

Minhafer has been tested here for five years, and has a combination of disease resistance not available in any other variety. It yields better than Andrew, on the average, but has not yielded as much as late-maturing recommended varieties.

Similar to Andrew in maturity and plant height, Minhafer has more lodging resistance. It's a yellow oat, has higher test weight and slightly larger kernels than Andrew. It's resistant to all races of crown rust prevalent in North America, the smuts and all races of stem rust—including 7A.

Beef

Beef calves can just as well be dehorned before they're three weeks of age. Use one of the caustic preparations. They're available from most veterinarians or drug stores. Put these preparations on budding horns, and they will stop horn growth. But be careful not get any of the caustic in the calf's eyes.

* * *

In three years of field experiments with alsike clover, three to four bee colonies per acre brought the best seed yields in northern Minnesota. Two colonies per acre brought yields from 500 to 600 pounds per acre, and three colonies resulted in about 700 lbs.

AIRPORT NEWS

The day before the big storm predictions, the 13th, was a busy one; along with the local flying, came pilots from Crookston, Harold Ross and Bernnie Wilkins, in a Champ; Bob Anderson, Champ, from Mahnomen; Joe Riegert, another Champ, Waubun; Joe Horachek of Goodridge in his J-3 cub. Henry Peterson, Jr. of Karlstad came to fly his Stinson back to Karlstad; the plane has been hangered here for the winter months.

Then we had a few days of strong winds and snow flurries that brought flying more or less to a standstill. Everyone played it safe until about the 17th, and since then these planes and pilots have landed at the municipal airport: Ruben Ramberg, Fertile, Champ; Bert Trane and Larry Kruger, Karlstad, Ercoupe; Hank Sikorski and Einar Johnson, Greenbush, J-3 Cub; Bob Storby, Karlstad, Champ; Bob Anderson and Milt Hockel, Mahnomen, Champ; Hank Sikorski and Warren Emery, Greenbush, J-3 Cub; Dayton Brandt, Kramer, N. Dak., and Daniel S. Wakefield, Devils Lake, N. Dak., PA-18; Vern J. Vogel, Wadena, PA-12; Virgil Hams and Bob Storby, Karlstad, Champ; M. Saul and Joe Noeren, Crookston, Navion; Paul Linn and Curt Hissing, Crookston, Ercoupe; Chuck Rocbe, Deer Park, New York, and Bud Johnson, Bemidji, PA-18.

Two more of Martin's students soloed last week — Congratulations, Clifford Larson and Bill Disse.

At 3:15 a.m., the morning of the 25th, an Air Force C-119 from the O'Hara AFB in Illinois, landed at the Municipal Airport with a crew of three aboard: Edward Hunnicutt of Bessner, Alabama, and John W. Harlow and Herman Hines of the O'Hara AFB. They delivered a vital serum to be used at the Northwestern Hospital.

Another emergency shipment was delivered to the Airport late Monday afternoon by J. W. Whitelow and E. A. Barchard of Chicago, Ill. They were flying a Twin Beech and made the trip in approximately three hours.

Prowler Quint This Season Set Scoring Record, 1,292 Points

During the nineteen games played in scheduled competition, plus the three district tournament and two regional tournament games, coach Al Adams' basketball Prowlers rolled up a total of 1292 points, setting a new scoring record. The old record of 1272 points was established by the Prowlers of 1953-54.

In compiling a season's won and lost mark of fifteen wins and nine losses, the Prowlers gave up 1217 points. The highest scoring game for the Prowlers this past season was that 74 to 50 triumph over the Roseau Rams. The Bemidji Lumberjacks, in their pair of scheduled games against the Prowlers, rolled up the highest point total against the locals, winning by scores of 72 to 48 and 72 to 51.

The Prowlers' fine junior center, Dave Hanson, made a shambles of the individual scoring race. Hanson, in the 24 game, looped in 577 points, setting numerous Prowler scoring marks. His scoring average per game figures out at a remarkable 24.04 points per game.

Runner-up to Hanson in the individual scoring was the Prowlers' nifty play-making guard, Keith Johnson. Johnson, who was instrumental during the season in nullifying Bemidji's famed all-court press, scored a total of 182 points. Johnson showed expert marksmanship from the free-throw line, hitting on seventy of one hundred and ten attempts.

The ever-aggressive Dave Rasmussen, who missed three of the Prowler games because of an injury, gained third place in the individual scoring with a total of 161 points. Phil Hanson, a sophmore, was the fourth Prowler to reach into "three figures" in the scoring column, the slender forward having a total of 117 points.

The 1956-57 Prowlers individual scoring records:

Keeping Score with "Huck" Olson

Clearing the Rebounds

Although the high school basketball season was officially closed with the playing of the state championship finals game on Saturday night, there are a few rebounds bouncing off the backboards, and we'll try to "clear them."

Did you notice that squib in a Twin City paper, a week or so ago, that carried a criticism of the 31st district and the 8th region for carrying their basketball tournament out-of-state, to the North Dakota U campus? "Surely," said this writer, "northwestern Minnesota must have the facilities for conducting these tournaments without taking them to North Dakota."

About the only way in which the Regional basketball tournament could be kept in Minnesota would be to revise the region in such a manner that Moorhead would be included in the 8th region. And Moorhead, from 1925 to 1931, was a member of the 8th region, so the idea isn't too far-fetched. If Moorhead should be included in this region, then the regional tournaments could be held at the Concordia College fieldhouse. Very adequate.

But in the meantime the tourneys are being held at North Dakota, and better treatment and courtesies to the players and fans could not be wished. And these accommodations are provided the district and regional tournament committees for free. Do you realize that the University of Minnesota demands its "pound of flesh" from the Minnesota High School League for the use of the Williams arena for the state high school cage tournament? The fee, we hear, is about ten per cent. This Twin City writer could make some comment on that.

And another "rebound." One of the metropolitan sports writers, in commenting on the performance of the Bemidji Lumberjacks against Minneapolis Roosevelt, referred to the Jacks' play as being "hopped up." Hopped up, like fun!

The point is, the Bemidji team came within a field goal try, and they just missed the shot, of defeating the heavily-favored Roosevelt team in a first round game on Thursday afternoon. It was somewhat humiliating for the Twin City writers to have Roosevelt played on even terms.

But to call Bemidji's play "hopped up" is unfair. Those of us in the eighth region who, year in and year out, are forced to live with the Lumberjacks, can assure that writer that "hopped up" play is a rule with Bemidji.

Over the Hog Line

While this has been anything but curling weather, the boys with the tams and the brooms have been continuing to "sweep the ice," and the Grand Forks Curling club's 61-rink bonspiel, which was concluded on Sunday evening, was rated an overwhelming success. The spiel was held on the artificial ice sheet of the Winter Sports Building on the UND campus, so the weather didn't prove to be a factor.

The Don Gray rink of Minto won the championship event, defeating the Cece Pooles rink of Winnipeg in the finals. What made this win noteworthy was the fact that the Gray rink was skipped by Garnett Campbell. And who is Garnett Campbell? He is one of the four curling Campbell brothers of Avonlea, Sask., and their rink is becoming a legend in Canadian curling circles.

The four brothers — Lloyd, Don, Glen, and Garnett — won the McDonald Briar trophy, the symbol of the Canadian curling championship, in 1955, and this past year they were the runners-up to the winning Matt Baldwin rink of Edmonton.

The brothers, although they are only in their 30's and early 40's, are veteran curlers. Their father set up a curling rink on the home farm while the boys were in their teen's. Being strictly wheat farmers, and farming large acreages, the boys are able to concentrate on curling during the long winter months.

It added plenty to the prestige of the Grand Forks bonspiel to be able to attract such a curler as Garnett Campell. He's one of the best.

The local curlers will put the "night cap" on their season tomorrow, Friday, night when they hold their annual meeting. The get-together will be held at the Elks Club, and will start at 8:00 p. m.

Miscellany.

Minnesota and North Dakota continue to express an interest in Jack Poole, one of the Prowlers' all-staters of 1956. Mary Jorde, a member of the Prowlers of 1954 and now a letter-winner at Minnesota, stated that Gopher coach John Mariucci would like to have Jack attend Minnesota. Mariucci added that Jack would be eligible for a scholarship under the Big Ten's new "aid" plan. And of course the North Dakota Sioux have had a scholarship awaiting Jackie for quite awhile. Jack spent this past season with the Rochester Mustangs, and this added hockey experience should make him a more valuable college prospect.—Joey Poole, a highly-regarded member of this past season's North Dakota hockey squad, is trying out for coach Pinky Kraft's North Dakota U baseball team. In the early season practice session, coach Kraft has Joey playing at third base.

Social Security Unit Advises Protecting Disability Rights

People who have become unable to work because of severe and long-lasting disabilities have a new type of protection under the social security law, but according to the Bureau of Old-Age and Survivors Insurance, which administers the new provisions, many are not applying for their rights.

For many disabled people, failure to file an application with their social security district offices before the end of June will mean the loss of all their social security disability protection, and for some it will also mean the loss of their rights to any old-age and survivors insurance benefits for themselves and their families in the future. Should a disabled worker die without having filed an application to protect his social security disability rights, the survivors benefits payable to his family under the social security law may be greatly reduced.

The Bureau says that an estimated 700,000 severely disabled men and women in the country have worked long enough under social security to be eligible to have their social security records frozen under a 1954 provision in the law. When a disabled workers record is frozen, the years when his disability keeps him from working are not counted against him in figuring the social security benefits due him in the future or payable to his family in case of his death. Of the 700,000, about 400,000 people—those between 50 and 65 years of age—are eligible for monthly disability insurance benefits beginning with July.

Although social security district offices have been accepting applications from disabled workers since January 1, 1955, the Bureau reports that many of those eligible have not yet applied. Under the law, workers who were already disabled were given 2½ years to apply to protect their social security rights. After June 30, 1957, the end of that 2½ year period, an application will be effective to freeze a workers social security record for no more than one year back.

A disabled person must meet certain work requirements at the beginning of his official "period of disability." He must have social security credit for at least 5 out of 10 years before he became disabled, and at least a year and a half of the credit must have been earned in the three years just before his official "period of disability" began.

If application for the "disability freeze" is not made before June 30, 1957, many disabled workers may no longer meet these work requirements at the beginning of the earliest "period of disability" which can be entered on their social security records. In this case, they would not be eligible to have their social security records frozen, and in addition, they would be ineligible to receive monthly disability insurance benefits at age 50. These disabled workers would have to wait until regular retirement age to receive any social security benefits and those benefits would be reduced because the years in which they were unable to work would lower the average earnings upon which their social security benefits are based. For some younger workers, delay in making application might also mean a complete loss of all social security benefit rights.

Disabled workers who believe they are eligible under these disability provisions should contact the social security district office at Grand Forks, N. D.

4-H Girls Win Speaking Honors

Estrid Baldwin, 19, McGregor, (left) and Mary Winter, 16, Redwood Falls, are two Minnesota 4-H club members who excel in writing and speaking.

The two girls won reserve and championship honors, respectively, in the statewide 4-H radio speaking contest sponsored by the University of Minnesota Agricultural Extension Service and the Minnesota Jewish Council. Nearly 700 4-H'ers took part in this year's contest.

Miss Winter received a cash prize of $200, in addition to $50 to buy books for her public or school library. Miss Baldwin received a cash award of $100 and $25 for books. She will present the books to the McGregor high school library.

Donor of the awards was the Minnesota Jewish Council.

Both girls wrote and gave original speeches on the subject "How the International Farm Youth Exchange Program Builds Better World Understanding."

Taxpayers over Age 65 Get Special Deal on Medical Expenses

(This is the second in a series of questions and answers on Income Tax. These articles are made available as a public service by the Minnesota State Bar Association's Public Relations Committee.)

Q. I became 65 years of age a month before the close of the taxable year. Is there any special concession made to me for medical expenses under the federal income tax law?

A. Yes. Ordinarily taxpayers can't deduct medical expenses on their federal income tax return unless the amount exceeds 3% of what is called their "adjusted gross income". However, as long as you became 65 before the end of the taxable year you may deduct all of your medical expenses up to $2500. If you file a joint return with your wife, you may deduct a total of $5,000. Your wife need not be 65 years old.

Q. Will my medical expenses include drugs and medicines in addition to hospital and doctor bills?

A. Yes, but only to the extent that such drugs and medicines exceed 1% of the adjusted gross income. This 1% exclusion applies to all taxpayers, whether or not they have attained the age of 65.

Q. My adjusted gross income in 1956 was $4,000. Medical and dental expenses amounted to $200 and drugs and medicines were $100. What would be my deductible medical expense?

A. Your deductible medical expense would be $260. 1% of the $4,000 (or $40) would be deducted from the drugs and medicines of $100, leaving $60 to be added to the $200 in medical and dental expenses. Therefore you could deduct $260 as a total medical expense.

In a case where the taxpayer and his wife are under 65, the 3% of $4,000 (or $120) would also have to be deducted from the $260, leaving $140 as a deductible medical expense.

LONG FORWARD STEP

By the action of the city council, contracting with the Minnkota Power Cooperative, arrangements have now been completed for purchase and delivery of Missouri river power to our city. Thinking in terms of the long-range future, this is an important forward step in the development of Thief River Falls.

There was a time when a small plant, serving a local need, provided a satisfactory power service at a comparatively low cost. Now, as in so many other fields of production, the small plant has become an inefficient unit. The lower production cost of large plants, strategically located, more than offset the added cost of transmitting electric energy long distances.

Under the terms of the contracts the city has entered into Missouri river power will become available on a firm basis on January 1, 1959, at a cost of about three-fourths of a cent per kwh delivered here. Prior to that time surplus Missouri river power may be made available to the city at a lower cost. This would be during the periods of heavy run-off.

In the meantime, starting in October of this year, Minnkota will make power available to the city at a cost of one cent per kwh, plus a $1,500 a month charge for sub-station rental.

These costs will be substantially lower than the present production costs of our municipal plant. Fuel oil alone costs about one cent per kwh and in recent years engine costs, and maintenance expense, have taken a big share of another cent.

To whatever extent our municipal plant has been profitable, the profit has been in the sale of power and not in its production. Under the new arrangements, the city retains the profitable end of this business, which should become still more profitable as power is purchased at wholesale for less than it costs to produce in our own plant.

It will take time for the benefits of this better operation to be felt by consumers and taxpayers. Old obligations still must be met. The city's distributing system needs extension and improvement to meet the steadily increasing demands of a growing community.

But we are moving in the right direction, towards a better and a lower cost light and power service. These are tremendously important factors in the development of any community.

OFF TO A GOOD START

The amendment approved by the voters in the last general election authorizing a new formula for the distribution of highway funds, gave to the legislature the responsibility for enacting into law the specific rules governing this distribution. There has been some concern as to how the legislature would interpret this new constitutional directive.

The House has approved a bill which indicates that the state will follow closely the pattern recommended by the sponsors of the amendment and that is as it should be. It was on the strength of these recommendations, based on a thorough study of the problems involved, that the amendment was adopted, and the legislature is morally obligated to follow through with this plan.

As we gain experience under the new formula we probably will find need for changes. These are problems that we can dispose of as they develop. The important thing is to enact into law the rules that will make possible the program as it was presented to the voters and that apparently is being done.

LABOR'S WORST ENEMY

Dave Beck, boss of the Teamsters' union, has predicted that within six months the average man on the street will have forgotten the hearings that now are attracting nation-wide attention. Maybe he is right. In six months the mighty Mr. Beck himself may be a forgotten man.

But the present disclosures of racketeering will have a wholesome effect within the ranks of organized labor for a long time to come. "Beck's Bad Boys" and their record of corruption in the management of the affairs of the Teamsters' union will not be forgotten in the circles where such things are important.

Every activity has its parasite and organized labor is going to benefit by the eradication of Dave Beck and his racketeers. They and their kind are organized labor's worst enemy.

TAX PROPOSAL VERY UNCERTAIN

(Park Region Echo)

The state legislature and the governor seem to be getting into a situation where the split is becoming larger and larger by the day. While the governor's tax "package" had the early endorsement of prominent citizens and organizations as well as some of the bigger newspapers of the state, the legislative members, conservative as well as liberal, are not giving the governor much support in getting the proposed tax methods enacted.

The governor possibly was overenthused regarding the tax proposals which the interim committee had studied and brought out. The tax "package" has not as yet been introduced in the house and more than half of the session is already gone.

The governor has alluded to the tax plan as bi-partisan but that seems to have stirred up opposition. Neither the liberals nor the conservatives state they have been consulted about the tax program or parts of it.

Therefore, just now what the possible outcome of the tax battle will be is very much of an uncertainty.

WHAT CLASSROOM SHORTAGE?

(Ceylon Herald)

A federal government survey of the school situation has been called an exaggerated report of alleged classroom shortages. The drive for massive federal aid to education has been based largely on such hysteria which we suspect is generated chiefly by the empire-builders in government bureaus as a means of retaining and enlarging their jobs.

If one will take time to drive around our state, for example, it will be noted that many towns, small and large, are building school additions or have recently done so. In Duluth there is reported to be a surplus of classroom space. And yet, we hear no word of protest from our able senators in Washington against grandiose federal aid plans that will take away from these sturdy, independent communities the initiative to be responsible for betterment of their own schools; we hear little fear expressed that federal aid means eventual end of local control of hometown schools; all we hear is the blatant exaggerated and vague nonsense about alleged lack of class rooms.

We would much prefer to see our congressmen defending our genuine interests instead of repeating the vote-catching prattle about the so-called need for federal aid to (and control over) education.

The Legislature

By Orlin Folwick

St. Paul—Governor Freeman's proposal to have a "people's lobby" take a hand in legislative deliberations to force his program through probably has cost him all chances of a successful association with the state legislature.

The governor announced his plan of calling for this "lobby" the same day his big tax bill went into the legislature. Lawmakers in both houses resented the proposal, interpreting it as an effort by the governor to put pressure upon them before they could even have a look at the bulky bill, which runs into more than 100 pages.

Confusion Everywhere

No legislator as yet has been able to build a concrete picture out of the governor's spending and taxing proposals. Figures compiled by groups in and out of the legislature vary from the $25,000,000 increase in the 1957-1959 budget over that for 1955-1957 announced by the governor, to nearly $154,000,000 in increases when all of his spending proposals have been lumped together.

Only a comparatively few copies of the big tax bill were made available when it was introduced. Hence, many legislators complain that they have no chance to do their own research on its proposals or check the figures supplied by the governor.

Ten-Year Increase

Where the legislators, particularly the independent group in the senate, part company with the governor on this most important subject is in the area covering proposed expenditures and the governor's contention that his tax bill will save taxpayers more the $21,000,000 the next two years. The fact that figures on proposed expenditures go higher than what the governor told the legislature leads the senate independents to want a through study before they approve or disapprove the bill.

The senate tax committee, headed by Senator Donald O. Wright of Minneaolis, has made a study of the four major appropriations bills and has come up with this comparison with the appropriatons of ten years ago:

Recommended by the governor for the 1957-1959 period: $383,861,000. The appropriation for the 1947-1949 period was $156,751,000. The current figures, according to the committee compilation, represent an increase of nearly 147 per cent for the ten-year period.

The figures show further that the 1957 increase over 1955 is 18 per cent, compared with an increase in 1953 of less than 10 per cent.

Job Is In Senate's Hands

These studies, along with others that have been made since the appropriations bills began coming in, have caused considerable concern among the independent senators. It is they who will have to bring the appropriations and tax bills into balance. The governor's followers in the house, having control of that body, have disclosed already that they will whip through without much deliberation any bill backed by the governor or the labor unions. Hence, the resentment at the governor's declaration that he will call for a people's lobby to push his program through. The senators know he means them for this pressure plan.

Old timers in the legislature recall a "people's lobby" in 1937 which came to the capitol to assist former Governor Elmer Benson in getting his program over. The situation then was the same as now—a liberal house and independent senate. This "lobby" was quickly taken over by Communists, who drove senators out of the chamber and took over. They invaded committee sessions and threatened a number of senators with bodily harm if they didn't pass the legislation they demanded at once.

Could Save More

One of the questions asked around the capitol corridors concerns what the governor would do in the event of a court case involving his bills. Since government is composed of legislative, administrative and judical branches, each independent of the others, many legislators wonder if the governor as he is seeking in the legislature.

Another factor is the governor's contention his tax bill will save more, than $21,000,000. Independent senators say that it may be possible to spare his spending proposals to the point where more than his estimates could be saved. Would the governor object, they ask, to greater savings for the taxpayers? On the other hand, the confusing picture of spending proposals and tax savings might actually wind up with considerably less savings than the governor estimates, which would leave him in an embarrassing position later on.

What About 1959

Further, many legislators see the possibility of a much higher tax demand on the state in the 1959 session if all of the governor's proposals go through. The governor could be re-elected for another two-year term and step out of office when the new tax road would descend, leaving a new governor and the legislators who followed his suggestions holding the bag.

Further Details on Farm Conservation Program This Year

Continuing the report on various phases of farm practices permitted under the 1957 Agricultural Conservation program, as announced by P. W. Culkins, office manager of the Pennington county ASC.

C-9. Constructing permanent open drainage systems to dispose of excess water — Federal cost-sharing may not be authorized for ditches which are constructed or maintained by a regular drainage district or for material moved in cleaning or maintaining a ditch. Federal cost-sharing will not be allowed for ditches, if the primary purpose is to bring land into production which has not had a crop other than wild hay harvested there from since 1953. In the installation of drainage systems, due consideration shall be given to the maintenance of wildlife habitat.

Detailed specifications and design information for the installation of this practice are contained in "Specifications for Conservation Practices" prepared by the Soil Conservation Service, which is on file with the County Committee. It should be used as a guide to obtain the most efficient installation.

To qualify for cost-sharing, field ditches for removal of surface water must have:

(1) Minimum depth of channel below ground level of at least 9 inches.

(2) Side slope of 4:1 or flatter.

(3) Average bottom width of at least 4 feet.

(4) Excavated earth shall in so far as practical be spread over a sufficiently wide area and in such a manner that natural drainage to the ditch will not be impeded. Otherwise, the spreading operation must be completed no later than the end of the following program year.

(5) Sufficient capacity to remove the normal excess surface water from the area drained in a period of time satisfactory for the type of crops to be grown.

Federal cost-sharing for seeding and fertilizing the ditch banks may be approved under Practice C-2.

Maximum Federal cost-share: $0.05 per cubic yard of earth moved.

D-1 Establishment of vegetative cover for winter protection from erosion.—A good stand and growth must be obtained in sufficient time to protect the area in the fall and winter of 1957 and must be maintained on the land until the spring of 1958. Pasturing consistent with good management may be permitted but none of the growth may be harvested for hay or seed. A seeding of at least 3 pecks per acre is required. Volunteer stands will not qualify for cost-sharing. Where rye is seeded, it must be incorporated into the soil by June 15, 1958.

Maximum Federal cost-share: (a) Oats—$0.35 per acre. (b) Barley or rye—$0.55 per acre.

E-1. Stubble mulching to improve soil permeability and to protect soil from wind and water erosion.—One of the primary purposes of this practice is to encourage stubble mulching of land from which crops, other than legumes and grasses, have been harvested, rather than having such land fall plowed and left unprotected from wind and water erosion over winter. A stubble mulch must be maintained by performing tillage operations which will leave sufficient crop residue on the surface or mixed in the upper part of the soil to provide protection against wind and water erosion. No Federal cost-sharing will be allowed if the acreage has been burned over or grazed.

Maximum Federal cost-share: $0.50 per acre.

Highway Patrol Assignments Are Listed by Chief

Three changes in assignments for Minnesota highway patrol captains were announced today by Chief Paul R. Martz. The changes were made following the promotion of two sergeants to that rank.

Captain Neil F. Deemer, 881 South Cleveland Ave., St. Paul, has been assigned to Rochester to fill the vacancy caused by the promotion of Leo M. Smith to assistant chief. Deemer has been operations and training officer stationed at St. Paul and was formerly stationed at Crookston.

Captain Lawrence W. Nelson has been transferred from Willmar to St. Paul to become operations and training officer. Nelson has served in the Aitkin district prior to his transfer to Willmar.

Captain Thomas M. Gilpin has been transferred from Detroit Lakes to Virginia. Sgt. Harlan Fredeen formerly in charge at Virginia has been transferred to the St. Paul headquarters.

The officers are currently instructors in the Minnesota highway patrol candidate training school in operation at Camp Ripley, near Little Falls, which will continue until April 26. Captain Deemer is also director of the school.

Bond Chairman

Secretary of the Treasury last week announced the appointment of Arnulf Ueland, president of Midland National Bank of Minneapolis, Minn., as volunteer state chairman of the Minnesota savings bonds committee. He succeeds Henry S. Kingman, president of the Farmers and Mechanics Savings Bank of Minneapolis, who served as state chairman for three years.

Mr. Ueland was born in Minneapolis in 1895. Upon his return in 1919 from World War I service as 1st lieutenant with the Field Artillery, he began his banking career with the Midland National Bank. He was made vice-president and director in 1932, becoming president in 1942.

Radio Station Is Set for Grafton

Plans for a 250 watt radio station at Grafton to serve northeastern North Dakota were announced Thursday at the Grafton Chamber of Commerce meeting. Representatives of the radio company, John Morgan and Clayton Matheson, announced that engineering is complete and application will be made shortly to the Federal Communication commission for a frequency allotment at 1340 kcs.

The heavy cruiser USS Toledo has steamed enough miles since her commissioning in 1946 to have sailed around the world 10 times.

Cattle Feeders' Day Friday, April 5, at N.W. School

Results of Feeding Tests Conducted This Winter to Be Detailed

Friday, April 5, has been set as Cattle Feeders' Day at the Northwest School at Crookston.

Feeders are invited to participate in the afternoon program which will feature prominent authorities in their fields. Robert Jacobs, extension animal husbandman from the University of Minnesota, will present data on the feeding of silage, pelleted grain and stilbestrol to weanling calves and yearling steers. Ole Kolari, research specialist in beef cattle nutrition at the University of Minnesota, will discuss the over-all beef research program at the University of Minnesota and its experiment stations.

D. Reimer, animal husbandman, Northwest School and Experiment Station, in charge of the cattle feeding trials, will present the results of the 1956-57 trials and conduct the tour of the feeding pens. Twenty-four steers in four lots of six steers each were fed different rations to determine the value of feeding pelleted grain, and to determine what benefits stilbestrol will give in various types of rations.

The program will be held in the Library, Kiehle Building, on the Northwest School and Experiment Station campus, beginning at 1:30 p.m. The meeting is open to the public.

Fosston to Hold Diamond Jubilee

Planning Elaborate Program for June, 1958

Fosston will celebrate its diamond anniversary and Minnesota's statehood centennial in a four-day celebration, June 26, 27, 28, and 29, 1958. The dates were set at a recent meeting of the Fosston Community Club and chairmen of the committee to arrange the event were named.

Combined with the celebration will be the 55th anniversary homecoming of the Fosston High School Alumni association and a golden anniversary observance by the Farmers State Bank.

Committees covering every activity of the four-day event have been named and several of them have already held meetings to plan for the celebration. Parades, which will depict the early history of the state and community, and feature the 55 graduating classes from the high school, will be held. Other activities are to be arranged to insure a full program for each of the four days.

New Span to Join Duluth-Superior

Bureau of Public Roads Approves New Bridge

Start of construction on the new interstate bridge between Duluth and Superior next year loomed as a distinct possibility today, according to State Highway Commissioner M. J. Hoffmann, following approval late last week by the Bureau of Public Roads of a high-level four-lane span. Cost of the structure is estimated, will be in the neighborhood of $20,000,000.

Originally designed as a two-lane bridge, with a 100-foot clearance over St. Louis bay, objections were voiced by navigation proponents that a greater clearance would be necessary with the completion of the St. Lawrence seaway, which will enable ocean-going vessels to dock at Duluth-Superior harbor facilities.

The Clearance over the navigational channel was subsequently set at 120 feet by the Corps of Engineers, which would have resulted in higher grades on approaches. This situation, it was felt, would be inavisable for the volume of traffic expected to use this interstate crossing. Minnesota and Wisconsin highway department officials then submitted a request that a four-lane crossing by approved, with the Bureau's action of last week clearing this latest obstacle besetting this long-delayed project.

Because it is on an interstate highway, 90 per cent of the bridge construction costs will be borne by the Federal government, with Minnesota and Wisconsin sharing the remaining 10 per cent.

State Communities Share in Benefits of Red Cross Program

Every community in Minnesota shares in the benefits of a strong Red Cross, George Vavoulis, Minnesota vice-chairman of the National American Red Cross fund, said this week.

Urging completion of the state campaign for $1,800,000, Mr. Vavoulis said that many citizens are unaware of the work of the Red Cross in their towns.

"With chapters in every county, Red Cross programs reach and help everyone. Police and firemen are Red Cross trained in first aid. Our industries have Red Cross safety programs. Truck drivers on our highways protect our lives by being Red Cross trained to give first aid when accidents occur," the chairman pointed out.

"Our children are trained in water safety at most of our 10,000 lake beaches. They learn community service through the Junior Red Cross. Our wives and mothers are taught what to do in an emergency through home nursing instruction.

"There is a Red Cross field director wherever American servicemen are stationed around the world. The long arm of the Red Cross keeps the Armed Forces close to home through AMCROSS, a wire service linking field directors to every Red Cross chapter at home.

"Most of Minnesota participates in the Red Cross blood program which meets the needs of a million and a half of our citizens when they are ill or injured and need blood to save their lives.

"It's comforting to know that the Red Cross is on the job whenever disaster strikes. Disaster relief is a traditional service of the American Red Cross."

Mr. Vavoulis urged every citizen to contribute generously before March is out. Last year 508,564 Minnesotans gave a total of $1,080,050 in the March campaign.

After the bleakness of winter comes Spring. Fulfilling a promise of long ago, the seasons follow one another in divinely planned succession.

All around us we see evidence that evil prevails throughout the world, but the Church gives positive assurance that God is ever present. As Spring brings new life to nature so God, through the Church, brings more abundant life to human beings.

Consider the daffodil—its freshness and beauty speak of hope. Consider the Church—its steadfast faith reaches out to undergird and strengthen mankind. God creates daffodils without our help, but intelligent cultivation makes them even more beautiful. Likewise, He depends on us to work in His Church, helping to spread its influence, to broadcast its message, to make a better world.

Let us accept this tremendous challenge and become a part of God's Church today.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Bill Would Revise Judicial Districts

A bill to reduce the number of judicial districts in the state from 19 to 10 was recommended for passage Wednesday by the Senate judiciary committee.

The redistricting was necessary following adoption of the judicial amendment at the November election. The amendment required that there be at least two judges in each district.

The bill makes no change in the number of district judges, which is 57.

Under the bill, the present judicial district which includes Polk, Norman, Marshall, Kittson, Red Lake, Roseau, Pennington and Mahnomen would be incorporated into a district including also Aitkin, Itasca, Crow Wing, Hubbard, Beltrami, Lake of the Woods, Clearwater, Cass and Koochiching counties.

Contracts Awarded for St. John's Edifice

In a special meeting Friday evening St. John's Lutheran congregation voted to accept the low bids for construction of a new church edifice and to begin construction work as soon as possible. The general construction contract was awarded the Ranum Construction Company of Thief River Falls. Helgeset, Inc. will do the plumbing and heating work, Lawrence W. Best the electrical work, and the Falls Decorators, the painting. All are local firms. The congregation voted a number of changes, postponements and omissions in the plans in order to bring the total cost within available funds. The contracts which were awarded amount to $121,631.00

The new church will replace the 47-year old structure at the corner of St. Paul Av. S. and Hughes st., which has been sold to Our Savior's Lutheran church. St. John's congregation will continue to use the old building on a temporary basis by arranging its schedule in such a way that both congregations can carry on their programs.

The new St. John's church will be located on half a block of property at First Street and Pine av., near Highway 59.

Next Sunday, April 7, at 10:45 A. M. official groundbreaking ceremonies will be conducted by the congregation's membership, and construction work will begin immediately.

The building committee of St. John's Church is made up of George Busse, chairman; Elmer Andersen, Chris Anton, Bruno Beiswenger, Fred Koop, Walter Monroe and the Rev. A. C. Seltz, pastor. Foss and Company of Moorhead are the architects.

Fountain Cafe to Open Shortly in Larger Quarters

Moving from LaBree av. to Quarters in Welch Building on E. Third

After nearly nine years at 211 LaBree av. N. the Fountain Cafe has been moved to new quarters in the Welch building on East Third st. where more room is available in both kitchen and eating areas, according to J. O. "Chuck" Botten, owner.

Botten said he expects to announce the opening date about Thursday. While his equipment has been moved from the old Fountain location he is still waiting for painters and equipment installation crews to finish their work.

The newly remodeled portion of the Welch building that will house the Fountain provides a dining area 21 by 57 feet, compared to less than half that at the former location, Botten said. The kitchen area will be 21 by 28 feet, also more than twice the area formerly available.

The new Fountain will provide 18 stools, 12 booths and six tables for patrons. The interior will be pleasantly modern, Botten stated, with washrooms for patrons' convenience.

The new Fountain will adjoin Paint and Glass Supply, which has also been undergoing renovations in the Welch building.

Grundy's Office Supply has taken over the former Fountain location and will remodel the interior of the building to allow for expansion of that firm's facilities.

Lower House Passes Bill to Reapportion

Big Pay Increase Proposed for State Officials, Judges

The Bergerud reapportionment bill, which calls for immediate redistricting of legislative districts, was passed late Friday by the Minnesota House of Representatives.

The vote was 68-61, or two votes more than the required 66. It now goes to the Senate.

Bergerud's bill reapportions the House membership on a basis of 131 seats, same as at present, and reduces the Senate's 67 seats by four, to 63.

Rep. Alfred Bergerud of Minneapolis told the lawmakers that the Constitution has not been obeyed sonce 1913. The Constitution calls for reapportionment after every federal census on the basis of population in the House and Senate.

Thursday the House passed the Iverson - Jensen reapportionment bill, which puts up to the voters at the 1958 general election the question of whether to reapportion. That bill, however, calls for redistricting on a basis of area and population in the House and population alone in the Senate.

State constitutional officers, supreme court judges and district court judges would get big pay boosts under terms of bills introduced Friday in the Minnesota legislature.

The measures, offered in both house and senate, call for the following increases:

Governor, from $15,000 to $23,000 a year; attorney general, $15,000 to $22,500; state auditor, $11,000 to $17,500; secretary of state, $11,000 to $16,000; treasurer, $11,000 to $16,000.

Supreme court chief judge, from $16,000 to $23,5000; associate supreme court judges, from $15,000 to $22,500.

District judges would go from $11,700 to $17,500, and judges in a district in a county of more than 200,000 population would continue to get an extra $1,500 from the county.

Backers of the bills said the measures are aimed at keeping a "proper relationship" between salaries of state employes, department heads and elected officials.

Bills already have been introduced calling for pay increases for employes and department heads.

Area Vocational School Future Is Discussed Friday

School Officials Tell of Expanded List of Courses to Be Offered

Plans for the future development of the Thief River Falls area vocational school were discussed Friday evening at a meeting of school officials and faculty members with more than 20 lay people.

He also stated that information concerning the school is being sent out to 39 high schools in Northwestern Minnesota to inform members of this year's graduating class of the facilities available here.

Paul Anderson, secondary school director, outlined the courses it is proposed to offer in the vocational school next fall, including auto mechanics, radio and electronics, practical nursing, farm management, farm shop, commercial, carpentry and hair dressing and beauty culture.

Air Force Reserve Unit to Get Uniforms

In a directive received this week by 1st Lt. V. M. Draper, commander of Flight E, 9749th Air Reserve squadron in Thief River Falls, Col. R. T. Nichols, commander of the 2655th Air Reserve center, Minneapolis, stated that after July 1 all air reservists will wear uniforms to meetings regardless of whether they are taking general or specialized training in the reserve program.

Colonel Nichols' directive emphasized that the new uniform regulation was just another step in making every air reservist an integral part of the Air Force under the recently adopted Match-Merge program, under which each reservist will fill a slot with an active Air Force unit, to be filled by the individual reservists whenever needed in the case of a national emergency.

The Match-Merge program is being implemented at present be assigned to an active unit and all reservists are expected to be merged with active units within the next year or so.

The new uniform regulation will come into effect when Flight E resumes meetings in September after a two-month layoff in July and August. Uniforms will not be required during the present semester's training, Lt. Draper said.

In the past only those Air Force reservists enrolled in specialized training courses were required to attend meetings in uniform. After July 1 all reserve meetings, whether general or specialized, will be formal and require wearing of the full uniform before attendance credit can be given.

Members of the Air Force reserve who have joined their units after serving active duty within the past two years are not likely to be affected financially, as most of those have their uniforms from their active duty service.

However, reserve veterans, and especially officers, of World War II will be required to procure a complete new uniform. M/Sgt. Vern B. Hanson will attend the meeting of Flight E Monday, April 5, to explain the new regulation. All members and prospective members of Flight E are urged to attend this important meeting, Draper stated.

It pays Times readers well to read the grocery and other advertisements in each issue. They will save you money.

OUR LAND

Prepared by the Minnesota Soil Conservation Service
In cooperation with University Farm, St. Paul

Conservation Helps

Henry Schumann, Stewartville, applied a complete soil and water conservation plan to his 160 acre farm in 1950. Here's the result as Schumann tells it: "The first year it took 8 rows to fill my wagon box. This year I am filling the same wagon box from three rows." A cooperator in the Upper Zumbro soil conservation district, Schumann credits his success to contouring, improved rotations, and correct soil treatment.

• • •

Can Improve Land

A farm, like a factory, needs 12 months of good management every year, says Adolph Barke, Fairmont, a cooperator in the Martin county soil conservation district. "We keep a lot of livestock all through the year and find it helps the land. We feed the crops to the stock and haul plenty of manure back to the fields. Then most of the fertility remains on the land the crop yields are high without buying large amounts of fertilizer."

• • •

Farm Ponds Important

Arnold Wiebüsch, Goodhue county soil conservation agent says 28 farm ponds have been constructed in one 4-mile-square area in Goodhue county. Each pond has stopped at least one gully. Also, each pond is storing run-off water from areas up to 50 acres, and most ponds are accessible to farm animals and wildlife. The Dale Flueger and H. C. Meyer and Sons farms have six ponds each. Ervin Fitschen has four, William Juncke has two and Hi-Park farm has two. Vincent Deden, Floyd Stngel, Hilbert Stumpf, Bob Grosse, LeVerne Fanslow, May and Maude Kohn, Charles Khufuss, and Arthur Schilling have one each.

Erosion Eats Away Topsoil

Ralph Nordstrom, soil conservationist with the Jackson county soil conservation district, reports that in one case it was necessary to dig 8 feet to find a tile outlet. When installed, the outlet was only four feet deep. Erosion from hillsides had piled up an additional four feet—all precious topsoil.

Shootin' the Breeze

BY Mack Draper

We journalists are being "picked on" again. Tother day the President and his retinue of plainclothesmen, newspapermen and all were on their way to Gettysburg, and from the sound of things they were really whooping it up, doing as high as 80 m.p.h. on some stretches.

Well, this patrolman didn't stop Ike—but he did stop a carfull of newspapermen to tongue-lash them, before escorting them to the next county line, where his jurisdiction ended.

When the fellows in the press car complained, the policeman (note—we don't use the word "cop" in this column!) in answer to their query about why he didn't stop the big black car at the head of the column, said "He's got four bodyguards up there with him."

Which, of course, doesn't put him in a very good light. But, even so, the President, if we're not badly mistaken, is immune to arrest—and a warning probably would have brought forth four real business-like secret service men and the policeman, not the driver or President, would have been on the defensive—and how! That's neither here nor there, however.

The question we'd like to ask is this; are the people who make and enforce our laws any the less subject to these laws than those under them? What's your opinion?

On the other hand, our traffic laws could be made a litle more realistic. For instance, the top speed allowed on the road from Washington to Gettysburg is 55 m.p.h. regardless of type or condition of road. Why not increase the limit a little?

Let's face it—some of our traffic laws are as obsolete as some of the roads we have to travel on!

A very interesting column in Saturday's Minneapolis Tribune was that on "Momism" Is Here to Stay" by this fellow Charles Guthrie, of the Trib editorial page staff.

He tells of the different reasons that make it practically impossible for Pop to grab the family reins and be boss. Mom does this, that and the other thing around the home and around town, reducing Pop's role in the family to meal ticket and provider, little more.

Small wonder—Pop's job is so demanding and all that. Between all the new methods Pop's employer has devised to work Pop practically every day in the week (thus circumventing the whole gamut of labor laws) and the fact that Pop often has to drive up to 60 miles or more to get to work every day, he's too tired to be much more than a meal ticket at any time. And, he probably feels like a pretty-well frayed meal ticket, at that.

Of course we could put an absolute limit on the hours a man can work (on a salary or by the hour) each week—even at time-and-a-half, double time or even triple time—and restrict the number of conferences a man must attend in any given week, (whether on his own time or his employers) and put a very rigid limit on the number of organizations that are allowed in any given community to take up his free time with fund drives, etc.; then, perhaps, Pop would have more time to spend being the head of the family in fact as well as on the Form 1040a.

He could make the kids walk to school, instead of having Mom drive 'em there. And, instead of turning his pay over to Ma each week or month, he could give her so much for pin money and groceries and take care of the rest of the family buying himself.

This, alone, might result in Mom and the kids being more dependent on the Old Man for more of life's necessities—and probably would cause them to be considerably more respectful of him.

At least, back in the days when Pop cracked the whip we didn't have nearly as much juvenile delinquency as today when Ma bundles the kids off to kindergarten as soon as possible to get them out of her hair and does little disciplining after that.

If Pop were around the home to boss things a little more nowadays we feel a lot of our problems might be solved.

The Lord said, "Give unto Caesar that which is Caesar's. . ." We just wonder if Caesar was as grabby as the income tax collector is these days.

Well—April 10, the average date of the river break-up is only nine days away. Do you think the ice will go out by then? Here's hoping for some warmer weather soon! So, Long!

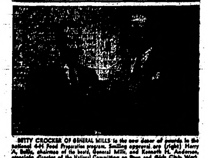
New Donor of 4-H Awards



BETTY CROCKER OF GENERAL MILLS is the new donor of awards in the national 4-H Food Preparation program. Smiling approval are (right) Harry A. Bullis, chairman of the board, General Mills, and Kenneth H. Anderson, associate director of the National Committee on Boys and Girls Club Work, Chicago, which completed the arrangements. The 4-H program is conducted by the Extension Service of the University of Minnesota with the cooperation of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

$400 Scholarships To Top Winners

Awards worth $17,000 will be offered 4-H Club members this year by Betty Crocker of General Mills, new donor of awards in the national 4-H Food Preparation program, according to an announcement made by the National Committee on Boys and Girls Club Work.

Judged on their records of accomplishment, 4-H'ers will be eligible for the following: six national $400 college scholarships; an all-expense trip to the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago for each of the 48 state winners; gold-filled medals for the top four in each county. It is estimated that as many as 10,000 medals of honor will be pinned on deserving 4-H'ers completing the food preparation project.

"At General Mills we cherish the opportunity to be a part of 4-H," said Board Chairman Harry A. Bullis. "Through the years we have endeavored to help in various ways. Now our major effort will be focused on the food preparation project."

Last year in Minnesota, 14,000 Club members between the ages of 10 and 21 years enrolled in the program, and in the 48 states a total of 600,000 participated. The purpose of the program is to develop leadership qualities as well as skills in preparing and serving meals.

The youthful cooks "learn by doing" which is the 4-H way. Along with meal planning they are taught to utilize home grown products and to buy foods wisely. They also learn to appreciate that proper eating habits acquired now are a prerequisite of good health.

Detailed information regarding enrollment in the project can be obtained from the State or county Extension office.

CHATTING with your HOME AGENT

Marge Olsen

Beef and eggs will be among the most abundant foods and bestbuys during April. Homemakers may want to have turkey for their Easter Diner, since turkey supplies are much larger than usual at this season. This is the very first year that turkeys have been classed as plentiful in the spring. The birds are available in all sizes at attractive prices.

Supplies of milk are expected to continue to be generous, as well as cheese and nonfat dry milk.

For Lenten dishes, navy and red kidney beans will be plentiful, as will rice, peanuts and peanut butter.

You will find food stores in April well supplied with two canned foods, beets and sweet corn, from the record packs of both crops last sumer and falls. Potatoes will be abundant all month—both old potatoes harvested last fall and new ones from the South and from California.

Fruits listed as plentiful are canned purple plums and dried prunes in all sizes except extra large.

One of the skills younger members of the family can acquire is setting a neat and attractive table in order to give pleasure to the family who eats around it.

This skill is one of many 4-H'ers develop and learn in the homemaking assistance project.

The experience in selecting and arranging linens, silver, dishes, glassware and a centerpiece for an orderly, attractive table, is good future training for a 4-H girl.

Most meals today are quite informal and table setting rules are not as important as an attractive, balanced table. But here are a few suggestions to make table setting easier and more successful:

Plan the cover for the table. Place mats should be large enough so that all the dishes and silver for one person can be placed on the mat. Mats should be placed about one-half inch from the edge of the table. If a tablecloth is used, a pad should be used under it to protect the table top. The cloth should be placed squarely on the table with 10 to 12 inches hanging over the edge. The color of the cover should harmonize with the china.

Select a centerpiece that will add color and interest to the table. An attractive potted plant or arrangement of flowers or fruit serves nicely. It should be low enough so it will not interfere with conversation across the table.

Place the silver one-half inch from the edge of the table. Lay each piece in the order of its use, working toward the plate. Place knife and spoons to the right of the plate and the fork at the left.

Place the waterglass at the tip of the knife. Put the salad plate or bread and butter plate at the tip of the fork. If both are used, place the salad plate to the left and slightly below the bread and butter plate.

Set the serving dishes on the table if food is served from bowls and platers, with serving spoon or fork to the right of the serving dish. Place sugar bowl on the right of the cream pitcher. All serving pieces should be within easy reach of someone sitting at the table.

What Colors for Spring

This is a wonderful year to express your personality in color. Lavender and violet tones predominate in spring clothes, but pinks, greens, blues, beige and yellow tones are popular, too.

You'll find fabrics in coordinated colors—beautiful blending of prints, stripes and plaids with plain materials. Many blouse and skirt combinations look like one-piece dresses. Mix and match outfits blend better han ever.

"I REMEMBER"

BY THE OLDTIMERS

From Mrs. C. D. Carlson, Saco, Montana: I enjoy very much the "I Remember" stories . . . they are the history of the people.

My parents came to America, to Council Bluffs, Iowa, from Denmark in 1892, when I was three years old. I remember all our neighbors were Danish, too.

I remember my father working "on the section" for the railroad. He would bring wild strawberries home in his dinner pail for us. I could read the names on the box cars before I could read anything else.

I started to school knowing very little English. Already then, Council Bluffs had several schools. Ours was made of brick and there were separate play yards for boys and girls, partitioned by a high, woven wire fence.

During the panic, my father was "laid off", as they called it. After some time he found a farm for rent and I can remember watching him sow grain by hand, from a sack which he carried on his arm and shoulder.

One day Papa took a load of corn to Council Bluffs and my sister and I went to get new shoes. It was a happy day, but happiness was short-lived. Young as I was, I could see my father was getting the worst of the dealing in selling the corn. The market place was a big outdoor market where people came to buy produce that the farmers brought in.

Papa tried for a long time to get a penny or two more per bushel for the corn (12 to 15 cents a bushel then). Finally a man with a big cigar bought the corn . . . but it took nearly all the money to get two pairs of shoes with laces, and shiny patent leather toes.

A Peek at THE STARS

By LYN CONNELLY

ABOUT a month ago, a young teen-ager named Tommy Sands made his dramatic debut on Kraft Television Theatre . . . He played the lead in "The Singin' Idol," which was a take-off on the teens' madness for Elvis Presley . . . Tommy plays the guitar and sings and does both well . . . He's 19 and shows a great deal of promise . . . we were especially happy to see him make the grade because we worked with him when he was only 12 and doing a children's television show in Chicago.

At that time, Tommy mooned over his idol, Eddy Arnold, and said his only ambition was to grow up to be another Arnold . . . He played and sang folk tunes with such appeal that no one doubted he was indeed another Arnold in the making . . . seven years isn't a very long time, but it has certainly made a great difference . . . Instead of Eddy Arnold, Tommy finds himself following the footsteps of Elvis Presley, an exponent of rock 'n roll, which wasn't even around when Tommy was doing western songs . . . Yes, seven years can be a century in the entertainment field.

PLATTER CHATTER

CAPITOL: Gordon MacCrae continues his usually fine, reliable performance with "Till We Meet Again" backed by "Lonely" . . . We're waiting for the day when this deserving chap gets a few big sellers . . . PeeWee Hunt and Joe "Fingers" Carr combine talents in a single from their very successful album . . . The sale is "Swingin' Down the Lane" with "How Ya Gonna Keep 'Em Down on the Farm?"

The Four Preps come up with a couple of goodies, "Moonstruck in Madrid" and "I Cried a Million Tears" . . . Nat King Cole does a polished job on a recent favorite, "Ballerina" . . . "You Are My First Love" backs it . . . Don Robertson has a new disc that should do well, "Fantasy" backed by "Rockaway."

Signs of Spring.

Now that the snow has left the East Side playing field, the soft ball enthusiasts, the more enthusiastic, that is, have been noticed making trips over there, and pacing off the distances between the bases. In early spring those distances seem extremely short, but they come longer as the season progresses.

The most rabid of these softball promoters is, perhaps, Bob Carlson. Carlson, who is a ten-year man in city softball competition, will again lead a team in the City league.

Bob is a tough competitor, and if he can line up a roster of players with as much "dog eat dog" competitiveness, that team will win the league championship. The Bjorkman Toggery team, league leaders last season, will have a powerhouse as usual, but Bob says that several of those players have reached the "pension age", and will be side-lined.

Bob has been signing up prospective candidates, and of one of these prospects, an outfielder, Carlson stated, "Although he is weak on fly balls, he can't stop ground balls either".

But as Lowell (Muckets) Collins, the manager of the Bjorkman's team explained, "It isn't the fly balls or the grounders that bother Bob's outfielders. It's the line drives."

Billy Makes a Move.

A rumor was confirmed this past week when it was announced that Billy Bye, football coach at Detroit Lakes last season, and a good one, had accepted the football coaching position at Minnetonka high school.

Minnetonka is a member of that nine-team Lake conference, and which includes such athletic powerhouses as Hopkins, Edina, Robbinsdale, St. Louis Park, and others. The new job will be quite a challenge to Billy, but challenges like this won't make the sturdy former Minnesota football star flinch.

Bill, a Prowler athlete here through his sophomore year, in 1943, and later a star at Anoka high school, started his high school coaching career last season with the Lakers. He posted a surprisingly fine record of five wins, two losses, and a tie (that tie game was that 6 to 6 draw played with the Prowlers) with the Lakers.

They Won the Odd Game.

With two weeks of the schedule remaining, the league will bowl its final matches on Wednesday night, April 10th, the second half title in the Women's Nite Hawk league continues to be "up for grabs".

In their "crucial" series against the Soo Line on Wednesday night, Bess Lang's Pharmacy team, the first half winners, won the odd game of the three-game match and will have a one-game lead entering the final stretch. In their next two matches, the Pharmacy will play the Northern Chevrolet and the Piggly Wiggly teams.

Although bowling with a couple of substitutes in the lineup—Min Ruane and Addie Oveson—replacing Marj Tegtmeier and Pat Dabdoub, both of whom were on sick-list, the Pharmacy turning in some consistant games as they defeated the ever-dangerous Soo Liners. The Pharmacy won the first game, 754 to 606; and the second game, 725 to 683; and dropped the third game as the Soo Line posted a 731 to the Pharmacy's 724.

Another Sign of Spring

Ralph Skjod, coach of the baseball Prowlers, forwarded another sign of spring when he said that the prospective candidates for this season's high school team held a meeting on Wednesday afternoon. About thirty-five Prowler baseball hopefuls reported.

From last year's club, the team that won the district title and was runners-up to the Bemidji Lumberjacks, such "regulars" as Jack Poole, Glen Carlson, Rod Collins, and Roy Pederson, have been graduated. That's taking quite a chunk out of the Prowlers' batting order, for those four boys were always on base, or driving runners across the plate. Coach Ralph is well aware of the problem he has in rebuilding the Prowler batting order.

And with a twenty-game schedule, against northwestern Minnesota's best high school teams, the Prowler coach is anxious to get the boys organized for practice drills. If arrangements can be completed, the squad, sometime this week, will be starting their indoor drills in the National Guard armory.

QUESTIONS answered for VETERANS

Additional information or assistance on veterans benefits may be obtained by writing or visiting the VA Contact Representatives at the Minot VA Hospital, or the Bismarck or Grand Forks VA offices.

Q—I understand that payments under the Survivor Benefits Act depend on the base pay of the rank held by the veteran. My husband died as a result of wounds incurred in World War I service. His rank was captain in the Army. Will the amount to which I am entitled be based on the military pay he received many years ago, or on the pay recieved today by an army captain?

A—Survivor Benefits Act payments, then, would be based on what a captain receives today; not on what he received in World War I.

Q—My wife and I both signed a note when we received our GI home loan. We now want to sell our house and let the buyer take over the loan. I plan to apply to VA for release of liability to the Government. If this release is granted, will it also include my wife?

A—Yes. If you are released of liability, your wife, too, will be released.

Q—Is it possible to go to school below the college level, under the War Orphens Education program?

A—Yes, provided you already have completed or quit your regular high school, and the below-college course will equip you for a specific vocational goal.

Q—I am going to school under the Korean GI Bill, and I expect that my entitlement will run out before I finish my course. The school does not operate on a quarter or semester basis. Is it possible for my entitlement to be extended so that I can complete the course?

A—If you have completed the major part of your course, your entitlement may be extended to the end of the course or for nine weeks—whichever is the shorter period.

Bob Sjulestad Is Named to 100-Car Club by Chevrolet

Robert Sjulestad of Northern Chevrolet Co., Thief River Falls, was honored at the Fargo Zone Chevrolet Honor Club Banquet at Moorhead, Minnesota, on Wednesday, March 27th.

For over thirty years, Chevrolet has recognized the sales achievements of "above average" retail salesmen by awarding them membership in Chevrolet's honor organization, better known as the "100" Car Club. Membership in the club is restricted to those salesmen who sell 100 or more new cars or their equivalent during the year.

Sjulestad was selected as treasurer of the Fargo Zone Honor club due to his achieving the fourth highest sales volume in the entire zone. Sjulestad has been a member of the Honor Club for three years.

Retirement Income Tax Credits Listed

(This is the third in a series of questions and answers on Income Tax. These articles are made available as a public service by the Minnesota State Bar association's public relations committee.)

Q. I am 65 years old and no longer employed. As long as I have income from rents, dividends and annuities, am I entitled to some kind of tax credit?

A. Yes, under the federal income tax law you are entitled to what is called "retirement income" up to $1200 for any one year. This is a direct credit against the income tax, not merely a deduction from income.

Q. I have a retired friend, over 65, who has earned income of $1300 in addition to income from rents and annuities. Can he take 20% of his retirement income up to $1200 as a credit?

A. No. As long as his earned income exceeds $1200 he must reduce the maximum $1200 retirement income by $100, the amount of earned income over $1200. If his rents and annuities are at least $1200 he could take a credit of 20% of $1100.

Q. My brother has $1500 of earned income and has received social security payments of $600 during the year as well as a maximum retirement income of the $1200. What would his retirement credit be?

A. Your brother would have to reduce the maximum $1200 retirement income by $900 ($600 social security pay and $300 excess over $1200 of earned income). His retirement credit woud be $60 (20% of $300.)

Practical Nursing

By Mary M. McLaughlin, R. N.

After World War II, a very critical shortage of nurses became apparent. This factor along with the lengthening life span and increasing use of the hospital has accounted for the opening of 371 approved schools of Practical Nursing in the United States. Of this number, 13 are in the state of Minnesota with more schools in the planning stages now. These 13 schools admitted 405 students and graduated 308 students in 1955. These graduates are in demand in hospitals, clinics, public health agencies and homes. The opportunities for Practical Nurses are becoming almost limitless. She is a very valued member of the health team.

The trained Practical Nurse of today can be defined as a person prepared by an approved educational program to share in the care of the sick and in the prevention of illness under the direction of a licensed physician and or a registered professional nurse. The approved educational program is of two types; The hospital school or the private school or the private school which affiliates with hospitals, and the vocational school which is aministered by the public school system but must be approved and accredited by the State Department of Education and the State Board of Nursing. Our local School of Practical Nursing is of this type. Minimum standards for education of the pratical nurses must be met before this approval is given a school. National accreditation may also be desired; this granted by the National Association of Practical Nurse Education after an inspection of the school by their staff.

In Minnesota the minimum requirements for accreditation mean a program lasting one year combining classroom work and pratical experience. The practical must be obtained in a hospital that has been approved by the Joint Commission of Accreditation of Hospitals. Teaching facilities must be adequate. This means that for every 4 students in the class, a complete patient unit must be provided for the nursing principles practice session. This unit includes a bed, bedside table and all accessory equipment for demonstration and practice purposes. This also includes Mrs. Chase, a life-size adult doll. The facilities of the Home Economics Department of Lincoln High School are used for the Nutrition Laboratory experience. A library, adequate for study, reference and research must be maintained. Pamphlets and other material are filed in such a way that they are readily usable. Our teaching staff consists of one Nurse coordinator and members of the medical and nursing staff of the hospital and people in the community who are specialists in their field. One requirement of all these people is that they be sincere interested in the Practical Nurse Training program and be willing to accept the Practical Nurse as a member of the Health Team.

Our yearly plan of instruction and experience is set up on the basis of a 40-hour week, eight hour day. Vacation time amounting to 2 weeks is divided, one week taken in midterm and the other at the end of the course. Sick leave is provided. The training program is divided into 2 parts, the preclinical period of 16 weeks and the clinical period of 34 weeks. Class work is concentrated during the first period but is carried on throughout the whole year. The class hours total approximately 459-500 hours of such subjects as Body Structure and Function, Nursing Principles and Skills, Nutritional Needs, Common Disease Conditions, Care of the Mother and Newborn and Care of the Aged. They are also given instruction in community facilities and functions which are available for those who are ill or handicapped. In the clinical period the student is given an opportunity to observe, practice and perfect skills she learned in the classroom. Supervision of the student during this period is shared by the head nurse of the department and the Nurse Coordinator. The experience the student gains is in the Medical, Surgical, Obstetrical and Pediatric departments of the Northwestern Hospital and the Geriatrics experience is received at the Oakland Park Nursing Home.

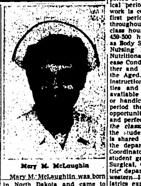
The underlying philosophy and purpose of the Thief River Falls Area Vocational School of Practical Nursing is first of all to provide an accredited training program for young women who are interested in nursing. It is intended that this program help to relieve, in some small way, the serious shortage in nursing, yet enable the hospital to maintain a high quality of nursing service. It is felt that the public schools of this area should serve the young women by providing the needed vocational training for those who cannot continue their education in other ways. And lastly, because these women must be licensed by the state before they may practice as a licensed practical nurse, we prepare them to meet the standards of practice as established by the licensing board.

Policies regarding the school management are set up by the Independent School District in coordination with the Northwestern Hospital and Oakland Park Nursing Home. The entire education program is planned by the Nurse Coordinator with assistance from the Medical and Nursing staff of the Northwestern Hospital. The entire program, class schedules, clinical hours, vacations, and rotations are all planned with the Director of Nurses of the Hospital so that the Practical Nurse student may gain the necessary experience.

The student enters training on the opening day of the regular school year. She wears a uniform consistine of a yellow pinafore, white blouse, white shoes and stockings. At the end of the pre-clinical period the student recieves her student cap to signify a step ahead. On the completion of the years' program the student is given a school pin, certificate and a graduate cap; white with a yellow band. The student may now apply to the State Board of Nursing to take the licensing examination. Upon successful performance in this examination she is privileged to use the initials L.P.N. after her name.

The Thief River Falls Area Vocational School of Practical Nursing graduated its first class of Practical nurses in 1950. This program was set up as a 9 months course in response to the need of the local hospitals. Mrs. Alice Wold pioneered the program in the three existing hospitals; namely, Mercy, St. Lukes and Oakland Park Sanitoruim. Many times during her first years she had to make big adjustments and changes in her program in order to meet the needs of the community. Probably the times that stand out in her memory would be the amalgamation of the two hospitals, Mercy and St. Lukes, into Northwestern Hospital and then when Mercy Hospital closed its doors for good. The school has now graduated its 7th class with a total enrollment of 50 students.

To help with the organization of the school, an advisory Board was set up. Dr. Baldwin Borreson was the Chairman of the Board until he left Thief River Falls. The members of our present Advisory Committee are: Mr. Don Lawrence, member of the Board of Trustees of Northwestern Hospital; Mr. H. W. Peterson, Administrator of Northwestern Hospital Mrs. Phyllis Trulen, Director of Nurses of Northwestern Hospital; Mr. J. A. Sater, Superintendent of Schools; Mrs. Alice Wold, Director of Nurses Oakland Park Nursing Home; Mrs. Pearl Iverson, L.P.N. and Mrs. Stuart McLeod. Mr. C. W. Pope and Mary M. McLaughlin are ex-officio members of the advisory committee.



Mary M. McLaughlin

Mary M. McLaughlin was born in North Dakota and came to Thief River Falls in 1933. She obtained her education at St. Bernards School of this city and Mount St. Benedict Academy in Crookston. She returned to North Dakota for her nurses training, graduating from the Mercy Hospital School of Nursing in Valley City. After her graduation Miss McLoughlin spent 2 years with the Army Nurse Corps, 18 months of this time in Europe. Upon return to civilian life, she attended the University of Minnesota and obtained her bachelor of science degree. The next 5 years were spent doing public health work in Portland, Oregon and in Virginia, Minnesota. She returned to Thief River Falls in the fall of 1954 as the nurse coordinator of the practical nurse training program.

U. S. Senate OK's Water Projects

Lost River, Ruffy Brook Projects Are Included

After rejecting amendments advanced in the name of economy, the U. S. Senate Thursday passed and sent to the House a bill to authorize future appropriations of 1½ billion dollars for flood control, navigation and other water projects.

The Senate turned back two efforts aimed at paring down the total authorizations in the measure, which is almost identical to one which President Eisenhower vetoed last year.

Included in the measure were two northwestern Minnesota projects, according to word received from Sens. Thye and Humphrey.

The $972,500 Lost River project would receive $527,300 in federal funds, while the federal share of the Ruffy Brook project totalling $178,300 would be $101,900.

The Senate passed the bill 42 to 22 on a roll call which Democratic Leader Johnson (D-Texas) insisted on having. This less than two-to-one margin would not be sufficient to override the president should he veto this year's bill.

LIEN LAW AGAIN

In his message to the legislature dealing with the problems of the aging, Governor Freeman made two recommendations on old age assistance. He called for repeal of the lien law, stating:

> "I could not be true to a principle which I have long held, and which I recommended to you two years ago, if I did not again urge that you give serious consideration to the repeal of the old age lien law."

He also asked for an increase of the present limit of the value of a home that could be owned by a recipient of old age assistance.

According to Legislative Research Committee estimates the repeal of the lien law would cost the taxpayers of the state about $10 million a year, a large share of which would have to be paid by the counties.

And just to keep the record straight these liens do not impose a hardship on the aged people who receive the assistance. Only the heirs are effected adversely, and the interests of deserving children, who make a personal sacrifice to help their parents, may be protected by welfare board action.

The fact that the Governor made no provision in his budget message for the increased cost of old age assistance if the lien law were repealed indicates that his reference to the matter was made only for political purposes.

His suggestion that the limit of the value of a home that can be owned by old age assistance recipients should be increased is reasonable providing the lien law is not repealed. As values are today the $7,500 limit is too low. The ownership of a better home should not disqualify needy people of this form of assistance.

When the lien law was adopted the limit was increased substantially. With our present 50 cent dollars that limit should be increased again.

TAXPAYERS ON THE MARCH

It appears that those who now advocate reduced spending in Washington are getting enough grass-roots support from over the nation to make them at least a respectable minority in the current deliberations. We probably should not be unduly hopeful about the end results however. A few nickel and dime appropriation cuts have been reported under banner headlines but there is no reason to believe that they are the start of a continuing trend. When we get down to the pork barrel appropriations, then we will know how sincere our representatives are in their clamor for economy.

It is encouraging to know however that the folks in Washington remember that here and there thruout the country there still are taxpayers. And we suspect that these taxpayers are going to become a more vocal group as the tax bite at the state and local levels becomes larger and takes a steadily increasing share of our earnings.

Our liberal state legislature is becoming unusually liberal with our money, indicating that the pressure groups, backing more and bigger appropriations, have not been asleep. The time is near at hand we think, when the taxpayers will bestir themselves. They are a slow moving group but once they are aroused they get results too.

Dr. Edward Stoddard, recently retired as superintendent of schools in Los Angeles, recommends the use of television in classrooms. He estimates that 100,000 teaching positions and a half a billion dollars in salaries can be saved annually under such a program. He is certain, too, that the quality of instruction would be improved. No new school, he said, should be built without provision for classroom television.

In the past ten years nearly 5,000 additional hospital beds have been provided in Minnesota. We have reason to feel good about the progress that has been made in meeting this need. Now we probably should concentrate on the production of the trained personnel needed in the operation of these expanded hospital facilities—many more doctors and nurses and technicians. Apparently it is easier to build dospitals than it is to get the professional unions to open their closed shops.

For the information of some of the young fellows who are wondering about the future in agriculture we are glad to report that by 1975 there will be 250 million Americans to feed and an estimated 20 per cent reduction in the number of farmers to provide the food. In 1940 one farmer produced enough food for himself and 10 city folks. Now he is providing for 18. Hens lay 51 per cent more eggs than they did 20 years ago and cows give 82 per cent more milk. Our guess is that a section of land in northwestern Minnesota will be a pretty good deal in another 20 years.

CRITICISM
(Friendly Thoughts)

A big-league umpire once remarked he could never understand how crowds in the grandstand, hundreds of feet from the plate, could see better and judge more accurately than he, when he was only seven feet away.

Another man commented that in life, too, we call strikes on a chap when we are too far away to understand. Perhaps if we had a closer view of the man and his problems, we would reverse our decisions.

Futurity Projects Help Fosston Youths

"Futurity" livestock are literally building a future for a young pair of brothers near Fosston in East Polk county.

Edgar, 19, and Arlan Olson, 17, started with a single registered beef Shorthorn calf and one registered Hampshire ewe, both futurity project animals, in 1948 on a farm owned by their uncles, Iver and Ed Olson.

Today, the Olson brothers have 60 registered rams and ewes and 17 Shorthorns, all topnotch breeding stock. They also have a few pigs and Edgar owns 180 acres of land and part interest in some farm machinery. Better yet, their up-and-coming operation has paid its own way.

In futurity projects, farm youths raise registered female breeding stock as a start toward a purebred flock or herd.

There have been no "gifts" given to the Olson youths. Uncles Iver and Ed have helped the boys handle things on a business-like basis so they would learn good farm and livestock management.

The Olson brothers started showing in Futurity competition in 1951, at the Red River Valley Winter Shows, Crookston. They have also taken their stock to county, regional and state fairs and to the Junior Livestock Show at South St. Paul.

They have a heap of ribbons to show for their efforts. At both the 1956 and '57 Winter Shows, the brothers had the best sheep flock in open competition. This year, they won the reserve championship in Futurity sheep.

The Olson brothers' story actually starts in 1946, when Edgar, then 9 years old, worked for his uncles in summer in return for a heifer Shorthorn calf. That calf grew up, raised a calf of its own and Edgar sold both animals in 1948. He used the money to buy his first registered Beef Shorthorn calf.

Since then, Edgar and Arlan have bought some stock, but have raised most from their own ewes and cows by careful selection. Lee Frederick, Fosston agricultural instructor and Harley Shurson, East Polk county agent, have helped the boys.

Building a registered breeding herd can pay for itself and bring a good extra profit, the Olson boys have found. At first, Edgar paid for the feed and shelter on his Uncles' farm by "working it off." Then as herd and flock increased, sales of breeding animals gave him more capital and brought 180 acres of land—110 of permanent pasture. That land now produces most of the feed needed for the livestock.

The brothers have some advice for others with Futurity livestock:

"Don't be afraid to pay a little more for really good animals when you're buying. You spend money when you buy poor animals, but you invest money when you buy good stock," Edgar says.

"When you're selecting calves or lambs to keep in the breeding herd, pick animals that will compete commercially as well as in the show ring. It's the commerical market that makes or breaks you."

There are many superstitions regarding the eyes. One of the most common is the belief that a mother can mark her unborn child by "gazing" on an unpleasant sight. This of course is not true.

REPORT from the GOVERNOR

by Orville L. Freeman

In my last column I described benefits that would result from the reductions in personal property taxes that are proposed in the omnibus tax bill now being considered by the Minnesota legislature. Everyone who now pays tax on household goods would benefit from these reductions;—and business, in particular,—including all engaged in the business of farming—would get substantial relief from a tax that is now burdensome and inequitable.

Income Tax Changes Proposed

There is great interest on the part of the people in the changes proposed with regard to the individual income tax. Because the total effect of these changes is difficult to understand, it is subject to considerable misunderstanding. I am therefore noting here some of the highlights of these changes.

Elimination of the Head Tax

First, every individual income tax payer will save by the proposed repeal of the "Head tax", or filing fee. This tax is now imposed in the same amount of $5.00 on all taxpayers, regardless of the size of there income. It is even levied in cases where the taxpayer suffered a net loss, provided his gross income is large enough to require the filing of returns. Obviously, this item is inequitable, and should be repealed.

The 150-Day Rule

Minnesota is the only income tax state which permits escape from taxation on instate earnings by those non-residents who work in the state for 150 days or less during the year. The new bill would eliminate this escape by requiring such persons to pay a tax to Minnesota on that part of their income earned in Minnesota. We have reciprocity agreements with neighboring states to prevent double taxation of, for example, a person who may live in Wisconsin and work in Minnesota.

Surtaxes

Under the present law, taxpayers pay two surtaxes, one of which is figured on 5% of the normal tax before deduction for dependents, and the other is figured on 5% of the tax after taking such deductions. Obviously the latter is the fairer method, and therefore the new bill provides for combining these two into one 10% surtax to be figured after the deduction for personal credits has been taken.

Joint Returns

Perhaps the greatest interest has been aroused with regard to the proposed change providing for the filing of joint tax returns by married couples. Under the present law, the filing of separate returns by a husband and wife who each have income results in certain inequities that the proposed change is intended to correct.

The Progressive Principle

I have asked experts in the Department of Taxation to figure out the impact of the new tax proposals at various income levels, as compared with taxes paid under the present law. I find that there will be net reductions in practically all cases of incomes up to somewhere between $5000 and $6000. For families with one income, these reductions continue up the income-level scare. For families where both husband and wife earn incomes, the joint return provision will not impose any additional tax burden until the combined income level is in the upper-fourth of all the incomes in the state.

HELLO DAD . . . Johore's Sultan Abu Bakar, 33, gets kiss from 6-year-old daughter, Princess Mariam in London park.

This follows the time-honored principle of ability to pay. If reductions in our tax burden are to be made, they must be made up for in some way. The proposed program will correct many inequities. The burden is lightened for those who can least afford to pay.

Cattle Feeders to Convene Friday at Northwest School

To Share In Afternoon Program and Get Results of Winter Feeding Tests

Final arrangements have been completed for the Cattle Feeders' Day to be held at Northwest School, Crookston, on Friday, Apr. 5. The program will be held at 1:30 p. m. in the library of the Kiehle building.

Robert E. Jacobs, beef cattle feeding experiment will highlight the speaking program. Jacobs is agricultural extension animal husbandman with the Institute of Agriculture, University of Minnesota. He has a wealth of experience among beef cattle feeders.

Carl Spong of the Central Livestock Association, Inc., Fargo, North Dakota, will be among others on the program who will share some of their experiences relative to the growth and development of the beef cattle feeding industry in the Red River Valley area.

D. Reimer of the animal husbandry department of the Northwest Experiment Station, Crookston, will discuss the results of this year's cattle feeding trials, and he will guide the group of cattle feeders on a tour of the feeding lots.

Teachers Reference Guide to Minnesota Centennial out Soon

A time-saving reference book for the state's teachers will soon be published by the Minnesota Statehood Centennial Commission as part of its program to commemorate the state's anniversary with projects of far-reaching and long lasting benefits.

This anouncement was made by Hamline University President Dr. Paul Giddens, chairman of the centennial education committee.

The book, a "Resource Guide" to supplement the teaching units on Minnesota in the State Guide for Instruction in the Social Studies," is being prepared under the direction of a sub-committee on elementary and secondary education. Emmet D. Williams, superintendent of Roseville schools, is chairman of the committee which is composed of 20 educators from throughout the state.

"This guide will be one of the most comprehensive, up-to-date, and time-saving reference books of its kind for several reasons," explains Mr. Williams. "Contained in it are lists of fiction books, textbooks, magazine articles, pamplets, maps, and visual aid materials. They relate to Minnesota's natural and human resources, its agriculture, industry, forests, government, transportation and other areas covered in the state course of study.

"Through the use of these references, teachers can make the study of Minnesota more vital and dramatic," points out Mr. Williams.

The material listed, much of it not previously included in reference lists, is (1) available, (2) briefly summarized, and (3) graded for reading difficulty. "It will emphasize Minnesota today as well as past history," Mr. Williams added.

Included also are references on how schools can commemorate aniversaries such as Minnesota's statehood centinnial, through the medium of pageants, community, and school activities.

A decision to publish the Guide was made by Mr. Williams' committee last October after the group agreed that such a reference book would fill one of the main needs of social studies teachers working with Minnesota history. The Centennial Commission allocated $5,000 from its original $100,000 appropriation to finance research on the book.

Two teachers, qualified as researchers as well as instructors in Minnesota history, were engaged to undertake the compilation. Mrs. Flora Martinson was granted a leave of absence from Bloomington's Westwood Elementary School, and Miss Alice Peterson from Independent School District 100 in Washington county. Research began January 1 and will be completed the first week in April.

Under present plans, the Centennial Commission will distribute the Resource Guide free this summer to sixth and twelfth grade teachers, to supervisors of social studies, and to superintendents and principals, of Minnesota's elementary and secondary schools—approximately 4,500 copies in all. Additional copies will be furnished at cost upon request, according to Thomas H. Swain, executive director of the Centennial Commission.

Freedom Crusade Gets $4,000 from Auxiliary Units

With approximately one-fifth of Minnesota's 583 American Legion auxiliary units reporting, over $4,000 has now been raised by the auxiliary in support of the Crusade for Freedom, according to Armulf Ueland, state treasurer of the 1957 Crusade.

Seven of the 212 posts heard from have topped the $100 mark, led by Lake City with total contributions of $484.44. Others in the "century" class are Thief River Falls, $245.60; Blue Earth $165.98; New Prague, $142.63; Fosston, $107.53; Lonsdale, $103.20; and Winthrop, $100.00.

Minneapolis (31 units, and St. Paul (24 units) also have not completed their returns, but totals now available show Minneapolis with $115.24 and St. Paul with $116.53.

The state Auxiliary has taken the Crusade for Freedom as its 1957 spring project. In addition to collecting funds, the Auxiliary has been active in providing information on the Crusade-supported Radio Free Europe, the world's most powerful radio network broadcasting truth daily behind the Iron Curtain.

Erie Mining Company taconite processing plant near Hoyt Lakes, Minn., has a scheduled capacity of 7½ million tons; can be expanded to 10 million tons.

Why we need big investments for Minnesota's Iron Ranges

Taconite plants cost money . . . big money. The mammoth Erie project will cost over $300,000,000 when all the bills are in. Another example: Reserve Mining Company's taconite project at Babbitt and Silver Bay, now in full operation, cost $190,000,000.

To maintain our position as a leading source of iron ore, Minnesota must build more plants for processing all types of ores. Millions of dollars have already been invested in new plants, but many more millions are needed to make Minnesota's iron ore usable in blast furnaces. Every Minnesotan has a stake in creating the climate to encourage these investments . . . every Minnesotan should take a personal interest in the problem.

RESEARCH AND INVESTMENT CAN KEEP MINNESOTA'S IRON ORE FUTURE BRIGHT!

Expect Grasshopper Infestation in 1957

Minnesota farmers can expect more grasshoppers in 1957 than appeared last year, states County Agent Paul Steimaschuk.

Entomologists at the University of Minnesota and State Department of Agriculture predict severe attacks in a larger area of the state than in 1956, due to more grasshopper eggs laid last fall. These predictions are based on a survey conducted last fall by the State Department of Agriculture.

"Severe" infestations are expected in the southwest and northwest corners of the state, and in a belt extending from the southeast corner to the Red River Valley. In other state areas, grasshopper numbers will range from "light" to "threatening".

Pennington County is divided into two zones. East of a line running north and south through the county at Mavie, the infestation is predicted to be light in 1957. The western part of the county is predicted to have a threatening infestation. Although there shouldn't be any shortage of insecticides this year, it's still a good idea to get supplies as early as possible, says L. K. Cutkomp, University of Minnesota entomologist. Recommended insecticides are aldrin, heptachlor, dieldrin and toxaphene.

For spraying forage crops that will be pastured to feed cattle, only aldrin and heptachlor are recommended.

In severely-infested areas, Cutkomp advises farmers to plan to spray ditch lines for "two-striped" grasshoppers soon after hatching starts—usually between first and third weeks of June.

In most cases, grasshoppers won't do too much damage on first crop hay, but nevertheless, it's wise to check hay fields early. If hoppers are abundant, leave a strip of hay and spray that strip within two or three days after you remove each cutting. That treatment is usually enough but if more hoppers come in from other areas, it may be necessary to spray the second crop hay fields.

Where threatening and light infestations are predicted, whether or not it pays to spray will depend on how heavy the hopper attack is on each farm.

Aldrin can be used up to 15 days before the hay is cut or pastured, and heptachlor can be applied up to 7 days before cutting or pasturing.

Dieldrin and toxaphene are recommended mainly for grasshopper control along roadsides—where cattle never eat—or on hayfields in early spring before there's much growth. Dieldrin can be used no later than 30 days before forage is pastured or cut and 40 days is the rule for toxaphene.

LONG ROAD TO RENO

By Allen Wishert

TIME hangs heavily at times, especially, while waiting for a train as Ellen Madison was doing. She was standing at the West window of the small station, her view covering the shining rails to where they curved and disappeared two miles beyond. The train wasn't in sight.

She walked to the South window and gazed out upon and along the Main Street of her home town. She could see the steeple of the little church where she and Fred had vowed not to let anything tear them asunder; to remain together until death do them part. The glorious event was solemnized three months ago. Today she was boarding a train that would speed her out of her husband's life forever. Her eyes welled in tears. She brushed them away, turning again to the West window, the train was rounding the distant curve.

She prayed that the Lord turn back his Universe and bring her yesterday. The misunderstanding between she and Fred was trivial. In the midst of heated anger divorce was mentioned. Reno was 102 miles North of Bridgeport.

Ellen gathered up a traveling bag and hat case, went onto the platform, the string of coaches came to a whining stop. A brakeman swung down the steps of a car with a small stool. He took her bags and hoisted them onto the coach platform, then held out his hand for her ticket.

He glanced at it as he had at thousands of others. However, at this one he took a second glimpse, raised his eyes, looked into Ellen's. Involuntary, he shook his head as he passed it back.

The train was well on it's way, rolling swiftly, when a young man came down the aisle, paused beside Ellen, then said:

"Pardon me, is this seat occupied? Now, now, don't get the idea that I am trying to intrude, but this seems to be the one and only vacant chair in the entire coach."

"You're welcome to it," replied Ellen. "I'll remove my coat. There."

The monotony was becoming irksome, finally, he ventured; "Traveling Far?"

"No, only to—," she almost said; Reno. "Nevada."

"Nevada?" he glanced at her, quizzically. "Are—are you a movie star?"

"Well, now, hardly."

"When Nevada is mentioned, Reno looms into the picture."

"I am returning home," said Ellen, any excuse to further avoid the subject.

Two days later, seated in her hotel room, Ellen checked her finances. Expenses had surged beyond calculation, and her cash was running low. She must locate cheaper lodgings.

As she walked from the hotel lobby onto the sidewalk, a taxi drew up, the door opened, she almost swooned as Fred, her husband stepped from the cab.

"Why—why, Fred, what are you. —How did you—?"

"Happen to be here," he supplied. "Let's step into this cafe, I'll explain."

Over their coffee cups, Fred began:

"After you left, my thoughts flew to Reno, the gambling capitol of America, so, I determined to try my luck."

"Why, Fred, I never suspected you of gambling."

"I don't intend to play Chuc-A-Luck, poker, three card monte, or the dice. I am staking all on the Wheel of Fortune."

Then and there, seated at the coffee table, Fred Madison, placed all his blue chips on one turn of the wheel, he suggested that they place their losing's together, when the wheel ceased spinning Ellen was clasped in his arm's. Their next best bet was when they boarded the train for home on a second honeymoon.

Has Narrow Escape from Explosion

Mr. Byron Dirks narrowly escaped serious injury on Friday morning when he went to his brooder house to check on the brooder stoves before the turkeys arrived. He found the stoves out and when trying to relight them they exploded. He was badly burned on the face and left hand. He managed to use a fire extinguisher that was in the brooder house and put out most of the fire so not much damage was done to the bluiding. Bill Bulger of Western Oil and Fuel Co. who was called out to determine the cause reported that it was a miracle that more damage wasn't done.

HOME Garden TIPS

C. GUSTAV HARD
ORRIN C. TURNQUIST
AGRICULTURAL EXTENSION SERVICE
UNIVERSITY OF MINNESOTA, ST. PAUL 1, MINN.

Starting seeds Indoors

Often the gardener is unable to secure from a greenhouse the varieties of vegetable plants he wants. As a result, he is faced with the problem of growing his own plants.

• • •

If you're planning to grow some of your own plants, you'll want to start the seeds in wooden boxes at least 3 inches deep or in ordinary flower pots.

• • •

Fill the container with a good soil mixture of one part peat moss, one part sand and two parts garden loam. Firm it to provide a smooth surface an inch from the top of the container. To prevent "damping off," which often rots seedlings at the ground line, use a half inch layer of sphagnum moss over the soil mixture. If you use flats or boxes, plant the seeds in rows spaced about 2 inches apart. In clay pots, broadcast the seed. A pinch of Arasan in each seed packet will treat the seed and assure less "damping off." After planting, cover the seeds lightly with a little screened sphagnum moss or washed sand.

Seed of cabbage, broccoli, cauliflower, Brussels sprouts and head lettuce can be sown indoors during March. Eggplant and pepper may be planted in late March or early April.

• • •

Tomatoes should not be planted too early. It takes only about six weeks to produce a good tomato plant for the garden. If you set tomatoes into the garden too early, you can run the risk of losing plants by late frosts. Seeds planted earlier than April 15 develop tall, spindly plants that don't do well after transplanting.

FCDA Urges 7-Day Emergency Food Supply for All Families

If the United States ever suffers thermonuclear attack, one of the basic problems for America's millions would be food, and how to get enough of it.

In the so-called good old days the family pantry generally was loaded with food—ready for any emergency.

• • •

TODAY, THE FEDERAL Civil Defense Administration recommends that every family keep a minimum of a seven-day supply of food in the home for instant use in an emergency. This has become known as Grandma's Pantry.

To estimate how much food is needed for seven days, multiply the number of persons in the family by the amounts shown in the adjoining list for one person. A two or three weeks supply would be more desirable. Foods listed are merely types recommended, not necessarily those which must be stocked.

The items kept on hand should be those staple groceries that are used in your normal pattern of daily serving. By following this plan rotation is no problem, as you replace the items used by shopping frequently enough not to deplete your supply to an appreciable extent.

• • •

IF YOUR CHILDREN are young, decrease the amounts by one-fourth.—If the children are infants, canned baby foods should be substituted for some of the other canned foods. And don't forget—be [illegible] plan for old people or invalids.

Another word of caution: check your "pantry" at least monthly, and rotate items regularly. Bottled water, for instance, should be changed every six weeks.

Essential items for your stockroom should include two gallons of water in jugs or bottles for each person, and three gallons for each child under three years old. You should also maintain a supply of salt and sugar, matches, fuel, cooking utensils, a can opener, and tableware.

You would also do well to have in your storage room a portable radio, flashlight, candles and holders, first-aid kit, blankets, pail and garbage container.

On the lighter side, you might add a supply of games and toys for the children.

Suggested Pantry

MILK: One package of powdered, non-fat dry milk, and two 14½ oz. cans of evaporated milk.

FRUITS: One 1 lb. [illegible] can each of two varieties of canned fruits, and 1 lb. of dried fruits.

JUICES: Three cans (approximately 1 qt. 14 oz.) [illegible] vegetable juice.

VEGETABLES: Six cans (approximately 1 lb. each) of vegetables.

SOUPS: Four 10½ oz. cans.

MEATS AND MEAT SUBSTITUTES: [illegible] cans (approximately 1 lb. each) of your favorite items. Include cheese or peanut butter if desired.

CEREALS: Seven individual-serving packages of ready-to-eat variety.

CRACKERS-COOKIES: One box.

BEVERAGES: One [illegible] jar of instant coffee, one of instant tea, or a 1 lb. package of instant cocoa, whichever your family prefers.

SOFT DRINKS: Twelve bottles.

SUPPLEMENTARY ITEMS: Sugar, salt, seasonings, candy (types that store well), chewing gum, and cigarettes and tobacco.

CAUTION: Store these items like Grandma did—in a dry, cool basement or storeroom within a temperature range of 35 to 50 degrees for best results. Check your "pantry" preferably weekly but at least monthly and rotate items regularly. Use within six months. Bottled water should be changed every six weeks.

THE RIGHT WAY TO PAINT A HOUSE
by Bud Kelly

There's a right way and a wrong way to paint a house. The right way saves you money because it protects your house against the elements . . . keeps it looking new far longer. The wrong way is EXPENSIVE so let's forget it — and concentrate on the right way.

• • •

First prepare the surface. Scrape off scales and sand down rough spots. The surface must be free of dirt and grease. All holes and leaks should be plugged.

• • •

Now you're ready to paint. New or weathered surfaces should be primed with SUPER-MIX Exterior Primer because it costs a third less than regular house paint on a two-coat job. Use it as it comes from the can — no thinning.

• • •

There are lots of fine house paints on the market. We stock and recommend SUPERMIX House Paint because we believe it is the very best. It flows on smoothly, brushes out easily. It's tops in quality at a moderate price.

• • •

The finishing coat should be applied with a short swinging stroke. Hold your brush at about a 45 degree angle with the wood. Use moderate pressure. Don't slap the paint on or work with the tip alone. And don't brush it out too far. Stir the paint about every half hour or so.

• • •

That's all there is to it. But before you start painting, stop in and see us. We can fix you up with everything you need to give your home a new look.

THE MINNESOTA STORY

Prepared by the Minnesota Historical Society

PORK AND BEANS

The lumberjacks who spent their winters in the pineries of northern Minnesota during the latter part of the nineteenth century subsisted upon a plain and hardy diet. A correspondent for the "Stillwater Gazette," traveling among the lumber camps in 1877, reported that the lumberjacks' meals "consist of pork and beans, corn bread, molasses cake and tea or coffee."

In the issue of that paper for May 2, 1877, the reporter described the camp cook's usual method of preparing pork and beans. He said that the large white variety of beans were "parboiled in pots holding half a bushel." Ten pounds of pork was "set in the middle of the beans in the pot," and a quarter of a pound of molasses was poured in. Then the pot was placed in a hole "surrounded with hot ashes and burning charcoal" and covered with a large stone. On top the stone the cooks built a "heavy wood fire." The beans remained from five to eight hours in this "oven" and, according to the reporter, the result was "a most palatable dish."

GRIMM ALFALFA

Grimm alfalfa, one of the most important of Minnesota's many contributions to American agriculture, is named for Wendelin Grimm, a farmer who immigrated from Germany in 1857 to Laketown Township in Carver County. Grimm carried with him a small bag of alfalfa seed, then called "everlasting clover." He planted it on his new Minnesota farm in the spring of 1858, but at first most of the plants winter-killed.

Grimm, motivated by his native thrift and common sense, saved the seeds from the plants that survived and replanted them. When he had done this for some years, his neighbors noticed that his alfalfa was exceptionally hardy, and they purchased seed from him. In 1880, Carver County had many fields of hardy alfalfa.

Until 1900, it was generally believed that permanent stands of alfalfa could not be grown in Minnesota, for other farmers had tried the crop and, failing had not tried again. Those who knew that alfalfa was grown in Carver County attributed its success there to local soil conditions.

In 1900 Grimm's alfalfa was brought to the attention of the head of the agricultural experiment station at the University of Minnesota, who tested it and recommended it to Minnesota farmers. Only 658 acres of alfalfa were planted in Minnesota in 1900. By 1953 the state had 1,838,000 acres.

Until the 1950s, Grimm alfalfa remained the outstanding forage crop of the Upper Midwest, but it has recently given way to other varieties which surpass it in yield and resistance to disease, though not in hardiness.

OLE BULL

The first performance given in Minnesota by an internationally famous musician was that of the great Norwegian violinist Ole Bull, who appeared in St. Paul on July 15 and 17, 1856. In Bull's company were a pianist, a cornetist, and the already famous child prodigy, Adelina Patti.

The concert was given in the chamber of the Minnesota territorial house of representatives, which was "filled in every nook and corner" with a "very large audience made up of the beauty and intelligence of our city," according to a report of the affair which appeared in the "St. Paul Pioneer" on July 17. The most ambitious number on the program was Ole Bull's own arrangement of "The Star Spangled Banner" with "solos for soprano, baritones, cornet, piano and violin."

The reporter from the newspaper, however, enjoyed most the "bird-like warblings" of Mademoiselle Patti. Adelina Patti was only thirteen years old at the time and had scarcely begun her great singing career, but her performance, wrote the reporter, "convinced the most skeptical that she was a musical prodigy."

While he was in Minnesota, Ole Bull also gave concerts in Stillwater, Minneapolis, and St. Anthony. His troupe was a "sell-out." In each place, for, as the St. Paul reporter observed, "the opportunity of hearing such musical celebrities does not often present itself so far north as this."

RED RIVER FLOODS

Floods in the Red River valley are not a recent phenomenon. As early as 1826 the unpredictable Red River of the North flooded its banks, and Alexander Ross, a resident of the Selkirk settlement across the border from Pembina, left a graphic description of the high water in his book on "The Red River Settlement."

Ross relates that on May 2 the river rose nine feet, surprising both the white settlers and the Indians. All the inhabitants of the village were forced to flee in small boats as the river rushed unchecked over the flat plain of the valley. "Hardly a house or building of any kind," says Ross, "was left standing in the colony." Not until June 15 did the waters recede sufficiently for the settlers to return to the sites of their former homes.

In the same book, Ross describes another flood which occurred in 1852. That year the river rose eight feet during the night of May 7, so that two men who, says Ross, "had gone to rest on a small rick of hay," awoke to find themselves "drifting with the current, some three miles from where they had lain down the night before." At its crest, the water was twelve miles wide, and, as in 1826, the flood lasted for more than a month.

Other years in which the water rose to unusual heights were 1897, 1916, 1938, and 1943. One of the valley's worst floods in modern times occurred in 1950, when the river became a vast inland sea reaching from Grand Forks to Winnipeg and destroying property valued at $60,000,000.

U. S. Senator Ed Thye Reports

SENATE MAY REVIVE CORN ACREAGE PROGRAM

A last ditch effort is being made in the Senate to produce a realistic corn acreage allotment program for 1957. The House voted down all attempts to pass adequate legislation. On the final vote 156 Democrats voted with 61 Republicans to defeat the legislation. Voting for the final bill there were 125 Republicans and 63 Democrats.—As things stand now not enough farmers have signed up for the program in the main corn producing states. As a result the soil bank will not be effective.—What is needed to increase allotment to about 51 million acres.—I pointed out the urgency of this matter in a speech on the Senate floor and am hopeful that the Senate Agriculture Committee may take action. The Administration would accept legislation to make possible a reduction in corn production and a greater participation in the soil bank.

BUDGET REDUCTION IS PRIORITY ITEM

I am presently exploring all possibilities of reducing the budget and cutting government spending.—I have received many letters on this subject which advocate economy, but then go on to request added expenditure for specific items. Government agencies are all attempting to cut their requests for appropriations.—Approximately $4 billion may be eliminated from the present budget estimate of $71.8 billion.

THYE HOLDS INDIAN CONFERENCE

Last week I held a conference on Indian legislation and specific Indian problems. Officials from the State of Minnesota and the Federal Bureau of Indian Affairs attended to discuss such items as foster home care, rehabilitation both on and off the reservations, and education.—Results can be achieved in this area which will represent a wise investment for our future economy, and social welfare.

LEGISLATIVE NOTES

The Senate Agriculture Committee has approved a one year extension of Public Law 480 which authorities disposal of surplus farm commodities in foreign markets. I had introduced this bill early in the session.—It contains the most effective plan we have to dispose of our surpluses.—I am co-sponsor on a bill to provide for more effective evaluation of fiscal requirements of executive agencies. The bill would establish a joint committee on the budget and would allow a pre-audit of all expenditures.—Many of us in the Senate have urged the Finance Committee to consider a tax reduction bill for small business.

TRACTOR GENERATOR is demonstrated for rural civil defense officials as a source of supplementary power when regular electric lines are knocked out by storm or attack, or when located some distance from the farm buildings wired for electric service. The generator can furnish electricity for such chores as sawing wood, post-hole digging or welding. In an emergency, the generator would be invaluable for running milking machines, incubators, refrigerators, deep freezers, water pumps and lighting.

58 in Caravan from Winnipeg Guests in City

Stop Here for Lunch Wednesday Noon on Way to New Orleans

An enthusiastic group of Winnipeg citizens moved into Thief River Falls yesterday noon for the first scheduled stop on their Pine to Palm tour that will take them to New Orleans and back in the next 15 days.

The 58 members of the cavalcade were guests of the Chamber of Commerce at a luncheon served by the Does at the Elks club rooms. They left here at three o'clock for Bemidji where they spent last night and they are scheduled to be in the Twin Cities tonight.

Mayor Stephen Juba headed the the list of public officials representing Winnipeg and the Province of Manitoba. Various civic, promotional and commercial organizations were also well represented.

Lending color to the group was a bagpipe trio headed by James Allen, his daughter Maureen and Sandra Merriman, who provided excellent entertainment with Scottish music and dancing. Mr. Allen is a member of the Winnipeg Police Pipers, a marching organization which has appeared here on several occasions.

A short local program introduced by J. A. Sater, superintendent of schools, consisted of a group of songs by the Lions quartet, and welcoming remarks by Mayor O. D. Beich, and Harley Kelly, vice president of the Chamber of Commerce.

Mayor Juba was called on by Dr. Beich and he in turn introduced other members of the party who spoke on various phases of the purposes of the cavalcade. Mayor Beich was made an honorary captain of the Order of the Buffalo, and was presented with a certificate of membership and an emblem of the organization.

Among the visitors who responded were Alderman A. D. Bennett, Hon. F. L. Jobin, Manitoba minister of industry and commerce, and Armour McKay of the East Manitoba Development association.

State Names Two Supervisors for Marshall SC Dist.

Middle River and Argyle Men Appointed; Three to Be Elected Friday, May 10

The state soil conservation committee took favorable action on the district referendum held in Marshall county on March 25. They appointed Norman Anderson, Middle River, supervisor for a two year term ending at the 1959 spring town election, and Kenneth Dufault, Argyle, for a one year term ending at the 1958 town election.

Three other supervisors from other parts of the county will be elected at a special evening election which has been designated for May 10 from 7:00 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. Arrangements are being worked on.

These five men will then each be representing a different one-fifth segment of part of the new Marshall county district. Their terms of office are so arranged that only one man drops out each year and his position is filled by another farmer supervisor from the same area. This procedure is followed in order to give each area of the district fair representation at all times at the meetings held by supervisors, and thus enable each area to have a voice in the future work plans of the district.

Cancer Films and Talk to Feature Meeting Tuesday

A cancer education meeting will be held on Tuesday afternoon, April 9, in the Auditorium basement, beginning at 2:00 p.m. All women are invited to attend. Dr. J. L. Women attending will have an opportunity to ask questions of Dr. Norquist following the talk.

Mayor O. D. Beich of Thief River Falls was made a Captain of the Manitoba Order of the Buffalo, a Manitoba organization, at the luncheon yesterday noon honoring a visiting cavalcade of Canadians at the Elks Club. He received a certificate of membership in the order as well as the emblem, presented by Mayor Stephen Juba, of Winnipeg.

Education Board OK's Revisions in School Organization Setup

The Thief River Falls board of education, at a special meeting Saturday, heard reports by Paul Anderson, high school director, and Kermit Eastman, elementary director, on progress in their departments during the first year of their incumbency, and approved various recommendations for changes in curriculum and other school matters. At the same time the board commended the officials for their past year's work.

Anderson told of the series of successful lay discussion meetings held this winter, and of numerous conferences with parents concerning discipline and student failures, and program planning.

Principal recommendations made by Anderson and approved by the board included:

Completely "divorcing" junior and senior high schools from each other by assigning all 7th, 8th and 9th grade classes to the present Washington school and the south wing of the old Lincoln building.

Converting the shop in the old Lincoln into a science room, and using the library in the old Washington building for a junior high library.

Limiting the enrollment per teacher per class in high school to 30 students, with a maximum of 40 in health and physical education classes. This would be accomplished by the addition of five teachers, and at the same time broaden the curriculum by adding art, German and business relations to the course of study. The net increase in number of teachers would be four, since one home economics teacher is being eliminated.

Grouping students according to

The commission also recommended the appointment of Elwood Ehrenstrom, acting manager during Kierk's absence, to the post of manager, but no immediate action was taken.

Bids totalling $17,333.34 on 8.2 miles of road construction in six townships in Pennington county were let at the county commissioners meeting held in the courthouse Tuesday, April 2.

A bid for $1109 submitted by Fargo Foundry on installation of a 10,000 gal. road oil tank at the highway shop was also accepted by the board.

North twp., 1 mile, successful bidder Adolphson and Huseth Cons. Co, $2307.34.

The petitions had been tabled at that time but at the Tuesday meetings new petitions were presented requesting the two districts be joined to Thief River Falls district 18 and be separated from Goodridge district 8. This petition was tabled, pending the April 12 meeting outcome.

A resolution setting up a joint civil defense agency for Pennington county and Thief River Falls was unanimously approved by the board. The agency would be under one head when defined.

Eugene Sjoberg to Install Bulk Gas Tank on No. 32

Eugene Sjoberg, proprietor of Sjoberg Appliance, states that a contract has been awarded to Stanley Ranum, local contractor, for the installation of a Skelgas bulk gas tank, north of the city between Highway 32 and the Soo Line. Construction will get under way as soon as ground conditions permit.

This 30,000 gallon tank will be used exclusively for his own agency needs, his company having been serviced out of Crookston up to this time. The installation will represent an investment of $30,000, he says.

With Winnipeg Cavalcade

Certainly the most colorful group in the Winnipeg Cavalcade that visited this city yesterday was this trio who brought Scottish bagpipe music and dancing for the entertainment of their hosts. In the lead is James Allen, a member of the Winnipeg Police Pipers, who has visited here with that organization on several occasions. The bonnie lassies are his daughter Maureen, and Sandra Merriman, who danced at the luncheon to Mr. Allen's accompaniament.

Over 500 Attend REA Meeting Wednesday

Reports Submitted on Successful Year; Moe Renamed Head

More than 500 patrons of the Red Lake Electric cooperative and members of their families participated in a harmonious annual meeting of the organization held Wednesday afternoon in the Thief River Falls Auditorium.

Reelected to the board of directors without opposition were Joe Brunelle of Crookston, from District 1; Lars Larson of Oklee, from District 4; and Millard Dailey, Red Lake Falls, from District 5.

At the organization meeting of the board, Manvel Moe of Thief River Falls was reelected president, with Leonard Melin of Red Lake Falls, vice president; and Joseph Skala, also of Red Lake Falls, secretary-treasurer.

President Moe, who conducted the meeting, said the past year had been successful. He stated that thus far increasing volume of business had offset rising costs of operation, and he expressed the hope that the present rate structure can be maintained.

Mayor O. D. Beich, in behalf of the city, extended greetings to the visitors, who were meeting in Thief River Falls for the first time; and Andy Williamson, vice president of the Chamber of Commerce, also welcomed the group.

The meeting opened with a short concert by the Lincoln high school band, directed by John K. Moum. Guitar and vocal selections were supplied by Russell Culkins of Thief River Falls.

The annual report, read by Secretary Joseph Skala, revealed that the co-op had total revenues in 1956 of $447,754, including $407,188 from electric service; $19,270 gross margins on sales of merchandise; $9,933 other non-operating revenue; and $11,357 in merchandise sold to dealers and employes. Total revenue showed an increase of 10 per cent over the figure of $403,810 for 1955.

Expenses aggregated $426,526 in 1956, leaving a margin of $21,228, compared to $12,575 for 1955. Major items of expense included purchased power, $161,096; maintenance and operation of lines, $21,256; general office salaries and expenses, $21,385; depreciation, $80,580; and interest on loans from REA, $48,719.

The balance sheet showed total assets of $2,911,333 at the end of 1956; including $107,112 cash on hand. Liabilities totaled $2,827,733, including $2,793,182 long-term debt to the REA, and $32,376 in current and accrued liabilities. The net membership equity was fixed at $83,600.

JOHN LYNSKEY JR. Valedictorian

JEANNE DAHLEN Salutatorian

John Lynskey, Jeanne Dahlen Head Lincoln School Class of 1957

John Lynskey Jr. has been named by Principal F. Miles Nelson as the valedictorian of the Lincoln high school graduating class of 1957. Jeanne Dahlen won honors as salutatorian.

John, the son of Mr. and Mrs. John X. Lynskey, established a perfect scholastic record as he posted a 4.0 mark since he entered junior high. John is editor of the Log this year after serving on the sports staff and spending last year as associate editor. He has also been a student manager for the football team for the last two years.

Jeanne is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanton Dahlen and has been active in chorus, band, Log, Prowler, and dramatic activities.

Under the present system of determining honors, all grades in senior high school are used. In each subject, each six weeks grade and final exam mark are tabulated, thus recording seven grades in each subject. The final grade in the course did not enter the computations. Each A was worth four points, each B worth three, etc., in the tabulation. Total honor points earned in all courses were divided by the number of grades to determine the scholastic average. The final standings in class rank were figured through the fourth six weeks period this school year.

Designated as honor students are all students in the upper ten percent of the class. In addition to the valedictorian and salutatorian, those winning honors are Roger E. Anderson, David Berg, Carol Bishop, Janice Finstad, Shirley Iverson, Dalys Kellberg, Virgil Larson, Gary Lehr, Julia Ose, Sandra Sandvig, Geraldine Swick, and Daryl Williamson.

Propose Boost in Old-age Aid Ceiling to $71

House Passes Bill Tuesday and Sends It over to Senate

The Minnesota house of representatives passed and sent to the senate Tuesday a bill to increase the maximum old-age assistance (OAA) payments to $71. Present ceiling is $65.

Sixteen liberals bolted ranks to place the $71 ceiling on the bill. It did not have a maximum figure originally.

The measure upon which the defection came was part of Gov. Freeman's welfare program. It had provided for payments, without a top figure, based on need.

The 16 liberals voted with 53 conservatives to approve an amendment, offered on the house floor by conservative Rep. Howard Ottinger, Chaska.

Minnesota's $65 OAA payment is split up this way: The federal government pays $39 of the first $60, the state pays two-thirds of the difference and the counties, one-third. The state pays 45 per cent of the payments above $60, counties 55 per cent.

There is no limit on medical payments.

Rep. Luther estimated removal of the ceiling—thus basing payments entirely on need—would cost the state an additional $1,326,000 in the next two years, the various counties $1,621,125.

Estimated additional shares at $70 a month (figures were not available for $71) would be $530,000 state, $640,000 counties.

"We have to have maximums on some of these programs," Ottinger argued. "We have no maximum on medical payments and they're increasing so rapidly we don't know where they'll stop. Estimated cost by 1959 is 22 million dollars."

Ottinger said Minnesota's per capita costs for OAA are highest in the nation.

"I'm ashamed of the decline in relatives' responsibility," said Rep. Aubrey Dirlam, Redwood Falls, minority floor leader, speaking in support of the amendment.

"If I had my way we'd take off the ceiling only for those who have no relatives to help. Otherwise, we need a maximum."

Lincoln Graduate Robbery Victim in Rio Linda, Calif.

A 1956 graduate of Lincoln High School now living in Rio Linda, Cal., was held up and robbed of a brief case case containing personal papers by three youthful thugs who threatened to "blow his head off" if he didn't turn over the brief case.

The former local youth, Richard Odegaard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Morris A. Odegaard, 709 Atlantic Av. N., was in his car on Rio Linda boulevard when four toughs drove along side and threatened him with bodily harm.

Richard turned over his brief case to them and the robbers drove off but were apprehended shortly after deputy sheriffs were given a description of their car by the robbery victim.

The four youths, one of whom was a sailor on leave from his base at Long Beach, Cal., admitted taking the brief case but did not explain how they knew it was in Odegaard's car.

Shootin' the Breeze

BY Mack Draper

Getting impatient over the late arrival of warm weather? Don't be. In checking over our records from last April we find that this year's temperatures are about the same as those from the same period, perhaps a little higher.

There is one big difference; we don't have any snow now! (Remember those April "showers" last year?)

By the same token we can also consider ourselves very fortunate we haven't been affected by the last two or three storms that have hit the midwest. By the time you read this the situation may have changed (Tuesday's Tribune weather map looked like a mess of scrambled eggs) but so far we've escaped the howling blizzards that have hit several states to the south and west of us.

It's still spring-like enough to make folks around town get out with lawn rakes. Our next-door neighbor, Mrs. Ernie Sorter, has tulips up (much to the wife's surprise her's aren't — yet Mrs. Sorter's tulips and the wife's came from the same old burlap bag!)

The sportsmen are talking boats, motors and tackle. It's official now — fishing season on northern pike, walleyes and muskies opens May 18. (Now perhaps Warden Carl Sundstrom can relax!)

One season — trout — opened Monday but a general rush for the streams isn't expected, especially since some of 'em aren't broken up yet. An earlier smelt run is predicted this year.

According to reliable information there's little or no change from last year's regulations as regards fishing, except the earlier bass opening, which is June 8 this year.

We'll consult Sundstrom on this and keep you posted in case there are changes later he wants to emphasize.

We heard our first robin chirping one day last week when the weather was a little warmer, but recently he hasn't made his presence known.

Come to think of it, it seems there aren't many of these cheerful harbingers of spring around yet—at least not in large numbers.

We've also heard, but not seen, a meadow lark—which means relatively little, really, because we so seldom get out where there are larks to be seen and heard. There could be thousands of 'em around but we city folks wouldn't be very aware of it.

A recent newspaper article says Ike's budget, if approved, will cost each of us (man, woman and child, excluding Rover) about $23.07 for foreign aid in 1957.

Heck—that's such a tiny percentage of the taxes we pay we're led to wonder what they're going to do to find ways to spend the rest of the $1100 it'll cost each of us if the big budget is approved.

Oh well—the Washington bureaucrats will find some way. And if they need help they seem to have an unlimited amount of unemployed bureaucrats available to figure new means of disposing of our tax dollars.

We're willing to bet any of us could find ways to economize were we to be called upon to go to Washington for that purpose, provided we could remember all that moola available really belongs to you and me and not to the fellows who throw it around so freely.

We forgot to mention it — but this column is now a whole year old. Who would have ever thought you could endure it that long? So Long!

WAGON TRAIN TO RICHES

By Allen Wishert

In olden days women waited for their lovers, even if time ran into years. Men traveled far seeking fortunes, opportunities were never near; always they were hundreds and hundreds of miles away, mostly in the far West.

Many swains never returned. Human life was cheap in those days and Boot Hill claimed those slow on the draw.

Sallie Rogers and Jim Bates had nursed the idea, mostly Jim. Sallie would have been content to live in a one room log hut, but Jim had been reared in one and he knew the hardships his mother had endured. His father never being quite able to "Ketch Up." Other husbands had fared better and had afforded their wives tolerable conveniences and Jim knew he could do likewise.

A wagon train, treking west, was due to pass the settlement within two days. Jim Bates was the owner of a pony and a long-barreled, flintlock rifle. There was always an opening for a mounted rifleman on those journeys.

It was March, the air crisp, Jim and Sallie seated in the 'best' room of her home. Hickory logs were crackling and blazing in the fireplace.

"It may take a year, Sallie, maybe two, before I make headway, but somewhere out yonder there's a claim waiting to be staked."

"But, Jim," pleaded Sallie. "There's danger, every step will carry a threat."

"Yes, I know, Sallie," replied Jim. He lifted a long poker and jabbed one of the logs and sparks flew up the chimney. "I've faced them hereabouts, but they never got me anywhere."

The logs burned low, tumbled and settled; the discussion waxed and waned and a decision was reached. No need waiting one-two years, they could marry; surely there would be room in one of the wagons for Sallie, they were financially able to share their expense.

The night before the cavalcade arrived, Jim and Sallie stood before the preacher. The next morning, Jim talked with the master of the train, who agreed to see them through to any destination they selected.

Four weeks later, Jim and Sallie, arms around each other, stood on the prairie and watched the wagon train disappear on its trek; Westward HO!

They had been supplied with food to last for several weeks.

The space they had chosen was beside the Concho river. An army post, Fort Concho, and a small settlement, Ben Ficklin, was a few miles East.

Sallie, not at all enthused, eyes wandering over the barren country, asked:

"Why select this spot, Jim?"

"The water, I can understand, but I don't know how good I'll be at grazing."

"Aw, now, Sallie, you know what I mean. The Army Post, and that village is near, with a few cows and chickens we'll supply them with milk, butter and eggs, the returns will afford our existence."

"The land, Jim, it's not ours, how will you pay for it?"

"I'll place a Squatter's Claim for two hundred acres," replied Jim. "In time, we'll own it outright." He took Sallie in his arms, kissed her, then exclaimed: "At last, honey, we've arrived in God's country."

"I pray," said Sallie. "He keeps us in mind."

A cowboy rode up.

"Aimin' to be here long?" he asked.

"We're making our home here," replied Jim.

"Better have a confab with Caleb Pulliam, owner of this land. His ranch is six miles, due North." The cowboy rode off in the direction he mentioned.

House Conservative Group's Tax Program Introduced Monday

Top Republican conservative members of the House introduced a four-point tax program in the Legislature Monday afternoon and it was promptly described by a leading liberal as a "soak-the-poor" bill.

Rep. John Hartle of Owatonna, state Republican party chief, is principal author of the measure. Hartle said it will provide more revenue than Gov. Freeman's proposal and that it would cut tax evasion and reduce costs of income tax collections.

But, the chairman of the House Tax Committee, Rep. Edward J. Chilgren of Littlefork, said:

"A brief survey of the Republican tax program indicates the bill is essentially a soak-the-poor bill which wouldn't raise sufficient money to meet state needs."

Chilgren also claimed the revenue to be produced from the Republican proposal would "be essentially raised from those from the lower income brackets."

The Republican proposal calls for:

Simplified income tax plan based on a percentage of the federal levy paid.

Repeal of the personal property tax on household goods, with replacement by imposing a three per cent excise tax withholding on nonresident wage earners.

Requiring proof that the proposed excise tax has been paid before issuing automobile license plates.

"The three per cent sales tax on automobiles, telephones and many other necessities," Chilgren said, "would only open the door to a general sales tax in Minnesota.

" It would increase the cost of most automobiles in the state from $50 to $150 depending on the price of the automobile. It is interesting to note that over 50 per cent of the money raised by this three percent sales tax will come from automobile sales.

Safety Council and Police Chief Warn of Thin Ice

Both the Pennington county Safety Council and Police Chief Elton Cummings issued warnings against youngsters venturing onto the river ice here this week.

Cummings said the ice is very rotten and is a definite hazard to persons foolhardy enough to venture onto it. Several children in Minnesota and North Dakota have perished this spring from taking chances on rotten ice on streams and lakes and the local officials are hopeful that such tragedies can be averted here.

No Accidents Are Reported Locally

County Free of Mishaps During Week to Date

No accidents were reported in the city since Monday, according to police here and Chief Elton Cummings complimented local and area residents for their accident-free record for the period which saw heavy traffic in the city, especially on Wednesday when several events taking place simultaneously brought thousands of people into the city.

Cummings was not alone in reporting an accident-free record for the week so far. Both Sheriff Charles Richards and the local highway patrol office have had no accidents in the immediate area this week.

However, a Glendenning Motorways semi-trailer rig hit a Northern Pacific train at a crossing north of Crookston on Highway 75 Wednesday, resulting in considerable damage to the tractor and trailer and a broken leg for the driver.

Glendenning Motorways local office reported one of their rigs was taken to Crookston to pick up the load of the damaged trailer.

The name and condition of the injured driver was not available. A Polk county sheriff's deputy and the highway patrol investigated the accident.

Seed

Interesting results have been obtained in the seed drill sample survey in 1956. The survey which sampled oats and was conducted by the State Agriculture Department found 22 per cent of seed used by farmers was in violation of the State Weed and Seed Law.

Of the 1141 samples gathered 3 per cent of the farmers violated the law because the seed contained noxious weeds such as Canada Thistle, perenial sow Thistle, field bindweed, and leafy spurge. 19 per cent of the farmers violated the seed law by using seed which contained restricted noxious weeds.

Further study showed that the great majority of which were in violation were those which were the farmers own seed or other farmers seed and not seed processed by larger cleaning plants.

When preparing your seed it is well to give it every possible attention. Do the best possible job of cleaning or buy certified seed which has a known seed purity and germination. The fact that the field may be weedy anyway is poor justification for seeding more weeds.

Taking Soil Tests

The last several soil tests came back from the University Laboratory in 10 days. If you are fertilizing a field it is well to take a soil test. Here is how you do it:

1. Dig in the spade to plowing depth which is four to five inches.
2. Take about a tablespoon of dirt from the bottom and top of the spade.
3. Put all the dirt in a paper sack or jar and when you're done testing a field, send in about a cup of soil to the laboratory.
4. Avoid old straw bottoms, small limey areas, or other areas not characteristic of the field.
5. Make about 16 stops at various points in the field. It's best to check small acreage such as 10 to 15 acres with one soil sample.
6. Send the soil sample and one dollar to "Soil Testing Laboratory, University Farm, St. Paul 1, Minnesota.
7. Send in a sheet stating your name, quarter section, township, and what you grew on the field since 1954 and what you plan to seed on the field the next two years.

If you want to pick up a soil box and sheet ready to fill out with the information on, these can be picked up at the extension office at the courthouse.

Pasture Topdressing

A good fertilizer topdressing on pastures does double duty. It can stretch the time between seedings and give the cows better eating at the same time.

Fertilizer makes alfalfa and other legumes live longer. By not having to reseed as often, you save field working costs.

Phosphate and potash are the important plant food nutrients to put on the grass-legume pasture land. And you can do the top-dressing any time of the year.

In most cases, it's best to apply the fertilizer after the snow leaves, but before the ground gets soft. Then you can drive on the fields—either with a tractor and spreader or with custom spreader truck—without damaging the sod.

If the pasture fields are level, you can apply the fertilizer on top of the snow, assuming it isn't too deep. Don't put fertilizer on snow on sidehills, though. Melting snow would dissolve much of the fertilizer and carrie it away in the runoff.

No matter when you apply the fertilizer, test the soil first, to find out just how much of each nutrient the land needs. In general, though, 150-300 pounds of 0-20-20 or its equivalent every second year will do a good job.

In general, sandy soils don't need as high rates of phospate, but do need plenty of potash, to raise good legumes.

Proper Care Saves Manure Value

Ed Hooker, Wahkon, a cooperator with the Mille Lacs county soil conservation district, has some tips for slowing down decomposition and loss of ammonia from manure that needs to be piled in winter. Keep the sides of the pile as straight as possible, he advises. He also uses plenty of straw and old hay as bedding, along with sawdust, to soak up liquid. To increase the fertilizer value of the manure he spreads superphosphate in the gutter at 1 or 2 pounds per cow per day.

Fertilizer Has "Carry Over"

Gene Pilgram, Chippewa county agent, reports the following results of a fertilizer carry-over trial on a farm near Big Bend: In 1955, Harold Olson planted one field of corn with 150 pounds of 6-24-12 fertilizer at planting time, and sidedressed with 80 pounds of nitrogen. Another field received no fertilizer at all. Last spring, Olson planted the same fields to soybeans. Yields of soybeans were up to 23 percent higher on the fields that had been fertilized a year earlier.

Stops Gully Problem

Small gullies used to be a problem for Albert Puckett, Mille Lacs county farmer. He filled the gullies with straw and manure then seeded the field down. That was only a partial help so Puckett asked Jate Sullivan, Soil Conservation Service technician, to lay out some contour strips. In 1953, Puckett established the strips which since then have made gullies a small worry. He recommends the same practice for farmers with similar problems.

Summer Milk Production

Art Warren, Lake Wilson farmer and supervisor of the Murray county soil conservation district, has a permanent pasture which is more than a fourth of a mile from his buildings. Last fall, he built a pond in the pasture. That will eliminate about a mile and a half travel back and forth to buildings daily for the cows. That, he says, should pay off in better milk production on hot days. He siphons water to a tank below the pond.

The Home Fruit Planting

If you're interested in planting some fruits this spring, you'll want to select those that give you the greatest return for the space they take.

• • •

Raspberries probably give the highest return for the effort and space devoted to them. They can be planted as part of the shrub border or along one side of the vegetable garden. With proper care and favorable growing conditions, you can expect to get a quart for each plant or hill of berries. The Latham is a dependable variety in Minnesota.

• • •

Strawberries can be grown in the vegetable garden, or, if you get everbearing plants, you can place them in the flower border. Sometimes they can be used effectively in niches or in a stone retaining wall separating a terrace. If you are using them in a border or in a wall, keep the runner plants removed. You can usually count on a quart of strawberries per plant or a quart for each running foot of row in a strawberry bed.

• • •

• • •

North Star and Meteor cherries are worth planting for both fruit and ornamentals. The fruit makes excellent pies. Since only one tree is needed in a planting, these cherry varieties are especially desirable for small areas. The North Star is a medium-sized shrub, whereas the Meteor is a small tree. Both appear to be hardy in northern Minnesota.

• • •

Until we have more information on dwarf apple trees in our state, we suggest them for planting on a trial basis only. Research is in progress on the hardiness of the dwarfing stocks.

Regular apple varieties often require more space than is usually available in the backyard. A mature tree requires 900 square feet of space. If you have plenty of space, select Mantet or Oriole for summer varieties, Beacon or Minjon for fall, and Haralson, Prairie Spy or Fireside for winter use.

Notice is hereby given that a resolution of which the following is a copy, has been filed in the Office of the County Auditor of Pennington County, and pursuant to the Laws of 1955, chapter 525, a hearing will be had upon said resolution before the County Board, at the office of the County Board of said County, in the City of Thief River Falls, Minnesota, on the 24th day of April 1957, at 2:00 o'clock P.M.

Dated at Thief River Falls, Minnesota, this 2nd day of April 1957.

C. W. Rodekuhr,

PENNINGTON COUNTY HIGHWAY DEPARTMENT
Thief River Falls, Minnesota
RESOLUTION

Whereas, Pennington county plans to reconstruct S.A.H. No. 1, from S.A.H. No. 9 5.0 miles west of St. Hilaire to T.H. No. 32 at St. Hilaire a distance of 6.5 miles, and

Whereas, County Ditch No. 1, Sanders and Black River crosses said S.A.H. No. 1 at an angle of 80 degrees with the right angle of said S.A.H. No. 1 running from northwest to the southwest between Section 35 T155N - R44W and Section 3 T153N R44W, and

Whereas, it is advantageous and desirable in the construction of said S.A.H. No. 1, to reduce the skew of the crossing of said County Ditch No. 1, Sanders and Black River to an angle of 15 degrees, with right angle of said S.A.H. No. 1 and in so doing a partial channel change is necessary at the ditch crossing to properly direct the flow of water through the crossing structure as to minimize water erosion at the crossing. Said alteration and change will not in in any way effect the functioning and efficiency of said County Ditch No. 1, Sanders and Black River.

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED:

By the Board of County Commissioners of Pennington County to instruct its County Engineer to file the Plans and Profiles of said S.A.H. No. 1, showing the contemplated changes and alterations of County Ditch No. 1, in detail, with the County Auditor, who shall thereupon fix a time and place for hearing thereon, and to give notice of hearing by publication as defined by Minnesota Statutes, Section 106.011, Subdivision 2.

Sportsmen Hear Wildlife Expert

U. S. Game & Fish Agent Addresses Local Club

Means of preventing depredations on swathed grain by migratory water fowl was the subject of a short talk by Loren Bonde, with the U. S. Game and Fish dept. at Grand Rapids, at the monthly meeting of the Pennington County Sportsman's club Tuesday in the city auditorium.

Bonde emphasized that farmers may discourage ducks from feeding on their downed grain in wet years but may not kill them before hunting season opens. Several means of discouraging feeding on grain fields may be employed, he said, but the farmer must get a permit from the nearest U. S. game management official before he can legally harass the ducks to prevent their depredations.

He also emphasized that farmers may not kill migratory waterfowl feeding on downed grain before season is open.

Don Lawrence, with the Soil Conservation Service, told the sportsmen about a parcel of land in Hickory twp. which could be made into a soil conservation project and public hunting grounds.

The meeting was opened by a film on fishing in the Land of Sky-Blue Waters and distributed by Theo. Hamm Brewing Co.

Also up for discussion was the sportsmen's club annual smelt fry to be held in the latter part of April. A committee composed of Robert Mattson, Vernon Stenberg and Vernon Forsberg was appointed to handle arrangements for the feed.

Lunch was served after the meeting adjourned.

SPORTS CORNER

This an' That

Many sports writers across the nation continue to suggest (or may just be wishing?) that Rocky Marciano will return to the ring. Behind all this supposition is the fact that Rocky's contract with Al Weill runs out July 8th of this year. Lots of folks would like to see Rocky come back. The boxing business is never better than when the heavy ranks are dominated by a slugger with an explosive punch . . . Silence is not always golden, believes Manager Kerby Farrell of the Cleveland Indians. Farrell was generally pleased with his Indians on the spring circuit, but lamented the fact that they didn't make enough noise in the field. One good "holler" guy needed . . . Milwaukee optioned rookies Dick Grabowski a pitcher, and Ed Charles, an infielder, to Wichita of the American Association . . . Frank Jasgerszewski, an 11-year-old bowler, had older keglers muttering to themselves recently. The Louisville youngster bowled a 215 in bantam league play . . . The United States recently won the world women's badminton championship by shutting out Denmark, 5-0.

TOP JOCKEY . . . Johnny Longden, 47, holds cup he got for his 5,000th victory. Turfdom's winningest jockey rode in 25,707 races in 30 years of competition.

The radio sation at Moorhead state teachers college, KMSC, held election of new officers this week. Reelected general manager is Robert Knutson, Thief River Falls, a junior. Another junior, Elmor Reseland, Fertile, was reelected business manager. Other officers elected are Duane Elde, Moorhead; and Harold Waale, Goodridge program directors; Patricia Beringer, Perham, librarian; Joan Fowler and Donald Dahlquist, both of Moorhead, publicity committee.

Cub Pack 60 Puts on an Enjoyable Program Tuesday

Parents of cub scouts were entertained Tuesday evening with an excellent program of skits, songs and yells at a meeting of Cub Pack 60 in Trinity church.

Cubs wearing Indian costumes and bearing drums and tomahawks which they had made themselves danced and sang against the background of an Indian tepee.

Following the program, achievement badges and arrow points were presented to more than 20 boys.

Cubmaster Neal Fox stated that the next pack meeting will be held Tuesday evening, May 14, starting promptly at 7:30.

At Long Last

Finally, the state game and fish division has announced the fishing season opening dates for 1957. And it's about time.

These dilatory tactics, by the legislature and the division, with various bills being introduced, discussed, and dismissed, have served to keep the local anglers off balance. Doesn't the legislature, and the game and fish division, realize that walleyed pike fishing isn't a spur-of-the-moment affair?

The various parties and groups that move out of here for the walleyed pike fishing opener are well-organized, and their plans have been made on a year-long basis. You don't take a pail of minnows, a spinner, a chalk line, a couple of sinkers, and a bobber or two and go fishing. It's not that simple anymore. There have to be meetings, resolutions to be adopted, cabin reservations to be made, and boat positions to be assigned.

And not only have the anglers been kept off balance by these delaying tactics, but the Pennington county Big Game and Small Fish Guide's Association has been "off balance," too. The group has been conducting informal sessions at the Parkins coffee bar, with president Orvis Olen presiding. The topic that has been discussed most freely is the opening day assignments of these "guides." By virtue of his seniority, and experience, Orvis has assigned himself to the open water of Lake of the Woods, off Pine and Sable Islands. Ivan Bundy has been given the inner reaches of Four Mile bay and Wheeler's Points.

Helmer Ole Ness, the Union lake authority, has been assigned to the south side of that lake, with orders to provide angle worms and small minnows for the crapple fishermen. An attempt is being made to shift Bud Schuster to the bullhead fishing area around the Eighth street bridge and Squaw Point.

And Lloyd Brunsberg, due to his lack of experience, and being a bulrush type, will be sent to Elm lake. And where's Elm lake? Just south of Mud lake.

Kenny the Bomber

It will be interesting to watch the progress of Ken Bombardier as he makes his bid for a place on Dick Siebert's University of Minnesota baseball squad. Ken joined the Gopher squad this past week, and has been in the lineup as an outfielder.

During the years when Ken was a stellar athlete for the Red Lake Falls Eagles, and played baseball with the Junior Legion team and the senior Lakers, he impressed the observers with his fielding ability, his strong throwing arm, and his power at the plate.

Ordinarily, football players, and Ken is a good one, being the regular left half for the Golden Gophers, aren't too promising as baseball prospects. The theory being that the heavy shocks and bruises that a football player's shoulders must absorb in tackling and blocking, and heavy bodily contact of the gridiron sport, tends to bulk the shoulder muscles. The result is a falling off in the batting swing, and the player becomes a "sucker" for a curve-ball.

During his prep school days, and later with the Lakers, Ken had a weakness for curve balls; but give him a high fast one, and he would lose it for you. We hope the personable Ken makes the Gopher ball team.

And speaking of baseball. We hear that Warren is making plans to field a strong club this year. As a nucleus, they will have the services of righthander Dick Palmer. And the rumor is that Dick will bring several of the North Dakota U ball players along with him to Warren.

An Alley Record

Helmer Skomedal, a member of the Steiner Farmers bowling team of the Friday night City league, turned in a record-breaking 298 score while engaging in a session of open bowling at the Pla-Mor alleys on Sunday afternoon.

Helmer, bowling on alley No. 4, racked up eleven straight strikes, and on his twelfth try, the ball was a pocket hit, but the 7 and 9 pins were left standing. The result was a 298 score, and that we believe is a record for Irv Wilson's lanes.

We can dimly recall that a 300 game was once bowled here in town, but that was ages ago. 'Way back in the days when the DuChamp's had a pair of alleys in the basement of what is now the Elks building, there was a 300 game bowled. The details of that "perfect" game is beyond recall, but it seems that Wally or Jesse DuChamp bowled that game.

National Curling Champions

Minnesota, and Hibbing in particular, can be rightly proud of the Harold Lauber rink for winning the United States curling championship in the bonspiel that was concluded in Chicago this past week.

The Lauber rink, and they are expected to participate in the International bonspiel to be held in Hibbing on April 13th and 14th, finished their competition with a record of 8 wins and 1 loss. Their lone loss came at the hands of the Detroit, Mich. rink.

Let's see, how can we tie-in the local Al Thompson rink with the national champions? They are entitled to a measure of reflected glory. The Thompson rink — Phil Beadle, Buster Anderson, Ardell Liden, and Thompson — participated in the district bonspiel held in March, at Roseau, and they lost to the classy St. Vincent rink. The St. Vincent rink, winners of the district title, participated in the state bonspiel in St. Paul, and finished as runners-up to the Lauber rink of Hibbing.

That spiel set for next week-end should be one of the best—ever to be held on the range. One hundred and twenty-eight rinks have been entered, and with each paying an entry fee of forty dollars a prize pool of $6,000.00 has been collected. None of the local rinks have been entered in the spiel, unfortunately, so none of that loot will sift back here.

History proves that the high speed of living has something to do with the high cost.

Science Fair at Bemidji Saturday

One of Seven Slated in Minnesota This Spring

Over 200 science students and their instructors are expected to attend the Science Fair at the laboratory school in Bemidji Saturday afternoon, April 6. This will be one of the seven regional science fairs sponsored by the Minnesota Academy of Science to be held throughout Minnesota this spring.

Directors of the Bemidji event expect about 90 exhibits to be displayed by science students from northern Minnesota. Winning exhibitors will compete for further honors at the annual meeting of the Minnesota Junior Academy of Science to be held May 4 at Rochester, Minnesota.

Science fairs have been organized to help discover talent in the boys and girls who will become the scientists, mathematicians and engineers of tomorrow. Science exhibits displayed at the fairs are the result of projects begun by students in the classroom, science laboratory, or at home, and usually represent research independent of regular class work.

A display and demonstration by representatives of the Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing Company, will be a program feature at the Bemidji fair.

Science exhibits at the Laboratory school may be viewed by the public from 1:30 to 4:00 p.m. on April 6.

Social Security Man Gives Tips to Public

If you intend to retire this month and file a claim at the social security district office for retirement benefits, you should bring the W-2 which you received from your employer, or a copy of your 1955 and 1956 income tax returns, according to Walter Kistler, district manager of the Grand Forks office.

A representative of the Grand Forks district office of the Social Security Administration will be in Thief River Falls at the City Auditorium Tuesday, April 9, at 10:00 a.m. Individuals who have questions regarding social security may contact him on that date.

"The W-2 can be used to verify your 1956 earnings if you worked for someone else," said Kistler. "The income tax return, plus a carefully completed Schedule C, profit and loss from business; or, Schedule F, schedule of farm income and expense is essential if you were in business for yourself in 1955 and 1956. Cancelled check or other evidence of payment of the social security tax should also be available if you were self-employed in 1955 and 1956."

Mr. Kistler says that his office, like all other social security offices is having an exceptionally high intake of claims since the first of the year, and some delays will be unavoidable. However, if claimants will come prepared with the proof of earnings described above, this record volume of work can be processed more rapidly.

Mr. Kistler points out that the social security amendments of 1956, which brought new groups under the program, reduced the retirement age for women to age 62, and provided benefits for the severly disabled worker age 50 to 65, are responsible for the sharp increase in the work in his office.

Highway Dept. to Honor Employes for Safe Driving

1,387 Workers Will Be Given Recognition at District Meeting Series

An outstanding example of safe driving on Minnesota streets and highways will be recognized by the Minnesota highway department when it honors 1,387 of its employes in a series of annual safety meetings to be held in the various maintenance district headquarters throughout the state beginning April 16 at Mankato.

Department no-accident certificates will be presented to 1,387 maintenance division employes who have had no preventable traffic accidents for a total of 4,652,180 man-days of highway work during 1956.

National Safety Council "Safe Driver" awards for continued operations of motor vehicles without accidents will be presented to 1,004 maintenance men in recognition of their outstanding safety record for the year. These professional awards are presented to those whose duties require them to drive motorized equipment for more than 50 per cent of their working time. Of these, 187 men have had perfect safety records for 20 years or more of state employment.

Three maintenance district headquarters will be honored with bronze plaques for having had no on-the-job traffic accidents charged against them during 1956. They are districts six, eight and ten, with headquarters at Morris, Willmar, and Detroit Lakes. The district maintenance engineers will receive awards from the Mutual Service Insurance companies which provide the liability insurance on all state-owned vehicles.

Accident Records Show Violators Cause Fatalities

Less than half of the drivers involved in fatal traffic accidents so far this year had clear records before that big one which resulted in someone's death. This report was released today by the accident records section of the Minnesota highway department, covering 107 drivers involved in fatal crashes during the first ten weeks of 1957.

Only 50 drivers (46.7 per cent) had no previous record of traffic convictions or accidents prior to the study. About 25 per cent had been in only one accident before; while 38 per cent had records of prior violations, showing on 44 per cent of the fatal driver records. Careless and reckless driving and the disregard of signs and signals had been charged against 29 per cent of the drivers.

This study did not indicate whether violations were indicated in the fatal mishaps during the period, but considered only those violations or accidents which had appeared on the driver license records prior to the mishap.

Park Stickers Now on Sale in State

Users of State Parks Are Asked to Buy Them Now

A banner season is expected for our Minnesota state parks on the basis of advance bookings and requests for information, John Martin, deputy director state parks announced today. State park sticker sales are expected to reach an all-time high surpassing last year's total of $114,859.

"Park visitors who enter state parks without entry "stickers" on the windshield of their autos will be shown every consideration and will be given every opportunity to purchase the sticker," Martin said. Minnesota statutes states that—"No motor vehicle shall enter or be permitted to enter any state park—over 50 acres in area unless it has affixed to its windshield in the lower right corner a sticker—." Park entry stickers sell for one dollar and allow entrance of vehicle to all Minnesota state parks during the entire year.

"Although it is advisable to purchase the sticker from a county auditor or his agent before entering the park, it is sometimes more convenient to make the purchase from a park official," Martin said. "However, he added, if the vehicle is left unattended in the park it will be tagged and the license number will be recorded by the park attendant. Ten days will then be given the registered car owner in which to purchase the sticker. He or she will be then required to report the date of sticker purchase, agent from whom the sticker was obtained and serial number of sticker. Receipt of this information will cancel violation record on file. Failure to report within ten days from date of notice will result in arrest procedures."

EQUITABLE AND WORKABLE

Minneapolis and St. Paul papers are terribly upset because the legislature does not redistrict the state as the Constitution directs, providing representation on the basis of population. As they see it, rural legislators are a band of bad citizens because they refuse to relinquish their control of the state lawmaking body.

They are correct in their charge that the legislature, over a period of many years, has failed to carry out a constitutional directive. On this point there is no argument. The question is whether or not the position of the rural bloc can be justified.

We would be willing to let our city cousins decide this question under different circumstances. We are sure, for instance, that the people of Minneapolis and St. Paul would be unanimous in opposing a proposal that the state of New York be given more representation in the Senate of the United States than the state of Minnesota.

In the House they outnumber us five to one. We go along with that arrangement. We do not fear the power of a few large states in one branch of the national legislature because we know that in the other branch of that lawmaking body the smaller states have an equal voice.

We are quite sure most of the good citizens of St. Paul and Minneapolis would agree that it would be stupid of the people of the state of New York to give to the city of New York the control of their state legislature. The legislature of New York is controlled by upper New York, and we think it would be an unfortunate thing for the state of New York as a whole if this were changed.

Senator Donald Sinclair is author of a bill that would solve this problem of representation by providing for a legislature that would be elected on both the population and the area basis, as in our national Congress. The House of Representatives would be elected according to population, as determined by the federal census. State senators would be elected as we elect those who represent us in the Senate of our national government, by districts that would not be changed by population fluctuations.

This offers a solution that is both realistic and fair. It is not a new or novel approach to an old problem. On the contrary it offers a system that has proven itself both equitable and workable.

The fortunate thing about such a solution is that it provides reasonable protection for the interests of all groups. The people of rural Minnesota are rapidly becoming a minority group. The metropolitan areas are expanding. There should be no serious conflict of interests between the urban and rural areas of the state, but the interests of each group should be safeguarded.

THE MILK PROBLEM

Alfred Stedman, farm editor of the St. Paul Pioneer Press, points to the conflicting interests of special groups that must be taken into consideration in setting up a state milk authority, and indicates a doubt as to whether such an authority could bring satisfactory solutions for the many problems involved.

At the production end of the business there are the conflicting interests of large and small operators. In the manufacturing and sale of the products there are the small grocers, the super markets and the door-to-door delivery merchants, each with their special problems. All of these groups want protection, Stedman points out. They want a law passed, and the law, presumably would do these things:

> "The law would vest the state with powers. One would be power to fix consumer prices of milk. A second would be power to fix farm prices of it. A third would be power to set amounts that could be charged by plants or retailers as a margin. A fourth would be power to levy milk tax to pay costs. A fifth would be power to license farmers, plants or others to be in the business of producing or selling milk."

Then in back of the law, Mr. Stedman explains, there would be a person, probably the commissioner of agriculture, who would be charged with the responsibility for administering its provisions and setting up regulations.

> "The state's big man of milk would be up against a battery of buzz saws. Would he set milk prices high enough to protect high cost dairy farmers? And high enough also to shield high cost plants and stores? And high enough, too, so that prices would all be the same for milk delivered to homes, taken home from stores or vending machines, and bought in glass or cartons whether in big quantities or small? And high enough, finally, to absorb wage increases in plants or on milk routes?
> "The political power to pass such laws implies the power to have them invoked, yielding to price demands is in accord with the familiar traits of public officials.
>
> "But if Minnesota's King Canute of Milk does raise our prices so high, with what broom will he sweep back the oceans of milk that would come flooding in from the states around us? Will he erect our own state milk wall? If so, will he not be surrendering to such barriers against us by other states? And if he thus surrenders, where will we sell our own 80 per cent milk surplus?

At this point we are inclined to agree with Mr. Stedman in his conclusion that,

> "Tough though it be, steady adjustment to harsh economic forces could be easier to live with than the consequences of human decisions by a Minnesota Czar of Milk."

March was a good month, as were February and January and December and all the preceding months, except that one that brought us too much rain last fall. But it has been a good winter and we are not in a complaining mood. The law of averages of course tells us that this sort of thing will not last forever. When things have been good for a long time we expect them to get worse and the nice thing about that is that after they have been worse for a while we can expect a few good breaks again. As long as the law of averages keeps working we will have little reason to complain.

The Legislature

By Orlin Folwick

St. Paul—Three weeks of activity under its constitutional time limit remain for the Minnesota state legislature to complete a job more profound and immersed in political ramifications than its predecessors for many years back.

At this writing, nearly 400 bills have been passed, few of them of more than local interest. None of the major problems, those upon which the governor and his liberal satellites in the house are basing their political futures, have reached the final consideration.

That the liberals are intent upon embarrassing the senate independents has become apparent by the speed with which the house is pouring out bills. Of the bills already passed and approved by the governor, two-thirds originated in the house. This is the basis of liberal claims that the house is acting on legislation while the senate is holding back.

Bills Late Coming In

Legislators who have been accustomed to deliberation and careful thought on controversial bills contend that the liberal majority in the house is just pushing bills through to load the senate up with material that will force it either to abandon many small, but pet, bills sponsored by liberals, or tie up the legislature on the big, important bills that are yet to come.

Whatever delays are blamed by the house liberals on the independent senate rests as much upon them and the governor as it does on the senators. The biggest bill of them all—the governor's omnibus tax bill—came in just five weeks before the required adjournment date.

Requires Study

This bill, carrying within its many pages numerous proposals for changes in the state tax structure, is one that requires careful study. Many legislators feel it should have been made ready early in the session so that the tax committees of both houses could have gone through it idea by idea and come out with an agreed upon plan. Since this bill must have its origin in the house, the senate has to wait until the house has combed it through and sent to the senate a version upon which it can work.

Many pressures are being felt by the legislators on this bill. It contains, for instance, a proposal to double up the state income taxes paid by married couples, both of whom work but whose total incomes are small. The bill would apply the present rate of one per cent on their first $1,000 of income to the first 3500. The second $500 of their income would cost them two per cent. Where such couples now pay five per cent on the taxable income of $5,000, the new rate would be eight per cent. For them, the new rate would be eight per cent. For them, the new rate would be $206.80 against the present rate of $126.10. Legislators are hearing a lot about this proposal, to eliminate the present personal property taxes on inventories, household goods and other such items that business, industry and farmers now pay, gets a lot of favorable attention.

Legislators Wary

There are numerous other proposals in the bill, all of them carrying important implications in the handling of the state's financial problems as well as those of counties and municipalities which would lose $24,000,000 in revenues by cancelling the personal property tax. Even though the house may rush the bill through, the senate is not going to accept it without a careful scrutiny. Already the senate tax committee, even though it has only a companion bill before it, is conducting hearings on the questions so that its members can be prepared to discuss each item when the house bill reaches the senate.

Probably more difficult in solution will be the appropriations bills. The house appropriations committee and the senate finance committee have been working every free hour on the spending proposals of the governor's program. It is not likely that the two committees will come out with the same recommendations. They never have in the past and the appropriations bills will probably be keeping the legislators awake and busy long after midnight of April 24, the day they are supposed to adjourn.

Spending vs Taxes

To most legislators—those who are not members of the four committees that handle taxes and appropriations, the picture is a confusing one. Few of them are willing to go home with the record showing they voted for something they didn't understand or that they voted for a spending program that will require more funds than the taxes will bring in.

One senate tax expert advised the committee that as the spending proposals made by the governor and the tax revenues suggested in his omnibus tax bill now stand, the state will be $18,000,000 in the red at the end of the 1957-1959 binennium. He said the figures show there will be no $21,000,000 saving for the taxpayers as indicated by the governor. Whatever benefits might be available this biennium will have to be made up in the next, when most likely a new governor will have to carry the burden.

Government reorganization is another big subject that has to get over many hurdles. It was the subject of a long battle in the 1955 legislature, and may take considerable time in this one.

Other Bills

Yet to be given attention are such subjects as state school aids, the proposal to raise basic aids from $82 to $92 per pupil; reapportionment of legislative districts, one version of which last week passed the house; a constitutional convention proposal; party designation for legislators, which has passed the house but frowned on in the senate; repeal of the $5 head tax on state income taxes; Korean bonus; the big redistribution of highway funds to give counties and municipalities a share of gasoline and auto license taxes; the 50-foot truck bill, which has generated a bitter battle; the liberals' proposal for a two-per-cent sales tax on all sales made by merchants who give trading stamps; the mental health program with its numerous ramifications; amendment or repeal of the presidential primary law; big pay raises for state appointive officials; big increases in unemployment insurance and workmen's compensation benefits; the ton-mile tax on trucks; $1 minimum wage; greater benefits for old age assistance recipients, and a number of others.

Considerable feeling exists over the proposal to raise the pay of appointed administrative officials to $16,000 a year, while the district judges of the state go along on a maximum of some $13,000. The district judges, who once were on a par with federal district judges, now see their federal court counterparts receiving some $10,000 a year more. There is talk of raising the district judges also to the $16,000 figure.

Who rates what for performance and smoother riding in the low-priced three? Chevrolet has laid the answer and the proof on the line!

First, Chevrolet won the Auto Decathlon over every car in its field, and over the higher priced cars that were tested, too. This rugged ten-way test (right, below) showed Chevrolet was the champ in handling ease, braking, acceleration, passing ability, smoothness of ride and other driving qualities you want in a car.

It's quite a feeling to know that you are driving a car that performs so well, responds so beautifully and is so finely built. You feel proud, of course. But you also enjoy a surer, smoother, steadier way of going, a keen cat-quick response of power, and the easiest handling you've ever experienced behind a wheel. Just try this Chevrolet (V8 or Six) and see!

March Weather Here Was Humdrum Affair

March weather in northwest Minnesota in general and Pennington county in particular was a very humdrum matter, with very little of either the lion or the lamb in it but mostly favoring the lamb toward the latter part of the month.

The snow cover left our area shortly after mid-March, with the first good thawing day being enjoyed here March 10. The highest temperatures of the year so far were registered March 21 and 22, with 54 both days.

The month's low temperature was registered March 2 with a —14, followed closely with —11 the 9th. Precipitation was virtually a rarity in the area in March, with considerably less than an inch of moisture of all kinds having been received.

The March temperature record is as follows:

Corn Action Up To Senate

We have broken through the deadlock that appeared likely to prevent any new corn legislation this year. Our Senate Committee on Agriculture has favorably reported to the Senate, on my motion and with bipartisan midwest support, a new corn bill that we believe can carry the House as well as the Senate. The new bill provides for a 1957 corn base acreage of 51 million acres, instead of 37.3 million allotments as at present. It keeps the support level at not less than $1.36 as already announced, and sets the stage for an entirely new over-all feed grain program for the 1958 crop.

Looking Ahead

It is the feed grain provision, adopted at my suggestion, which offers hope of breaking through the battle lines already drawn in the House. House Democrats had felt that it was time to consider all other feed grains along with corn, and seek to reduce total grain production via the soil bank rather than just act on corn and allow expansion of sorghum, oats, barley, etc. House Republicans had held out for just corn legislation — and neither could win. After the House deadlock most people "wrote off" any chance of corn legislation down here, but I was determined to make a new try. There was merit on both sides of the House fight—we needed corn legislation now, but it is true that we must look sooner or later at the over-all feed grain situation. My approach was to try and combine the two—an expanded corn acreage for 1957, and a start on a 1958 program covering corn and all other feed grains with a view to completing it before Congress leaves this fall instead of waiting until next January.

Need To Know

Farmers need to know further in advance what kind of program is going to be in effect. Too many times we have had these last minute hassles in Congress, leaving the farmer uncertain, as planting time arrives. I think we can mobilize enough support to write the 1958 program this summer, so everybody has plenty of time to consider how they can best participate. Next to better prices, which farmers certainly need, the most helpful thing we in Congress can do is earlier enactment of programs to help the farmer in planning his future operations.

June 1 Deadline

Our bill calls for the Secretary of Agriculture to "conduct a thorough study of possible methods of providing an over-all feed grain program which can be made effective with the 1958 crop, and report thereon with specific recommendations, including drafts of necessary legislation to carry out such recommendations, not later than June 1, 1957." That means we will be taking up the 1958 program immediately after June 1. It does not mean we have to take the Secretary's recommendations, of course—but it requires him to make recommendation this spring instead of waiting until next January.

Highway Upkeep Costs Increases

Total yearly costs for maintenance of Minnesota's 11,817 miles of trunk highways increased from $13,623,271 in 1951 to $16,801,192 in 1956, according to a six-year tabulation issued today by George A. Meskal, chief maintenance engineer. After jumping to slightly over $16 million in 1952, the totals dropped back to approximately $14 1/2 million each for 1953 and 1954 and climbed to about $15¾ million in 1955. Last year, routine maintenance took $7 million, bituminous retreatment and ice and snow removal about $3 million each, and signs and markers another $1 million. Lesser activities included new gravel and bituminous surfacing, regrading, join and crack renovation and pavement repairs.

More Game Law Violators Fined

Arrests for violations of game and fish laws totaled 192 in February, reports James A. Lee, technical assistant to director.

This represents a marked increase over the 139 arrests made during a similar period last year. Topping the list with 135 arrests were cases involving violations of the fishing laws. Transporting loaded or uncased firearms in automobiles were responsible for 22 arrests.

Fines paid as a result of these arrests totaled $3,362.

Emergency Loans Now Available in Six N.W. Counties

Loans by Farmers Home Admn. Draw Low Interest, Says Senator Humphrey

Senator Hubert H. Humphrey last Saturday announced that Secretary of Agriculture E. T. Benson has informed him that the six northwestern Minnesota counties of Kittson, Marshall, Pennington, Polk, Red Lake, and Roseau have been designated for special emergency loan assistance through the Farmers Home Administration.

Previously farmers in Kittson, Roseau, and Marshall counties were eligible for production emergency loans only, requiring them to show a production loss from adverse weather conditions, Senator Humphrey reported.

The Secretary of Agriculture, he said, has reconsidered the situation, and agrees that any farmer in the six-county drought area who cannot otherwise find financing for his current operations should be eligible for these 3% loans."

Under the program, farmers may borrow up to $15,000 on an initial loan, and thereafter up to an outstanding debt of $20,000.

"That proves it to me... the J-2 Rocket is like two engines in one!"

HE: Right! This J-2 Rocket* is really a new driving experience!

FRIEND: Well, I've handled a Rocket Engine before, but nothing like this. They've always had pep, but this one's got that extra pep when you need it!

HE: Don't forget economy.

FRIEND: Yes, but you can't feel economy.

HE: Feels pretty good to the pocketbook.

HE: Easy. For cruising around, you just use one dual-barrel carburetor.

FRIEND: Bet that waters down your performance some.

HE: Not a bit. I've got regular Rocket performance right through the economy range. And believe me: that's plenty. But if you need more power . . .

FRIEND: Then what?

HE: Go to Stage Two. You just saw what that does: Give it three-quarters throttle and you've got three dual carburetors dishing up more power and torque!

FRIEND: Tell you the truth. I've always liked an Olds. Thought we might get one ourselves some day.

HE: Checked the price lately? You'd be surprised how easy it is to own.

TRF Teachers Note 100th Anniversary of Nat. Education Assn.

The following article, prepared by members of the Thief River Falls Education association, deals with the centennial of nation education association.

This summer, June 30-July 6, the National Education association plans to meet in Philadelphia amid historic shrines of the nation's birth, where the organization was born in 1857. The many teachers from all over America at this Centennial convention will review a century of achievement and look ahead to a new century of progress.

From its beginnings 100 years ago, the National Education Association has grown in membership to over 660,000 teachers, to become the largest professional organization in the world.

When the NEA bought its first property in Washington, D. C. over 40 years ago, its executive secretary personally transported the files there in a nation's capital city. The staff will include over 500 persons organized in over 50 divisions, commissions and departments, all working constantly for the advancement of education and for the improvement of teachers and teaching conditions. The association has secured for itself recognition as the voice of American education. Teachers now realize that it is not only a professional obligation but a privilege to hold membership in the National Education Association.

The teachers in the Thief River Falls public school system have the distinction of having a 100% membership in the national organization. Several of them hold life-memberships. They are: Supt. J. A. Sater, Paul E. Anderson, Kermit L. Eastman, John M. Elsbrener, Quentin N. Jones, Jon Metusalem, Charles Samuelson, and Bernice Troumbly.

To serve effectively, the National Education Association needs the assistance and cooperation of the various state associations. A meeting of a group of teachers in Rochester, Minnesota on August 27-28, 1861, resulted in the formation of an organization now known as the Minnesota Education Association.

The first President was B. F Crary, then Superintendent of Public Instruction in Minnesota. No record of the number of persons in attendance is available for the first meeting; however, the second meeting held in 1862 was attended by fifty teachers. We owe them a debt of gratitude and our support of the ideas proposed by them.

The accomplishments of the Minnesota Education Association hold a close relationship to the original statement of purpose: "The Minnesota Teachers Organization will give form to the feelings and opinions of teachers, hereafter, and will be an efficient auxiliary in executing the will of the legislature." Changes, to meet the needs of a growing organization, have been made in its constitution by the action of the Delegate Assembly with consent of the membership. Other changes will be made as teachers recognize the need for more intensive action and are willing to work together in unified activity.

From the beginning, this organization has worked in the interests of the schools to improve education and the legislation affecting it. The welfare of its members were active in safeguarding the interests of Minnesota's children to insure adequate educational opportunities for them. Group meetings, delegate assemblies and executive board action have played their parts in this development.

Local associations are the grass roots of NEA and MEA, and through these units, members are learning that their ideas and actions have an important influence in Association affairs.

Within recent years, local associations in Minnesota have increased, indicating that more teachers believe in their profession and are willing to give their time and effort to achieve the goals desired by all teachers. Active members at the local, state, and national levels will achieve any reasonable goal as teachers work in a unified program and give serious consideration to all educational problems.

On November 29, 1944 the teachers of Independent District 18 of Thief River Falls met to organize as teachers' organization. P. L. Fjelsted, Superintendent of Schools, acted as chairman pro-tem.

The organization became officially known as the "Thief River Falls Educational Association." The aims of the organization have been well stated. It is the purpose of the association to bring its members into a relationship of mutual understanding and cooperation, to act as a clearing house for teacher opinion, and to be their official spokesman when decisions are made. It endeavors to improve the professional, social, and economic status of its members. It advances academic freedom: Teachers should be guaranteed the constitutional right of freedom of speech, press, and assembly; and to support actively organized movements which they consider to be in their own public interest.

Membership is open for all persons engaged in the profession of teaching in the public schools of District 18 upon payment of dues. At the time of organization there were 54 charter members. In striking comparison, the present school year has a membership of 100 members.

Local meetings are conducted the second Wednesday of each six weeks' period. Of unique interest in the January meeting, was the presence of Dr. Gordon Mork, MEA President, who discussed pertinent legislation on education.

The present officers are: President, Quentin Jones; vice president, Richard Edlund; secretary, Miss Judith Wold; and treasurer, Miss Marilyn Meyer.

In keeping and for smoother operation, the following committees are active and are listed with the chairman of each: Public relations and publicity, Jon Metusalem; welfare and ethics, Verner Johnson; legislation, Miss Thora Skomedal; teacher education and professional standards, Miss Mary McNellis; salary committee, Ted Mills; American Education Week, Miss Bernice Troumbly; international relations, James Carlson; Future Teachers of America, Lawrence Brown.

Better schools depend on public approval. For this reason all of our teacher organizations, local, state, and national, defend the case for an adequate education. They encourage the many good friends and the constructive critics of public education. They resist the efforts, whether misguided or misinformed or malicious, to impair the schools. These organizations exist for the teacher and for education.

U. S. Steel Corp. Donates $14,000 to State Colleges

The Minnesota College Fund association Monday received a grant of $14,000 from United States Steel foundation, Dr. Paul H. Giddens, St. Paul, fund president, announced.

The grant was presented by Dreng Bjornaraa, St. Paul, representing R. T. Elstad, Duluth, Minn., president of U.S. Steel's Oliver iron mining division.

The grant is part of the foundation's $1,800,000 1957 aid program to some 600 private colleges and universities. It brought total grants to the Minnesota fund for the current fiscal year to $215,000.

Fourteen Minnesota colleges participate in the fund. Gifts received through the fund association last year enabled them to increase faculty salaries an average of 7 per cent, Gidden said.

SYMBOL

Legend has it that, long ago, the dogwood came into bloom on Calvary and that, afterwards, a cross was implanted into the flower itself, to remain for all time. You can see it if you look closely, rust-brown against the white of each individual blossom.

Many of us carry crosses, faint like the dogwood's emblem but with us, nevertheless. Somehow, in this Lenten season, we become particularly conscious of them and of our need for help—a certain kind of help, that can be found only through the things we learn in Church.

The Church doesn't pretend to banish our cares and woes. But, its teachings realistically consider the experiences of life itself. No matter what our personal cross may be, we seem able to bear its burden with more strength.

Lent is a wonderful time in which to begin making church-going a regular part of your life—if you haven't already.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Supt. Al Sater Resigns; Takes Brainerd Post

Will Take over New Position Next July after 2 Years Here

J. A. Sater, who has served as superintendent of schools in the Thief River Falls district No. 18 the past two years, submitted his resignation to the board of education at a special meeting Thursday night, and stated he is resigning to accept a post as head of the Brainerd schools. He said that he had not applied for the position, the offer having come unsolicited. The board voted to release him.

Commenting on his decision, Supt. Sater said that the Brainerd position represents a substantial professional advance, the community being larger than Thief River Falls and the school system employing a staff of 150 teachers. He plans to move with his family to Brainerd in July.

He said he will leave this city with a good deal of regret, having enjoyed excellent cooperation from the local board of education and the general public. He had recently been reelected to serve here another year at an increase in salary.

During his period of service in this city, Supt. Sater directed the program under which School District 18 was greatly expanded by the addition of numerous rural school districts to the local system. He also made numerous changes in the administrative setup in the schools, and it was under his supervision that the current $1,200,000 school building program was inaugurated.

Dr. M. D. Starkow, president of the school board, stated that he regretted Supt. Sater's decision to leave his post here, and at the same time commended him for his excellent work in connection with the reorganization of the schools and supervising the extensive building program now in progress.

Dr. Starekow added that the board will immediately tackle the job of finding a successor.

Water System Is Being Planned by St. Hilaire People

Study $80,000 Project Calling for Deep Well and Laying of Water Mains

If a movement now underway in the village of St. Hilaire reaches fulfillment, residents of that comunity will vote in a special election April 24 on whether an $80,000 municipal water system is to be installed and they will also vote on a bond issue in connection with the project, it was learned by the Times Friday.

The $80,000 cost would cover the construction of a deep well and water mains to serve the village on the west side of Red Lake river and the area of the village west of the railway tracks. Consulting engineer in the project is from Detroit Lakes.

A council spokesman said Friday the village has $20,000 on hand towards realization of the proposed project. Depending on the cost of the deep well, he said, the bond issue may be in the neighborhood of $60,000.

A public hearing in the matter is slated for April 23 according to a member of the village council. However legal advertisements for the hearing or for the special election have not yet been published. Those notices, it was understood, would shortly be forthcoming.

At the present time the village is served by private wells and they range in depth from 90 to 150 feet.

Robert R. Farrar, White Bear Lake, secretary-treasurer of the Minnesota Cheese Industries association, has been named executive secretary of the newly organized Minnesota Dairy Products association. It was announced today.

State Primary Election Laws Are Amended

Bill Providing for Consolidated Ballot Goes to Governor

Minnesota's presidential primary election would join with New Hampshire's as the first in the nation under terms of a bill given final passage Friday by the state senate.

The group approved a measure, house file 381, that revises the state's presidential act. Already passed by the house, it goes to the governor for signature.

Final vote was 56 to 5, with Senators John Metcalf, Gerald T. Mullin, Herbert Rogers, Charles Root, and Thomas Vukelich opposed.

The bill moves the primary date in Minnesota from the third to the second Tuesday in March. It also provides for a consolidated ballot (candidates from both parties listed on a single ballot) and returns to political parties the right to pick delegates to the national party convention.

The senate also has given preliminary approval to a bill, senate file 640, that repeals the presidential primary act.

If approved, it would go to the house for consideration.

Also given final passage by the senate were bills that would authorize the state to charge relatives of mentally ill, mentaly retarded and epileptic patients in state institutions up to 25 per cent of costs of care, based on ability to pay. Home counties of patients would pay a sum equal to 10 per cent of costs or $10 a month, whichever is greater.

Plans Advance for Centennial Events in 1958

Propose Oxcart Trip to St. Paul on Old Pembina Trail

Tentative plans for Pennington county participation in the 1958 Minnesota Statehood Centennial observance were further developed at a meeting of the county centennial committee Friday afternoon in the court house. Judge Herman A. Kjos, committee chairman, conducted the meeting, which was attended by about 20 persons.

Among the projects discussed was the placing of markers along the old Pembina trail, which passed thru the county on the sand ridge about 12 miles west of Thief River Falls. Other northwest counties, it was stated, are planning similar action.

It also was suggested that Pennington county might share in sponsoring an ox-cart trip along the route of the old Pembina trail from its end at Pembina, N. D., to St. Paul sometime during the centennial year. The proposal was referred for study to a committee including Bill LaFave and County Agent Paul Stelmaschuk.

It was voted to recommend to the Pennington county fair board that the 1958 fair be built around a centennial theme.

The committee proposed that an effort be made to have the state highway department set up a roadside parking area east of the Eighth st. bridge and south of Highway 1 on the bank of Red Lake river. It was pointed out that the area has historic significance, marking as it does the former western border of the Indian reservation opened to settlement in 1904. The matter was referred to LaFave, W. W. Prichard and Rev. Walter M. Pedersen.

Another project discussed was a community festival for early in August, 1958, when the new Eighth st. bridge is scheduled to be completed. Clifford Bjorkman and Roy J. Oen were named to sound out the opinions of local civic groups on the proposal, and were asked to report at the next meeting of the committee May 21.

Boyce Lee Named Winner of FFA Star Farmer Award

Wins FFA Star Farmer Award

Boyce Lee, left, proudly displays the trophy he won as the Lincoln High School 1957 FFA chapter Star Farmer award after it was presented by Jon Metusalem, chapter advisor, (at right.) The award is made on the basis of outstanding character, effort, activities on the part of the recipient. (Story is elsewhere in this issue of the Times).

Boyce Lee, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Art Lee of rural Thief River Falls, received the Lincoln high school Future Farmers of America 1957 chapter Star Farmer award at the Jaycees-sponsored bean feed held at Knox school Thursday evening.

The award given to young Lee was one of several honors members of the Lincoln FFA chapter received during the evening.

Harry Oen, who was named the Jaycees 1957 Oustanding Young Farmer in Pennington county was also honored at the bean feed. He was presented with a wall plaque by Orrin Green, local Jaycee president, during the awards ceremony which followed the dinner.

The bean feed is an annual event at which members of the Lincoln high school chapter of FFA are honored. Jon Metusalem is the chapter advisor. The banquet was presided over by Roger Anderson, who also was awarded the chapter's farm records and leadership award by Metusalem. About 100 persons attended the bean feed, which was served by members of the local Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Other award winners were Richard Jorde, freshman award; Harlan Rude, sophomore award; Gary Rolandson, junior and beef award; Dennis Swanson, crops; Hillard Koop, poultry; and Duane Bjerke, hog.

Complimentary awards went to C. W. Pope, William Thompson, Carl Gjernes, Charles Kotaska, Leonard Furseth, Jim Roche and the Thief River Falls Junior Chamber of Commerce. These awards are given in recognition for encouragement and assistance to the FFA chapter.

After the awards ceremony Gary Rolandson reported on his Jaycee-sponsored trip to Chicago in November and Harlan Rude reported on his trip to Minneapolis and the grain exchange, which was sponsored by F. H. Peavey Co.

The Star Farmer award won by Boyce Lee is given on the basis of outstanding personal qualities, church activities and scholarship. Lee is active in his farm-work, as well as in the FFA chapter, is maintaining well above-average grades in school and has served as treasurer and vice-president of his Luther League.

Harry Oen gave a short address after receiving his award. He stated that, contrary to what many young people think nowadays, there is a great future in farming and the farmer. He said the active, business-like farmer could succeed in spite of the many present handicaps.

Following Oen's address those present at the event gave the salute to the flag, after which entertainment was provided in the form of several numbers by the Thief River Falls Lions Club quartet.

Misses Tandberg and Batten to Be Honored at Banquet Tuesday

A noteworthy occasion in local school circles will be observed Tuesday evening, April 9, at 6:30, when Miss Lyda Batten and Miss Emma Tandberg, long-time teachers, will be honored at a banquet in the American Legion club rooms, preceding their retirement from the profession at the close of the present term.

The affair is being sponsored by the Thief River Falls unit of the Minnesota Education association, and Miss Mary McNeilis of the Lincoln school faculty will serve as toastmistess.

Special guests at the dinner will be Supt. Morris Bye of Anoka, for many years head of the local school system, and Mrs. Bye; and Miss Edna Larson, retired co-worker of Miss Batten and Miss Tandberg. Invitations also have been sent to W. G. Claffy of Long Beach, Calif., former superintendent here, and Mrs. Claffy. Other guests will be members of the local board of education and their wives.

Miss Lyda Batten, was born in Wisconsin and received her early education there. Later she attended school in southern Minnesota and graduated from Moorhead state teachers college.

Miss Batten began her teaching career in the rural schools of Traverse County more than 50 years ago. From there she came to the elementary schools of Thief River Falls where she has since been a member of the public school faculty.

She has served both as an elementary and junior high school classroom teacher, and in an administrative capacity, she was principal of Central school for eighteen years, assistant principal at Lincoln junior-senior high school for eight years, and most recently dean of girls at Lincoln school.

Her efforts in the interest of education extended beyond her classroom and office. She served as president of the PTA, and was once a delegate to the state PTA convention. She has also been a member of the delegate assembly of the Minnesota Education association. Other educational activities included membership in the Education Policies Commission and a district chairmanship of American Education Week. In recent years, Miss Batten, as local chairman, devoted much interest to the Junior Red Cross.

Miss Batten maintains a strong interest in civic affairs. She actively participates in the program of the Thief River Falls Woman's club, in which organization she has held offices of president, secretary and treasurer.

Miss Batten is a member of the Community Methodist church and has served as both president and secretary of the Wesleyan Service Guild of which she is a member.

Pupils to Receive Immunization in T. R. Falls Schools

School Nurse Requests Parents' Cooperation in Drive Against Diseases

Because of the poor response to the immunization program the past two years, parents have requested that this protection be given in schools as it was done a few years ago, Mrs. Margaret Race, school nurse, stated today.

The medical profession and the schools are responding to this request. Permit slips will be distributed only in the grade schools and will be offered to any child who has had no diphtheria-tetanus shot in the past 3 years or a smallpox vaccination in the past 6 years.

Children in 3rd and 6th grades who did not have a booster for diphtheria earlier this year or 4th graders who did not get them last year, are urged to take advantage of this opportunity. Sixth graders are also due for a revaccination for smallox.

Permit slips will be out this week and parents are asked to sign them immediately and return to the school. With cooperation this job could be done before Easter vacation, said Mrs. Race.

She added that there have been several cases of diphtheria in Minnesota recently, and a few cases were in this area. This is the time to see that the children in Thief River Falls are adequately protected.

The price will be 50 cents per shot.

All Housekeeping Units Must Now Use Service

Under the new ordinance setting up a city sanitation department adopted recently by the city council, use of the city's garbage collection facilities is required of all house keeping units, instead of being optional, as was formerly the case, City Clerk P. G. Pederson pointed out today.

A fee of 50 cents per month is charged for the service, and is added to the monthly bill for electricity.

The ordinance also requires that all garbage be wrapped in paper before being deposited in the garbage receptacle.

Homemakers Project Meetings under Way

Homemakers of Pennington county are learning how to plan attractive backgrounds in their homes at the homemakers group meetings being held now, Home Agent Marge Olsen announced today.

The last lesson in this year's extension home program is "Backgrounds in Home Furnishings." Leaders of the groups were trained in the lesson at a series of leader training meeting held in late March and early April. These leaders are now holding local meetings in their own communities.

How to plan color, texture and pattern for attractive room settings opens the lessons. Walls are then studied, and wallpapers and paints are discussed and examined. Woodwork finishes are also included.

Various finishes for wood floors opens the discussions on the floors. Floor coverings in the hard surface group, such as linoleum and tile are examined and evaluated, and this procedure is repeated for carpets.

To conclude the meetings, the members plan the entire background for a living room, using the samples of paint, wallpaper, floor coverings, and draperies available at the meeting.

Since the backgrounds for the home are not replaced often, they must be carefully planned, and the buying must be done intelligently. This lesson teaches homemakers both careful planning and intelligent buying for best satisfaction later.

Two events remain in this years extension home program. An open meeting on cancer education will be held on Tuesday, April 9th in the city auditorium at 2:00 p.m. Dr. J. L. Norquist will speak, and movies will be shown.

The annual Homemakers Achievement Day will be held on Friday, June 7th, as an outdoor picnic. Miss Dorothy Simmons, state leader in the extension home program, will be present to tell of "Homemakers in Korea."

Mrs. Oscar Omundson visited Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Alma Hanson. During the visit a package arrived containing oranges grown by the Oscar Anderson's of San Diego, Calif. The Anderson's were former residents of this city.

BSTC Accredited for Graduate Work

May Now Offer Graduate Study to 5th Year Students

Bemidji State Teachers College is now accredited to offer graduate courses to fifth year college students working for their master's degrees, according to a telegram received Friday from BSTC president Dr. Charles Sattgast who is attending the annual meeting of the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools at Chicago.

Dr. Sattgast was apprised of the accreditation this morning when the general assembly of the North Central Association voted to accept the recommendation of the Committee on Higher Education to classify the Bemidji college as a Master's Degree-granting Institution.

The North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools is a governing body set up by colleges and high schools in the twenty north-central states for the purpose of setting up educational standards and criteria with schools must meet to be accredited.

Qualifications for BSTC's acceptance as a graduate study college were established by a self-survey made by the local faculty two years ago and followed by an official survey by representatives of the NCA Committee on Higher Education in 1956.

Gary Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Smith, spent the weekend at the home of his parents. Gary has been attending Concordia college in Moorhead and now is practice teaching at Climax for three weeks prior to his graduation in June.

Wylie Co-op Elevator Ends 52-year Career

One of the oldest businesses in Pennington county, the Wylie Cooperative Elevator, is being liquidated, according to Carl Anderson, secretary. At a meeting of the board of directors held March 16, a decision to cease operations was reached. The elevator itself has been sold to Gregory Welland and Ray Ulrich of Euclid and Angus. The remanants of a hardware stock and a few chattels are being disposed of in a close-out sale.

The Wylie elevator was organized in 1905 on a railroad spur built to that point from St. Hilaire, and at one time Wylie was a busy settlement. For many years it was one of Uncle Sam's many post offices. It also had two general stores, a bank, a blacksmith shop, a cheese factory, a saloon and several other small businesses.

Active in the community and its affairs at that time were such pioneer settlers as the Naplins, Charlie Lindquist, Emil Larson and Charlie Johnson.

Mr. Anderson states that the stockholders of the corporation will receive full value for their stock, although he anticipates considerable difficulty in locating owners of some of the certificates. He asks that any pictures of the old settlement be made available for reproduction. They would be of historical interest and should be preserved.

The new owners of the elevator have not announced what use they will make of the building.

Cool Temperature Readings Prevail

Mercury Drops Below 32 Mark Each Day Past Week

Area weather still has a wintery feeling about it as cold Canadian air predominates in our upper midwest area. Strangely enough, snow at this time of year lies mostly south, not north, of the upper midwest border states.

Jack Frost paid the Pennington county area visits every night the past week with early morning temperatures dipping well below the freezing mark every day. Highs ranged from 45 last Wednesday and the low was yesterday's 16 above during the past weekly reporting period.

Here is the record for the week:

Date	High	Low
Monday, April 1	34	23
Tuesday, April 2	41	26
Wednesday, April 3	45	21
Thursday, April 4	39	25
Friday, April 5	35	22
Saturday, April 6	38	21
Sunday, April 7	34	16

The Monday low was 22. A trace of precipitation was received here last week but nothing like the amounts which fell farther south.

The area forecast from KTRF calls for mostly fair and slightly warmer weather today with southerly winds 15 m.p.h. changing to northwesterly at the same velocity tonight.

It will be cloudy with possibly a few snow flurries tonight, and Tuesday will be partly cloudy and slightly cooler. The Wednesday outlook is for continued cool weather.

High today will be 45-48 and the lows 20 to 25.

Dentists Conduct State Convention

Estimated 5,000 Share in Minneapolis Event

The 74th annual convention of the Minnesota State Dental Association ended Wednesday following three days of lectures, forums, clinics and social events in the Minneapolis Auditorium and Leamington hotel. Most of the Thief River Falls dentists were in attendance.

Over 5,000 Minnesota dentists, dental hygienists and assistants, women's auxiliary members and exhibitors were present Monday morning as Dr. Daniel R. Clark, Minneapolis, president of the association, formally opened the convention.

On Monday night, the annual banquet and dance was held in the Leamington Hall of States and was attended by Governor and Mrs. Orville Freeman, along with state and district officials and their guests.

Dr. George M. Damon and Dr. Walter Hyde, both of Minneapolis, and Dr. Edward Stafne of Rochester, Minn., were honored Tuesday for their achievements and many years of service to the dental profession. Also on Tuesday, the house of delegates met to install Dr. R. Donald Hooper of St. Paul as the 1957-58 president of the association.

Addition lectures and clinics were held on Wednesday, sparked by a report on the dental aspects of radiation from X-rays and the precautions necessary to prevent unfortunate biological effects. Film showings and clinics were also held yesterday, and throughout the three days visitors toured the various professional and technical exhibits on the arena floor of the Auditorium.

DHIA Meeting Set at Plummer Apr. 9

Area Dairymen Invited to Share in Session

Dairymen interested in Dairy Herd Improvement Association work will meet in Plummer on Tuesday, April 9, at 8 p. m. in the high school auditorium.

Dairymen from Pennington and Red Lake counties will discuss the DHIA organization. The effect of the improvement association can be measured in the progress of dairying in Wisconsin, and southern Minnesota where some counties have up to four associations, said County Agent Paul Stelmaschuk.

DHIA he added, is not just a culling program or one for sale of well bred cattle. It is an accurate feeding and milk testing program. This is reflected in higher production per cow.

County Agents from Red Lake and Pennington counties will assist with the meeting. All dairy farmers are urged to attend.

Calling the Roll

Although the city's bowling leagues are entering their final week of their scheduled competitin, the tumult and the shouting has just about subsided because the league championships, for the most part, were decided this past week.

Only in the Friday night City league is there a chance for contest. In that league, the Northern Woodwork, with three games remaining to be bowled, holds a three-game lead, and it's not very probable that they will be forced into a roll-off for the league championship.

Here's the roll call of the league champions, and their team members: Monday night Service league; Soo Branchliners—Jim Anderson, Harry Ellefson, Ab and Cliff Stromberg, Wick Wickstrom, Lenny Hellquist, Phil LeGault, Harold Nelson and Art Burke. The Tuesday night Business league: the V.F.W.—Gordy Dunham, Roy Jorgenson, Cliff Stromberg, Norm Wennberg, Chuck Krause, Phil LeGault, and Eldon and Del Harbott.

The Wednesday night Women's Nite Hawk league; the first half and second half winners, and league champions, the Thief River Pharmacy—Bess Lang, Pat Dahlouh, Alice Nornes, Marj Tegtmeier, Alma Johnk, and Min Ruane. The Thursday night Commercial league: St. Hilaire—Connie Swanson, Joe St. Michel, Len Bekke, Ray Grumbo, Klem Gigstad, and Nicky Drees.

The Friday night City league, and the Northern Woodwork has clinched at least a tie for the league championship—Otto Myhrer, Vete Terway, Don Appel, Reuben Hoffman, Am Wysoski, Ken Rustad, and Ben Miramontes.

And speaking of high single games, such as Helmer Skomedal's 298 game last week. We were reminded that that game wasn't the highest single game that had been rolled over the Mint alleys, although it is the highest score posted since Irv Wilson took over the proprietorship of the lanes. Some years ago, and it was perhaps during the time that Oscar Cerny owned the alleys, Fred Lorentson came up with a 299 game.

And we've been told that the highest single game that Wally DuChamp ever bowled was a 297. We've learned that there was a 300 game bowled on the old DuChamp alleys, and from what we were told, Emil Dostal was in on that game. It's all in the DuChamp family, though, for Emil is an uncle of Walley's.

Al the Finkelstein

Accompanying the 18-car Winnipeg motorcade that made a noon-hour stop here on Wednesday was none other than Al Finkelstein.

Al is now employed with the Winnipeg Free Press, and he was on assignment, covering the Pine-to-Palm tour for his paper. Al, of course, is remembered by senior hockey games as the goalie for the Grand Forks Amerks and the North Dakota Sioux some years ago.

This was back in what we term the "halcyon" days of hockey, when Cliff Fido Purpur was stirring up the interest of the fans at Grand Forks. It's doubtful if senior hockey will ever again reach the fever-pitch that aroused the fans in those days, and particularly the Grand Forks and the Thief River Falls fans.

Finkelstein, in the nets for the Amerks, and later for the Sioux, was one of the reasons for this hockey interest. He was a colorful performer.

Al had special greetings to Russ Embury. During those hectic games between the Thieves and the Amerks, and a couple against the Sioux, Al was a target for Russ' verbal blasts.

It's Not Yet

Several of the city's more intrepid and hot-blooded anglers are all primed for a quick trip to Lake Superior's north shore, for the smelt run.

The heavy snows that have plagued that area the past week or ten days apparently have delayed the smelt run, for the reports coming out of Duluth have been negative.

When the smelt run is on, much fun and plenty of fish can be taken. Tubs, buckets, seines, hip boots, and anti-freeze are usually the accessories needed for this sort of fishing. Most of the local "smelters" leave here on a Friday or Saturday night, and then "fish" for a day or so and return on Sunday. It's a night-time operation, though, and that accounts for the innumerable duckings that the "anglers" get when they tumble into the icy waters of Lake Superior.

Quite a Record

In preparing for the approaching high school baseball season (and the Prowlers are tentatively slated to open on April 20th), we had occasion to leaf through the Prowler record book.

Baseball was given official sanction by the local high school in 1953, when it was given a letter-award status. Since that time, from 1953 through 1956, the Prowlers have compiled a record of 40 wins and 12 losses. They have won four district championships and one regional title. All this has been done under the able coaching of Ralph Skjod, and the end is not yet for the Prowlers of this season must be rated as the district favorites.

But while this won-and-lost record, and these four districts titles, and the one regional championship are accomplishments to which we can point with pride, we must remember that in athletics, and high school athletics in particular, there are intangibles that are more noteworthy and beneficial than the mere winning or losing of games or titles.

After all, there isn't a team, in any sport, that can win 'em all. The benefits of high school athletics are many. Boys learn the value of being a member of a team, and the value of cooperation with fellow team members. In baseball, they learn, under Ralph's coaching, the proper method of playing the game. They learn, too, how to lose. Not to be a "good" loser in the sense that they're glad their opponents won, but to appreciate the talents of their opponents, and to make preparations to redeem that loss at the next meeting.

In our book, baseball rates as the best team sport, and the best spectator sport, too. We're anxiously awaiting the umpire's cry of "Play Ball".

Spring Weather Causes Airport Activity Increase

In spring, they say, a young man's fancy turns to thoughts of love—provided he isn't a flyer, in which case he will probably prefer to head for the airport and dust off his wings after the winter layup. Shown here is a typical group of flyers to be found at municipal airport here on any sunny afternoon when light activity begins the return to the warm-weather activity peak.

Little Stan Ehrenstrom, at two-and-one-half years of age, is a seasoned air traveller and loves to fly with his dad or the other pilots here. His first air trip was taken at the tender age of four weeks, when his father flew the family 2200 miles from Florida to Minnesota in a light airplane after his Air Force discharge. Ellwood is a member of the Air Reserve flight here.

Thieves Manager

GENE SACK

The board of directors and officers of the city's senior baseball organization announced the appointment of Gene Sack as the manager of the Thieves team for the 1957 season.

Sack, who has had a considerable amount of organized baseball training, played with the local club last season, and it was largely through his efforts that the Thieves gained second place in the team standings and were runnersup to the Bagley-Merchants in the Northern Minnesota league playoffs.

Sack is a member of the local high school faculty, and this past hockey season he assisted John Matchefts in coaching the hockey Prowlers. He succeeds Berdeen Nornes as manager of the Thieves. Nornes, who directed the local senior baseball club for the past several seasons, is employed out of town and was forced to relinquish the team managership.

Business Education Department
By Franklin Skogen

The business education curricula at Lincoln High School gives students the personal skills and business training that guides them in their vocational endeavors and personal affairs through life.

This department includes typewriting, shorthand I and II, bookkeeping, and distibutive education (covered in a previous article), a class in shorthand I, and a class in shorthand II. Marilyn Meyer teaches bookkeeping and a class in shorthand II. Typewriting and a class in shorthand I are taught by myself.

Typewriting is offered as an elective in the sophmore year and where possible in the junior and senior year. The skill and the use of this skill in all its phases so it will be an asset to him or her throughout their life.

The course is taught with the intent that each individual shall progress and reach the goal of which they are capable. So that each individual may follow their progress, speed and accuracy drills are given against time which makes it possible for the student to measure the number of words they type in one minute. These drills are given as one, two three, and five minute drills—always concluding the series of drills with emphasis on accuracy so as to regain any control of the machine which may be lost during speed emphasis. The students are responsible for checking their drills to determine the words per minute and the number of errors made. This point cannot be stressed to much as any typist must learn to proofread the material typed to verify the accuracy of the copy.

Tabulation is introduced into the course as early as possible with simple problems for use in drill of this mechanism. Tabulation problems can then be used at intervals throughout the year to increase the skill in its use.

Centering in typing involves the placement of any problem at verticle and horizontal center on the paper so the typewritten work will be neat and attractive. The problems in tabulation and centering necessitate that the student use a number of adjustments on the machine and in so doing become more efficient in the handling of the machine.

Simple letters are brought into the course as soon as the students become reasonably familiar with the machine. The early introduction of letters is important as it develops a feeling of accomplishment as they are able to put their skill to use and come out with a finished product. Each new letter form is introduced and typed a number of times to become aquainted with the various forms; the most common forms are given the most emphasis.

As the students become familiar with letters, they must also type the envelope to go with it and learn to fold the letter properly to fit into the envelope. Carbon copies are an important part of typing letters so the students must learn to type with carbons and the uses that are made of the copies.

As the students progress through the course, they become familiar with typing of reports, themes, manuscripts, post cards, introduction to stencils and ditto carbons, rules on word division, general typing rules, and other points are brought in as time permits.

It is not true that a student must be able to type 60, 70, 80 words per minute in order to feel he has attained a useful skill. The person who has attained 35 words per minute has also attained a skill which will be very useful to him. The important thing is that the student learns to use this skill properly. The skill will increase as the student continues to use it.

At present the typing room is equipped with 44 manual machines and one electric. The manual machines include 23 Underwoods, 6 Smith-Coronas, 4 Remingtons, and 11 Royals. The one electric machine is an Underwood.

The first year of shorthand is offered as an elective in the junior year. There are 53 junior girls taking shorthand I this year.

Shorthand I is the introduction to skill which substitutes shorthand characters for longhand letters to contruct words. One hundred and eighty four of these shorthand characters are brief forms which represent the most frequently used words.

Students are introduced to shorthand first through memorizing the shorthand characters which we might refer to as the shorthand alphabet. These charactres are used to write words and the students must spell these words and then pronounce them. They then recognize that the words and then pronounce them. They then recognize that the words are written as they are pronounced. This rule of spelling and pronouncing is carried through the year for any words which are not easily recognized.

The alphabet is followed in about a week by the introduction of shorthand characters called brief forms which represent one, two, or thee words. These brief forms must be memorized so the student will recognize them immediately.

The consecutive lessons introduce new brief forms and theory used in the writing of shorthand. The theory is studied by the group and a great many words using the theory are read to be certain of an understanding of the new theory. Each new theory is used in the reading matter of the following lessons so the student will learn and retain through constant use.

A period of about five weeks is spent in which the students are learning through reading pages of well written shorthand forms. When the class has progressed satisfactorily in the reading of shorthand, the writing of shorthand is introduced and the student copies the shorthand forms in the daily lessons. This is followed very shortly by the writing of shorthand from dictation of familiar material which has been read and copied.

The shorthand skill comes from reading and copying well written shorthand notes and from taking the right kind of dictation. The reading and copying fills the student's mind with a knowledge of shorthand; the right kind of dictation helps the student develop skill in the use of that knowledge.

Gas Tax Deductible from Income Levies

(This is the fourth in a series of questions andanswers on income tax. These articles are made available as a public service by the Minnesota State Bar Association's Public Relations Committee.

Q. It is my understanding that I can deduct the tax I pay on gasoline for my automobile even though I don't use my car in my work. Is this true?

A. Yes. All taxpayers are entitled to deduct gasoline taxes on that part of the return which says "Deduction for Taxes Paid." However, only the Minnesota gas tax is deductable on both the federal and Minnesota returns. At the present time and all during 1956 the tax was 5c per gallon.

Q. During the year I travelled a total of 14,000 miles. My car averages 15 miles to the gallon. May I determine the amount of gas purchased from the above figures even though I haven't kept a record of the gasoline purchased?

A. Yes, the taxing authorities usually permit any reasonable method to determine the deduction if an accurate record of gasoline purchased has not been kept.

If you can prove the total miles travelled and can show that your car averaged 15 miles to the gallon, the taxing authorities will permit you to divide the total miles driven by the average mile per gallon to arrive at the total gallons purchased during the year. Multiplying the total number of gallons by 5c per gallon would give you a fairly accurate figure as to the amount you can deduct.

Remember that a deduction based upon just a general estimate is subject to disallowance by the taxing authorities unless you can convince them that it is reasonable, based upon the amount of driving you do.

CONFUSION AHEAD

It appears that our three large cities will be authorized to adopt daylight saving time, and that will mean another period of confusion for the entire state each summer. It is difficult not to become impatient with the short-sighted agitators who keep alive such folly.

There is no reason why the people of the larger cities cannot have all the daylight saving they desire merely by setting their alarm clocks to ring earlier. We did that here at the Times a few years ago. Our eight hour day started at 9:00 o'clock. We agreed that eight o'clock would be a better starting time and so it is.

It was not necessary to pass a law to accomplish this purpose. And if the employees would perfer to start at seven we are sure that could be arranged, without special legislative authority.

HABITUAL CRIMINALS

A narcotics raid in Minneapolis last week revealed the usual pattern for operations of that kind. The leading dope peddler was described as:

> ". . . a parolee from Leavenworth federal penitentiary in Kansas with a lengthy record of convictions for narcotics, white slavery, assault, counterfeiting, burglary and manslaughter, according to police."

It is reasonable to wonder why a character of that kind was permitted to be at large and to resume the reprehensible practices for which he had been so often convicted.

In the old West cattle thieves were put to death, and this extreme penalty was justified because at that time it probably was the only way such an unorganized society could protect itself. The frequency with which we find old offenders in the dope peddling and related crimes, returning to their old ways after serving prison terms, indicates that our method of dealing with them is not adequate and does not provide the protection our society deserves.

We are emerging from a cycle of sentimentalism in dealing with criminals. There is a place for rehabilitation in the correction program, and leniency certainly is justified with first offenders but persons with long and continuous criminal records should be confined for the protection of the public if not as punishment for their offenses.

POWERFUL BUT INDISCREET

Congressional investigating committees serve a good purpose generally, and in order to function properly it is essential that they have broad powers. The occasional abuse of these powers is a regretable but probably a necessary evil. It cannot be expected that those in whom these powers are vested will always be wise men of exceptional capacity.

Our government has recently been embarrassed by the conduct of a Senate subcommittee on Internal Security, prompting the following observation by the New York Times:

> "The suicide of E. Herbert Norman, Canadian Ambassador to Egypt, has brought shame to the Government and people of the United States. Whether Mr. Norman was literally driven to his death by the actions of Senator Eastland's Internal Security subcommittee and its chief counsel, Robert Morris, may not be susceptible of proof. Certainly many Canadians — with understandable vehemence — hold the committee guilty of 'assassination by insinuation.'
>
> "But Americans who believe in fair play must agree that Senator Eastland and his associates had no moral right to bring Mr. Norman under suspicion by the release of testimony at a Congressional hearing — testimony given under circumstances which did not allow Mr. Norman either to confront his accusers or defend himself against their accusations.
>
> "That this should have been done after the Canadian Government had cleared Mr. Norman of even the suspicion of subversion and that the State Department thought it necessary to say that the United States 'has every confidence in the Canadian Government's judgment in the selection of its official representatives' show also how reckless has been the Eastland subcommittee's disregard of the first principles of civilized diplomacy.
>
> "Of course the Government agencies which are legally responsible for our national security cannot forfeit the right to investigate activities which might endanger the United States, even when a foreign official is involved. But reports of suspicious behavior—especially unproved ones—should be communicated to the proper law enforcement authorities in strict confidence, not broadcast to the general public.
>
> "The Government and people of the United States owe a deep apology to the Government and people of Canada—most especially to Mr. Norman's family—for the un-American misconduct of Senator Eastland, his colleagues and their chief counsel, Robert Morris.

ONLY A SHAM BATTLE

(Sleepy Eye Herald-Dispatch)

Higher postage rates for everything, including newspapers, are on the way and we should accept them without too much objection. Rates on first class mail have remained at three cents for minimum weight letters for several years while the cost of everything else was mounting. Postal employees are getting more pay than they did 15 years ago. They should. Maybe they deserve even more.

No one will enjoy paying more for mail service. We aren't pleased with higher price tags found on almost everything we buy. But we pay the higher prices.

When senators and representatives wage sham battles to protect us against higher postage rates they are playing to the gallery. They well know rates must be increased or bigger operating deficits — to be made up by taxes — will follow.

Let's get on with the increase. Postmaster General Summerfield is a practical business man who didn't seek the job he holds. He knows what it costs to deliver the mail — first, second, third and fourth class.

Congress would do well to give ear to what he says and call off the sham battle it is waging to fool the homefolks.

If everybody had security, nobody would work. But, so long as we can gain security by working, and through exercising thrift, we're on the right track.—New Ulm Journal

REPORT from the GOVERNOR

by Orville L. Freeman

Early in February I reported in this column on the major recommendations that I made to the Minnesota Legislature in the field of education. One of these, the provision of state aid to junior colleges, has been recommended by the education committees in both Houses. Under consideration by committees at present are measures to increase state aids, and to assist local districts in the financing of school construction.

State Aid for School

Minnesota provides assistance to local school districts by sharing in the payment of operating costs. This aid is distributed primarily in two ways. First, a certain amount, now $82 per pupil unit, is distributed to all districts on the basis of pupil units in average daily attendance in public elementary and secondary schools. Another portion, known as equalization aid, is paid according to a formula that distributes this money to the local districts according to need.

Although the formula is somewhat complicated, the principle on which it operates is a fair one and is relatively easy to understand. It is based on the number of students enrolled in comparison with the value of property within the school district. Thus a wealthy district, as determined by property values, with comparatively few children attending school, would get no equalization aid. In such a district a low local property tax would provide enough revenue for school purposes.

On the other hand, a poor district, with low property values, and comparatively many children attending school, will receive equalization aid from the state. For if such a district were to raise enough revenue locally from its property tax the burden would be extremely heavy.

Since most local revenue for the schools comes from the property tax, this equalization feature helps to ease the property tax burden substantially.

Recommended Increases

I have recommended that the state should provide $6,000,000 more than is being provided in the current biennium for equalization aid. I have also recommended a $5.00 increase in basic aid, from $82 to $87 per pupil unit, and this will also total nearly $6,000,000. These two recommendations, then, will amount to the distribution by the state to local school districts of nearly $12,000,000, more in the coming two years than is now being provided.

Increases Needed

The school districts of our state really need this additional help. Costs of school operation are increasing, and the numbers of students are increasing also. If this amount of additional cost were to be borne by the school districts themselves, which means by the property taxpayers within the districts, it would take an average increase of four mills each year in the tax on property.

State's Share Should Increase

The state now provides, through it said programs, about 43 per cent of the operating costs of public elementary and secondary schools. I am in agreement with many educational organizations that believe this ought to be increased to about 50 per cent. While the increases that I have proposed do not increase the state's share that much, they constitute steps in that direction.

Districts Must Build Schools

Local districts must themselves finance the costs of school construction. In this field I have recommended one policy whereby the state can aid local districts without incurring any cost to the state. This measure, too, would be of substantial help to local taxpayers.

Masons Sponsor Cancer Hospital Rally at 'U' of M.

Solicitors Urged to Collect Rest of $1,000,000 for Terminal Cancer Care

Dr. Owen H. Wagensteen, head of cancer surgery, University of Minnesota, and Dr. Albert G. Minda, rabbi of Temple Israel, Minneapolis will describe daily functioning as well as long range purposes of the Masonic Memorial Cancer Hospital soon to be erected at University of Minnesota at a noon rally, April 13, at Coffman Union.

Leroy E. Matson, associate justice, Minnesota Supreme Court, and chairman of the board of directors of Masonic Cancer Relief Committee of Minnesota, Inc. will conduct the rally.

Termed the "Hit the Million" rally by Clyde E. Hegman, chairman of the organization, workers will also hear Dr. Donald J. Cowling, president of the sponsoring committee. Cowling will present the first annual report on progress of the campaign by 3,000 Masonic men and women who are raising funds for the hospital.

With groud-breaking ceremonies scheduled in June on the Minneapolis campus of the University Medical School at Harvard and Essex streets southeast, some 1,200 leaders from all parts of the state will be spurred to "finish the million dollar job" in the final weeks of the campaign.

Minneapolis to Offer Grand Opera

Metropolitan Opera Co. to Perform May 17, 18, 19

Renata Tebaldi, one of the brightest stars in the glittering galaxy of the Metopolitan Opera Company, will make her first appearance in the Twin Cities when the entire world-famous troupe offers a series of four performances in Northrop Memorial Auditorium at the University, May 17-18-19.

Madame Tebaldi, who has been heralded by critics as one of the greatest singers of this generation, will sing in Verdi's popular "La Traviata," newly staged for the Northrop matinee May 18.

Other leading "Met" stars returning for Minnesota's traditional spring opera season, are Jussi Bjoerling, Patrice Munsel, Robert Merrill, Zinka Milanov, Kurt Baum, Leonard Warren, and Lucine Amara; also two favorite conductors, Fausto Cleva and Max Rudolf, together with a new politum colleague, Jean Morel.

Besides "La Traviata" opera goers will hear and see the Met's new production of Offenbach's "La Perichole," Puccini's "La Boheme," and another Verdi masterpiece, "Il Trovatore" with its resounding "anvil chorus."

Mail order ticket sales for the four operas open April 8 at 106 Northrop Auditorium, Minneapolis 14. Over-the-counter sale begins May 6. Sponsors again are the University, Minnesota Orchestral Association, and an Upper Midwest committee of sponsors and guarantors.

The Times strives to be the show-window of this comunity.

HOLIDAY!

Everybody needs "time off"—even your telephone. Especially if you're on a party line, it's important to leave a brief "holiday" between phone calls—so that incoming calls can reach you; so that other people on your line may use the telephone. Some other tips for good party-line service: hang up quickly and quietly when the line is in use, replace the receiver carefully, give up the line for emergency calls. Remember, party-line courtesy is catching. Northwestern Bell Telephone Company.

Cadillac

The Choice That is Never Challenged!

Drive a Cadillac over any period of time you wish—and the odds are that no one will ever question your choice of a motor car.

For almost everyone understands the instincts that lead a man to Cadillac. Rare is the motorist, in fact, who does not have his own heart set on the "car of cars".

Certainly, this is as it should be. For Cadillac's virtues are simply too numerous to be overlooked—and too apparent to be misunderstood.

Who, for instance, could behold a new Cadillac and not proclaim it the most beautiful and majestic of automobiles?

Who could ride in a new Cadillac and not recognize its extraordinary luxury and comfort?

Who could drive a new Cadillac and not pronounce it the crowning achievement of automotive engineering?

And who—knowing of Cadillac's many economies of ownership could fail to recognize it as the finest investment in all motordom?

• • •

Indeed, the reasons for choosing Cadillac are as valid as they are numerous—and we urge you to visit your dealer at your first opportunity and discover all of them for yourself.

Why not spend an hour at the wheel—and select your favorite Cadillac model as your own?

You can rest assured—the whole world will approve your choice!

Gov. Freeman Tax Plan Faces Test in Senate Tuesday

Tax Committee to Vote on Withholding Tax Plan Advocated by Governor

Gov. Freeman's tax program faces a major test Tuesday when the Senate tax comittee votes on three controversial bills.

The committee agreed Thursday to vote at that time on withholding, repeal of World War II bonus taxes and prepayment of bonus bonds.

The withholding bill, already passed in the House, has been the subject of extensive committee hearings. The bonus axes, including the $5 head tax and the surtaxes on income, iron ore, liquor and beer taxes, originally were set up for a 10-year period, ending Dec. 31, 1958.

Revenue from the taxes has built up to a point where the bonds issued to pay the World War II bonus can now be paid off.

The House already has passed a bill to repeal the head tax and, under the governor's program, the other bonus taxes would be reenacted to replace personal property taxes proposed to be eliminated or reduced.

Senate tax committee Chairman Donald Wright of Minneapolis presented a draft of a bill to repeal taxes as of Jan. 1, 1957, or after all have been paid for eight years.

In answer to a question by Sen. Harry Wahlstrand of Willmar, co-author of the Korean bonus bill, Sen. Wright said if a Korean bonus is to be paid, "we must find a new way of paying it."

St. Hilaire Fire Department Gets 2 Calls Thursday

The St. Hilaire fire department answered two fire calls Thursday, the first in several months. Firemen extinguished a grass fire in the south end of the village when it threatened a farmer's field. The second alarm came Thursday night when firemen were summoned to the Harold Kelsness farm 13 miles north west of St. Hilaire in Bray township to extinguish a chimney fire. No damage was reported.

150 at Banquet Honoring Two Retiring Teachers

Miss Lyda Batten and Miss Emma Tandberg, long-time local teachers with a combined total of 96 years of service in the educational field, were honored on the eve of their retirement by nearly 150 associates at a testimonial banquet Tuesday evening in the American Legion club rooms.

Dick Edlund was chairman in charge of arrangements for the affair, with Miss Mary C. McNellis serving as toastmistress. The Legion auxiliary served the dinner, the tables being attractively decorated in a centennial theme to note the 100th anniversary of the National Educational association.

Dr. M. D. Starekow, president of the board of education, members of which were guests, extended greetings from the board, and commended the honored guests for their long and faithful service.

A tribute to Miss Batten was given by Mrs. Blanche Larson, long-ime co-worker, who praised her enthusiasm for her work and her zest for living.

Miss Olga Bloomsness, principal of Knox school, lauded Miss Tandberg as a teacher, administrator and consultant, saying that she had shown a high caliber of leadership.

An amusing skit, "Peter Projects," was presented by a group of faculty members and children under the direction of Miss Gladys Johnson.

Paul Anderson, high school director, recalled that he had been a pupil of Miss Batten in Central school in 1916, and said that she and Miss Tandberg have spread their good works thru their pupils.

Supt. J. A. Sater read a letter from Supt. Morris Bye of Anoka, in which the former head of the local schools expressed his regret at being unable to be present to join in the tribute to his former co-workers.

Mr. Bye's letter read in part; "To Miss Batten and Miss Tandberg, I want to say this: You have lived long, useful lives. As teachers, you have had a chance to practice all professions by extensions of your own personalities to the lives of those you have taught. You have guided the unsteady and unpracticed hand and watched it suddenly grow firm and purposeful.

Honored at Banquet Tuesday

None of the three persons in this photo will be on hand when Thief River Falls schools open for the 1957-58 school term. A banquet in honor of Miss Emma Tandberg, left and Miss Lyda Batten, right, was held in the Legion club rooms Tuesday by the Thief River Falls unit of the Minnesota Education association.

Miss Batten is completing a 55-year teaching career, and Miss Tandberg, 41 years, at the end of the current school term. Telegrams and cards from former students and teaching associates of the two teachers in years past were read at the banquet and they were presented with gifts.

This is also Supt. J. A. Sater's last year in Thief River Falls, as he has accepted the post of superintendent of schools in Brainerd and will move there after the current term ends.

Okiee Plans for Town and Country Day Friday, Apr. 12

Claude O. Ebling, Soo Line Agricultural Agent, to Supply Entertainment

Arrangements for a special "town and country day" in Oklee Friday, April 12, were pushed forward at the regular meeting of the Oklee Commercial club last week.

Feature attraction of the day will be the appearance of Claude O. Ebling, agriculture specialist for the Soo Line Railroad, who will deliver his specialty of combination lecture and magic show.

Mr. Ebling's theme of "what's good for the small farm and the small town" is presented with illustrative magic acts said to be the most effective means of putting his points across. He has presented his "farm magic philosophy" to more than 2,000 audiences in the northwest.

A county agent for 18 years, Mr. Ebling's background is largely agricultural. He is also a member of the Houdini Club of Wisconsin and the International Brotherhood of Magicians.

A free bean feed will be opened to the public at about 12:30 p.m. and will be served from the new kitchens of the Oklee school. Featured will be home baked beans, cheese sandwiches, cookies, coffee and milk.

The entire event is free and the public is invited.

Firemen Pay Tribute to Retired Members at Dinner Thursday

Two members of the Thief River Falls fire department who recently retired with a combined record of 81 years of service as firemen were singled out for recognition at the department's annual dinner last Thursday evening in the American Legion club rooms. The dinner was served by the Legion auxiliary, and Fire Chief Roy Langevin served as toastmaster.

The men honored were Harry L. Schuster, a member of the department for 36 years, including 23 as secretary, and Morris La Salle, who joined the department in 1901 and served actively for 45 years.

New firemen introduced included Clayton Bux, Dewey Noel, Lloyd Hogenson, Jack McGill, Lawrence Hemmesch, Dick O'Hara and Loren Borsheim. Also presented were members of the fire department hockey team, who gave autographed hockey sticks to Captain Paul Bedard and Lawrence Bjorkman, manager.

The program included vocal selections by the Lions quartet and Harold Anderson, and entertainment also was provided by a committee headed by Bob Carlson and including Einar Barstad and Albert LaFrenz. The remainder of the evening was devoted to dancing.

Serving on the committee planning the affair were Wendell Olson, Olaf Dahlen and Tom Fuller.

Stock Shippers Elect 3 to Board in Session Monday

Alfred Solem and Odin Hanson Named for 3 Years and Harry Oen for One

The Pennington County Livestock Shipping association held its annual meeting in Thief River Falls on Monday, April 6. The meeting, which was well attended by participating farmers, was presided over by Alfred Solem. Election of directors was held with Alfred Solem and Odin Hanson being elected as directors to serve a three year term. Harry Oen was elected for a one year term.

A film "More Beef" was shown at the opening of the program. Following this the topic of fertilizers was discussed by County Agent Paul Stelmaschuk who pointed out the difference in fertilizers and the value of soil testing. Cy Carpenter of the Farmers Union spoke on the value of common markets and the need for a marketing association.

Carl Spong, fieldman for the Central Association, reported on the increased volume of business of the association and the important place livestock holds in Northwestern Minnesota.

Henry Panek, delegate to the annual meeting of the Central Co-op association at St. Paul, reported on the fine progress the association is making and on the program at the annual meeting.

The wives of the directors served lunch for those in attendance. Door prizes were also presented.

Bray and Numedal Join SC District

Vote Tuesday 17 to 5 in Favor of Affiliation

Numedal and Bray farmers voted to join the Pennington county Soil Conservation district in the referendum held on Tuesday, April 9th, on the Frank Hible farm. Twenty-two farmers cast ballots in the referendum. There were seventeen Yes votes and five voted No.

The Pennington Soil Conservation district will now include all the townships of the county, according to County Agent Paul Stelmaschuk. The district was first organized in the fall of 1948 and began operation on January 1949.

Technical assistance is now provided the district through soil conservation personnel. The present district supervisors are: Alfred Longren, Edgar Naplin, Andrew Skaar, Oscar Houske and August Scholin.

Korean Bonus Bill Passed by House Tuesday

Now Goes to Senate; Governor's Tax Bill Passage Unlikely

The Minnesota house passed the 25-million-dollar Korean bonus bill Tuesday and sent it to the senate over cautious objections of a few members who aimed rather timid fire at the lack of financing provisions in the bill, HF 52.

Only Representatives Sally Luther, Minneapolis, and Alf Bergerud, Edina, said flatly they were opposed to passage.

"I don't believe the veterans want this legislation," said Mrs. Luther. She said the state can better use a multi-million-dollar bonus fund elsewhere.

Gov. Freeman's 1957 tax package appeared Tuesday to have small chance of enactment.

One prominent house liberal said it looks to him as if neither the governor's tax study committee recommendations nor the Republican-conservative program has much of a chance.

There even is talk of setting up an interim committee to study both plans in the hope of coming up with still another compromise that may be enacted upon in 1959.

Sen. Donald O. Wright, Minneapolis, conservative chairman of the senate tax committee, postponed a final vote — pledged a week ago—on the governor's withholding plan, on repeal of World War II bonus taxes and on prepayment of last two years of outstanding bonus bonds.

Wright said he could not act Monday because of the absence of three members of the 19-man tax committee.

Plan to Organize DHIA Association for Two Counties

Pennington and Red Lake County Dairymen Vote to Proceed with Plans

Dairymen of Pennington and Red Lake counties met at Plummer on Tuesday evening to discuss a dairy herd improvement association for the two counties. The association would include dairy farmers of both counties and provide the services essential to dairy record keeping and testing.

The dairymen decided to organize in the latter part of May. A meeting for the purpose of securing a supervisor and election of officers will be called later. It is also planned to invite state personnel to that meeting.

The D.H.I.A. supervisor, employe of the association, has several important functions. His duties include weighing and testing of milk, keeping of the herd book, assisting with feeding records, and breeding progeny, or blood lines, and other dairy information of interest to farmers states County Agent Paul Stelmaschuk.

The maximum number of dairy farmers in the association is twenty-six. Members will be accepted in the order of their application. It was decided at Plummer. Dairymen interested in joining are urged to contact their county agents.

Committee to Study Street Projects Has 1st Meeting Monday

The mayor's newly organized street planning committee held its first meeting in the council chambers of the City Auditorium on Monday evening.

Mayor O. D. Belch explained the basic purposes of the group, stating that he felt a long-range street program was necessary and that the committee was to represent the citizens in determining a street improvement program, what type of program, what type of streets, area of necessary improvements, financing, etc. The committee then would make specific recommendations to the city council.

City Engineer Douglas Stewart outlined the necessity of a long range program and explained the problems that the committee would encounter in working out a solution, such as inadequate drainage in some areas, inadequate sanitary sewers or water systems. He explained that pending legislation on highway tax distribution would have a direct bearing on a street program.

The second committee session will be held April 22nd at which time the meeting will be devoted to a study of the legislative program on distribution of highways taxes. It was also decided to make a complete study of the local drainage system as it would affect a street program.

The following are members of the committee, who were appointed by the mayor: Curtis Nelson, Ray Mattson, Roy Lee, Hugh Carlson, Charles Rodekuhr, Lloyd Quesnell, Len Goulet, Mrs. Jeannette Wright and Mrs. Andy Williamson.

Appointed by the city council thru the recomendations of the mayor to serve on this committee as advisors and representing the council were Doug. Stewart city engineer; Robert Wurst, city attorney; and Alderman James Winjum.

Square Dancers from 29 Towns Share in Festival

Arnold Kelly Is Honored by State VFW Department

Arnold Kelly, 1956 commander of Thief River Falls' Post 2793, Veterans of Foreign Wars, has been chosen "post commander of the month" for the month of March, according to a letter received from Joseph W. Bobleter, VFW senior vice-commander of the department of Minnesota.

Kelly's designation as commander of the month came through his and the post's membership efforts, in which Post 2793 led all others in its class in Minnesota, Bobleter said.

In recognition of his efforts and the accomplishment of the local post in their recent drive, Kelly received a VFW belt buckle and will have his biography published in the May issue of the Gopher Overseas'r, state V.F.W. publication.

Shootin' the Breeze

BY Mack Draper

We don't want to give Al Bacon and the telephone too much free publicity but we do have to go on record by saying that, of all the modern miracles of science, we can think of none that can quite match the telephone.

TV and radio are fine in their way but they're so impersonal. A long-distance telephone call is very much the other way. You ask the operator for your party and within minutes or less you can be talking with someone thousands of miles away.

We had a sudden irresistable urge to talk to the folks at home down in Virginia Thursday evening and without further ado picked up the phone and placed our call.

Within one minute we heard the Bristol, Tenn. operator's soft, southern drawl and the folks' phone ringing, just as if it were here in TRF, and then we were talking.

The long-distance operator here, after we'd finished the call home, exclaimed in a soft, courteous voice, "Gee—that's a long way from here; 1090 air miles!" as we discussed charges and time used in the call.

Yet we carried on our conversation just as easily as if we were only a house or two apart.

In some respects we are dubious about all our so-called "progress" but we're completely sold on the long-distance telephone and the people who make such things possible.

In this day and age we're too much inclined to take all our modern conveniences for granted. With all the people who make our modern way of living what it is we're even more inclined to take the people who provide the services we enjoy too much for granted, too.

We couldn't have long-distance phone calls—or any phones at all for that mater—without the men and women who work day and night in the telephone offices throughout the nation.

Throughout the year, holidays, weekends and all, they stay at their posts ready to serve at a moment's notice.

It's the same with our railroad men, truckers, doctors, nurses, postal workers and many other servants of our modern age. We see the effects of their work every day but accept it as a matter of course. Their jobs are quite demanding and oft-times it must not be pleasant to be on the job when others are taking it easy and enjoying themselves.

No matter how modern we get in our way of life, the conveniences we enjoy are terrifically demanding in time and effort on the people who furnish them.

So, the next time you feel like bawling out some of these people stop to think for a moment of the causes underlying your complaint and perhaps you'll realize thing aren't really so bad after all.

Back of every mechanical electronical or other convenience we enjoy are thousands of people without these people we couldn't possibly have these conveniences. Their jobs are dedicated to making our lives easier and more comfortable, often at great sacrifice on their part. We should pause more often to give these folks the credit they deserve. So long!

Retiring Faculty Members Honor Guests at Dinner

"You have watched young minds begin to soar to new heights, and you must have felt within you the sense of being a humble instrument in the furthering of mankind. Now as you approach retirement, it must be with a real sense of satisfaction because your life still goes on in the lives of those that you have taught."

Mr. Sater also voiced his respect for the abilities and personalities of the honor guests, and commended them on their long years of service, Miss Batten having been in school work for 55 years and Miss Tandberg for 44.

With their combined 99 years of service, said Sater, it is appropriate to honor them in this centennial year of the National Education association. He also briefly recounted the history of the NEA, and told of its contributions to the advencement of the teaching profession.

Miss Edna Larson, retired veteran teacher, conducted an impressive candle-lighting ceremony, in which candles on NEA birthday cakes at each plate were lit.

Quentin Jones, president of the Thief River Falls Education association, brought greetings from the executive board of the state association and from W. G. Claffy, former superintendent of schools here, and now living in California.

In behalf of the local teachers group, Jones then presented Miss Batten with an easy chair and Miss Tandberg with a radio set.

Miss Tandberg, expressed her appreciation, and spoke briefly on educational trends, saying that the schools have done good work in the past, but that they are now being greatly improved, and she foresaw continued advances.

Miss Batten thanked the group for the gift and for arranging the party, and told of some of her experiences as a teacher and principal, saying that she derived a great deal of satisfaction from observing the successful careers of many of her former students and teachers who had worked under her supervision.

In the course of the program, vocal selections were rendered by Bryant Ulseth, one of them with violin obligato by James Solsten, and with piano accompaniment by Judy Sater.

The program closed with the singing by the group of a song, the words of which were composed by Carol Bishop in tribute to the honored guests.

SCANNING THE NEWS

MR. W. RANDOLPH BURGESS, Undersecretary of the Treasury, former Board Chairman of the City Bank Farmers Trust Company of New York, told the annual conference of the Savings and Mortgage Division of the American Bankers Association in New York March 11 that:

"The United States is today enjoying one of the finest prosperities of its history. A revival of the principles of economic freedom, under which America grew to greatness in the past, has helped to create more jobs, more income, and more leisure and more education and more capacity to appreciate the good things of life for the American people than they have ever had before."

But there must be something wrong somewhere, for the Institute of Life Insurance, 488 Madison Ave., New York, don't like Mr. Burgess' brand of prosperity and economic freedom. The Institute of Life Insurance looks at the billions of dollars of investments by Life Insurance companies in the farms, the Bonds of Federal and State Governments and in other assets safeguarding the policies of 108 million life insurance policyholders. The Institute is fearful. The Institute believes we are over-spending; Government is over-spending, Federal, State and Local government; The Institute does not believe that the inflationary spiral the nation is in, is the mark of continuing prosperity.

"108 million policyholders have made life insurance America's most widely used form of thrift. In the interest of these policyholders—in the interest of all of us—the life insurance companies feel they have a duty to help preserve the purchasing power of the dollar." This is the basis for an appeal The Institute of Life Insurance is making in a dramatic attempt to halt the kind of prosperity Mr. Burgess is talking about—a prosperity built upon the quicksands of inflation.

In 527 daily newspapers across the country and in several national magazines, The Institute of Life Insurance is placing a series of paid ads to reach more than 80 million people appealing to them to "save an extra nickel out of every dollar" to halt rising prices and to produce billions of dollars in savings.

"As a second step," the advertising says, "to fight inflation, all of us should support every reasonable move to reduce government spending—federal, state and local."

The Institute fixes no blame anywhere in Mr. Burgess' Treasury Department, nor in the Administration. It's past that time. But The Institute comes this close: It says:

"This is no time for name-calling or finger-pointing, or "letting George do it." It's a time for all of us to join in a spirit of mutual respect and determination to work out this problem together."

The Institute suggests: 1—That Management offer better products for the same prices, or the same products at lower prices; 2—that employees make every dollar received, a dollar earned. Unless he does, his paycheck may be bigger, but it will buy less; 3—All of us need to support reduction in government spending—its our money the government spends. If we keep asking for services, we keep paying—in higher taxes.

REV. ROBERT H. HARPER

READING THE FUTURE

OF OLD some men tried to read signs in the skies and watched the flight of birds in an effort to read the future. And today some may still use ouija boards or consult some fortune-tellers on a side street. But why should men want to read their future? For it cannot be read.

The "pleasures of hope" and "great expectations" would be banished for many who might like to read their future. The known pattern of the days and the months would become "staled by frequence." For "if all the skies were sunshine, our faces would be fain to feel once more upon them the cooling drip of rain."

Knowing that an evil thing would befall him would be enough to rob a man of all joy and peace. He would be somewhat like the doomed criminal upon whom the shadow of a gallows has fallen. Why desire to put yourself in a death-row by reading the riddle of the future?

Jesus warned men about borrowing trouble by harboring thoughts of the future. "Sufficient unto the day," he said, "is the evil thereof." Every man has enough of problems to tax his thought today. And the joys and pleasures of the day should give him a contented heart and lead him to greater faith.

Local PTA Council Commends Sater for Service Here

Group Endorses Plan of Local Physicians for Vaccinating Pupils

The PTA council at a meeting Monday afternoon commended Supt. J. A. Sater for his many accomplishments during his two years as superintendent of schools in Thief River Falls. Included in this commendation was a personal wish for his continued success when he assumes his new position at Brainerd.

In other business before the council, an alternative vaccination program for the school children was proposed by the local medical association. The new plan would be to conduct an organized program for the first six grades in the school buildings.

The doctors urged that such a program be started this spring and conducted again next fall and become a regular part of the school program after that time. Junior and senior high school vaccinations would be left on a personal initiative basis similar to the system presently being used.

After consideration of the proposal, the PTA council went on record as favoring the suggestion of the doctors, and further urged that this program be commenced at the earliest possible date.

A letter from Mrs. Vernon Smith of Beltrami was read. Mrs. Smith, as district PTA chairman, accepted the invitation from Thief River Falls to hold the district fall conference here. Arrangements for the meeting will be set up during the summer months, according to Ormond Johnson, chairman of the PTA council.

Law Officers at FBI Crime School

Four-day Session at Warren to End Friday

Several law enforcement officers from the three agencies located in Thief River Falls are attending the FBI crime school being held Tuesday through Friday this week in the basement of the Warren city auditorium, according to Police Chief Elton Cummings.

Practically every man of the three law enforcement agencies will have attended the four-day school at some time during the week, Cummings said, adding that attendance was staggered so as to provide adequate police protection for the city at the same time.

Credits from the University of Minnesota will be given all law enforcement officers attending the FBI-sponsored course. Subjects under discussion are the criminal code, criminal investigation and traffic.

Among the instructors are Captain Walter Anderson of the highway patrol and Lawrence Hedin, area agent for the state crime bureau. Sam Hardy, a veteran of 33 years with the FBI, is also one of the instructors.

More decorations for valor have been awarded, per man, to the submarine service than any other Navy branch.

FARMING TODAY

by your County Agent

Paul Stelmaschuk

Dairying

At a meeting at Plummer on Tuesday evening, farmers from Pennington and Red Lake counties examined the possibilities of a D.H.I.A. organization. They decided to organize in the latter part of May. All dairy farmers who wish to have the services of the D.H.I.A. organization are urged to contact the extension office. One of the services D.H.I.A. is that you will feed your cows according to milk production.

There's nothing complicated cows according to production.

And by measuring out a cow's feed according to how much milk she gives, you'll get more out of each feed dollar.

You can figure the grain ration according to total milk produced or by amount of butterfat the cow gives, whichever is easier. There are three different systems that you can follow.

One way is to feed one pound of grain for each 4 pounds of milk produced daily for Holsteins, and a pound for every 3½ pounds of milk for Guernseys and Jerseys.

You can also figure a pound of grain for every 2 pounds of milk a large-breed cow produces over 20 pounds daily. For Guernseys figure a pound for every 2 pounds of milk over 15 pounds daily and for more than 12 pounds with Jerseys.

If you have butterfat averages for each cow, divide the cow's total monthly butterfat production by 4. That will tell you how much grain to feed daily. These are guides. The successful dairyman must know his cows and modify his feeding program to fit the cow. Some cows utilize feed better than others. In any case, feed the cow well enough so she can maintain her body and produce well, and make sure there's enough protein in the ration. Feed our grain according to kind and quality of the roughage.

Give the cows all the roughage they'll eat and make sure there's plenty of fresh water available at all times.

Let the cows have some iodized salt or trace-mineralized salt. Feed steamed bone meal or a simple mixture high in phosphorus. Give it to the cows free choice or mix it at one-half per cent of the grain mixture.

Tree Seedlings

The success of the field windbreak or farmstead shelterbelt you plant this spring may depend on how well you take care of the young trees at planting time.

When you get the trees, pour water into the bundled tree before you leave town. Take the trees out of the wrapped package soon after you get home and put them in half-filled tub of water to keep the roots moist.

If the trees are to be kept several days before planting, heel them in a trench in a cool, shady place. Make the trench deep and long enough to hold the entire root system and a small part of the lower stems, but don't cover the leaves or needles. Trees safeguarded this way can stay in the trench a week or so.

The fastest way to plant trees is with a mechanical planter. With this method, you can plant trees more uniformly and with less effort than by any other system.

If you're handplanting the trees, make sure the roots don't dry out during planting. Dry roots mean dead trees. Take only as many trees as you can carry in a pail half full of water, or only as many as you can plant in an hour. Don't expose the small rootlets to the sun or wind for even a few minutes.

One good way to handplant trees is by the "hole method." Make a hole deep and wide enough to take the entire root system without crowding. Hold the tree firmly until you have tamped the soil thoroughly around the roots. If the hole is freshly dug, it isn't necessary to water the tree after planting.

In any case, make sure you don't plant the trees to shallow. Plant them at the same depth as they grew before being dug. You can tell this depth by the "dirt ring" on the tree.

Hogs

This is the season when young pigs are being born and sometimes this presents problems. One of them may be anemia in hogs.

Injections of an iron-dextran compound have been successful in treating and preventing iron-deficiency anemia in baby pigs at the University of Minnesota.

Dr. H. C. H. Kernakamp, veterinary pathologist at the University, reports that 67 pigs in six groups were treated with the compound. The material was injected in the animal's thigh muscles.

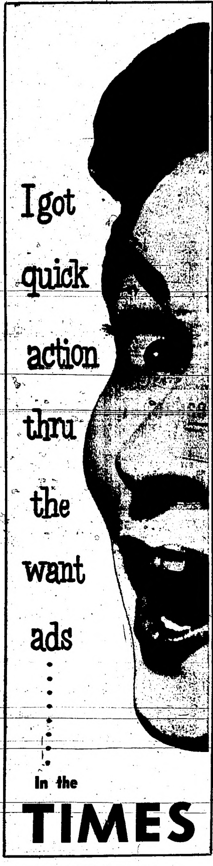
It was used as a preventive treatment for anemia in the two groups of four-day-old pigs and as a curative in four groups ranging from seven to twenty-eight days of age at time of treatment.

Pigs that had been anemic from iron deficiency showed a marked improvement from the treatment and the preventive treatments were effective for at least three weeks after birth or until the pigs ate food other than the mother's milk. There were no unfavorable side effects from the injections.

Iron-deficiency is still an important disease in baby pigs, even though other effective treatments and preventives have been known for several years. These treatments include tablets or pills containing iron compounds, or liquids that may be given as a drench or swabbed on the sow's udder for the baby pigs to lick off as they nurse. Pigs need the extra iron because the sow's milk is low in this element.

The reason for using an iron-dextran injection is to have a method for individually treating the pigs. That way, there is more assurance that each pig will receive the medicine and in the correct dose.

The first mention in history of the employment of lenses as a means of assisting the sight is that of Roger Bacon who lived in the 13th century.



ACROSS the DESK

Ideas from other editors

From the Suburban List, Essex Junction, Vermont: W. Arthur Simpson, Commissioner of Social Welfare, hits a strong point in a letter about "Why Boys Get in Trouble." He does not like the rigid law regulations in regard to boys working in factories, garages, or even on the road. Three paragraphs from his letter are as follows:

"A boy of sixteen can take driver's training, get his junior license and drive the car he has (filled with teen-age boys) all over the county but he cannot drive for hire for an adult who would accompany him.

"He cannot work on construction for he might get hurt, but he can join the armed forces, handle hand grenades, tanks and jump from airplanes attached to a parachute or help build roads or bridges for the engineers. He cannot work in a garage but he can go to Korea and wallow in the mud and repair tanks and trucks.

"Wouldn't it be better to give those boys a job on road construction or building or whatever they are interested in, and make them feel like the men they really are, than like a child who might pound his fingers if he were given a hammer."

There is a lot of sense to that. Pretty much all boys, after they get through school, want a job. The labor laws prevent them from working at certain trades. And yet, those same boys are accepted for military service where the hazards are a great deal more.

Of course, there is nothing to prevent a boy from working on his own father's farm. And, possibly that is the reason that there are a smaller number of boys in the country who get into trouble than there are from the larger centers.

From the Tallassee Tribune, Tallassee, Alabama: We welcome back one faithful reader, name unknown, who apparently has been on the sick list because we missed him a few weeks last month.

Although, as stated above, his name is unknown to us, we gave him the name of "Willie, the Washer" sometime back, because of his habit of putting a washer in our honor box for his paper instead of the customary nickel.

Willie had us worried for a few weeks because we couldn't decide whether he was ill or whether we had written something that offended him. But he's back now, the usual washer turning up last week when we robbed our boxes, so everything's normal again.

Fire Department Called Four Times

Explosion in Furnace at Ronald Buen Home

Called out Wednesday afternoon for the fourth time this week, the fire department was summoned to the Ronald Buen home at 307 Arnold av. S., where a furnace explosion occurred, causing considerable smoke and some damage to the furnace.

About $150 damage and a good deal of smoke resulted Monday at the Mrs. Bertha Gibson residence, 303 St. Paul av. S., when a ceiling caught fire from an overheated pipe caused by a flooded oil heater.

An overheated stovepipe on the kitchen stove at the John Bagne home, 601 Markley av. S. Sunday started a fire in a wall, damage being limited to $50 due to early detection.

A grass fire Sunday that endangered buildings on the R. L. Shumway property on East First st. was extinguished before any damage resulted.

Thief River Falls, Minnesota
RESOLUTION

Whereas, Pennington county plans to reconstruct S.A.R. No. 1, from S.A.R. No. 9 5.0 miles west of St. Hilaire to T.H. No. 32 at St. Hilaire a distance of 6.5 miles, and

Whereas; County Ditch No. 1, Sanders and Black River crosses said S.A.R. No. 1 at an angle of 60 degrees with the right angle of said S.A.R. No. 1 running from northwest to the southwest between Section 15 T153N R40W and Section 4 T153N R40W, and

Whereas, it is advantageous and desirable in the construction of said S.A.R. No. 1, to reduce the skew of the crossing of said County Ditch No. 1, Sanders and Black River to an angle of 15 degrees, with right angle of said S.A.R. No. 1, and in so doing a partial channel change is necessary at the ditch crossing to properly direct the flow of water through the crossing structure as to minimize water erosion at the crossing, said alteration and change will not in any way affect the functioning and efficiency of said County Ditch No. 1, Sanders and Black River.

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED

By the Board of County Commissioners of Pennington County to instruct its County Engineer to file the Plans and Profiles of said S.A.R. No. 1, showing the contemplated changes and alterations of County Ditch No. 1, in detail with the County Auditor, who shall thereupon fix a time and place for hearing thereon, and to give notice of hearing by publication as defined by Minnesota statutes, Section 106.011, Subdivision 2.

Maurice (Mush) Nornes, secretary of the Northern Minnesota baseball league, announced that a pre-season organizational meeting will be held at McIntosh on Friday night, April 12th.

The purpose of the meeting, which will be held in the VFW hall, will be to discuss the plans for the 1957 season, and the possible reshuffling of the league membership. It is reported that Warren and Alvarado have expressed an interest in joining the Northern Minny loop.

In addition, Cass Lake and Bemidji, who were on the verge of entering the circuit last season, may make application for league membership. Of last year's eight-team league, Brooks and Gonvick are reported to have withdrawn from the league.

League members who are expected to have representatives in attendance at Friday night's meeting are Thief River Falls, Fosston, Bagley, Red Lake Falls, Erskine, and Winger.

Moorhead Man Is Crookston Train-Car Crash Victim

Hal Neal, Cattle Buyer, Instantly Killed When G.N. Train Hits His Car

Hal E. Neal, 56, of Moorhead, was killed instantly Monday in a car-train collision on County Aid Road 19 about two miles north of Crookston.

Neal's 1950 model car collided with the diesel engine of an eight-car Great Northern freight train about 9:25 a.m. Neal was traveling west and the train was moving south towards Crookston.

Investigating officers said Harold Nyhus, Grand Forks, engineer, reported that Neal evidently saw the train coming and applied his brakes. The engine struck the left-rear portion of the car, throwing it about 50 feet across the tracks and into the ditch.

Neal's body was thrown from the car about 33 feet ahead of where the vehicle landed.

The car was demolished, investigators said, and could not be towed from the scene. It was taken into Crookston on a trailer-truck.

Neal had been in Crookston on a cattle-buying trip and had two vans near the scene of the accident being loaded with cattle for transport to Fargo.

Treasury Dept. Cites U. S. Savings Bond Sales Aides

Marshall County Comes Closest in District to Attaining Quota for '56

Treasury department citations for the promotion of the sale of government savings bonds were awarded at a meeting of county organization officials at the Rex cafe Tuesday evening. Counties in the north half of district No. 1, Red Lake, Pennington, Marshall, Kittson and Roseau, were represented.

Marshall county came closest to meeting the county quotas and Clarence Nybakken of Warren, county chairman, received a citation in recognition of his services. The Argyle State Bank and the State Bank of Warren were first and second in the county in sales.

Receiving citations for their contributions to publicity during the year were radio stations KROX of Crookston and KTRF of Thief River Falls and the Times of Thief River Falls. Lee Everett of East Grand Forks, district chairman, made the presentations.

Bowling Figures

Although the city's bowling leagues are rolling their windup matches this week, the individual averages aren't expected to do much shifting. We looked through Am Wysoski's records, and they are up-to-date and detailed, and we made a catalog of the high-average bowlers of each team in the four men's leagues.

To be eligible for the high average trophy, the bowlers must have participated in at least forty-two of their team's games.

The Service league: Soo Branchliners — Cliff Stromberg and Len Hellquist, 167's; Mpls. Morning Tribune — Art Langseth, 167; Groslie's Pure Oil — Arlo Scholin, 163; Jaycees — Harold Storhaug, 174; Mentor Co-op — Jerry Super and George Moe, 152's; KTRF — Orv Gillespie, 168; Goodridge — Jim Salveson, 153; and the American Legion — J. Holzinger, 144.

The Business league: V.F.W. — Del Harbott, 173; Elks Club — Jesse DuChamp, 173; Overvold Motors — Jerry Carriere, 162; Inga's — Roger Krats, 162; Lakehead Pipeline — Chuck Barr, 148; Red Owl — Harry Nohre, 152; High School Faculty — Ed Broughton, 157; and Land O'Lakes — Pete Carlson, 146.

The Commercial league: St. Hilaire — Joe St. Michel, 168; Northern Chevrolet — Les DeBriyn, 157; Eagles — Emil Dostal, 165; Bridgeman's — Dale Magner, 164; Soo Mainliners — Ed Hamerski, 167; Sandvig's Grocery — Truman Hemmestvedt, 158; Forkenbrock Motors — Jack Forkenbrock, 138; and Issy's Tavern — Chuck Lofgren, 136.

The City League: Northern Woodwork — Am Wysoski, 168; LaFondrich Cigars — Arlo Scholin, 164; Danny's Grocery — Orv Gillespie, 168; Argyle State Bank — Omer Deschene, 152; Steiner Farmers — Andy Nesland, 168; Joppru's — Ralph Raymond, 135; Coast to Coast — Don Haugen, 157; and Hi Ways — Don Lokken, 137.

According to these figures, the respective league winners would be Harold Storhaug in the Service league, Del Harbott and Jesse DuChamp in the Business league, Joe St. Michel in the Commercial league, and a three-way tie — Am Wysoski, Orv Gillespie, and Andy Nesland in the City league. These ties, of course, will be broken when the averages are carried out into decimals.

You will notice that we haven't mentioned the averages of the Women's Nite Hawk league. And for a good reason. The figures in that league are so much more attractive than the figures in the men's leagues that they are entitled separate listing. And so it will be, and we will compile these averages next week.

Golf Divots

Four of the local club's more pneumonia-immune golfers— Jack Boyer and Phil LeGault of town, and Emil Larson and Wally DuChamp of Plummer—made the short trek to the Win-E-Mac club at Erskine on Sunday, and played eighteen cold and wind-swept holes of golf.

As we get it, the foursome was paired up like this: Boyer and LeGault representing Pennington county, and Larson and DuChamp upholding the golfing honor of Red Lake county. And Red Lake county won.

In the individual scoring, LeGault, with a 42 and 45, and Larson, with a 43 and 44, tied for the low gross, each posting an 87.

Fact is, Emil Larson gave proof that he will make a stubborn defense of the Soo Line championship that he has won for the past three years in a row. Winning of the Soo Line golf title isn't a hollow championship, either, for the Soo Line reaches from Montana and into Wisconsin. And Emil's the champ.

Sure, there may be golfers employed by the Soo Line who are better than Emil, but they haven't been able to prove that in the tournaments that have been held.

Any Takers?

"I'll tell you what I'll do," is the way the conversation with Harold (Down with the Yankees) Eide began. "I'll wager that Mickey Mantle will never again hit fifty homeruns in one season. And not only that, but I'll wager that Ted Williams will have a higher batting average this season. And Don Larson, that's the no-hit Larson, you known, won't win half of the games that he starts."

The line for the takers of these wagers will begin at the Auditorium.

And Gunder Grovum, who is nearly as anti-Yankee as Harold (or rather Gunder is more anti-Casey!) has come up with a sociable bet to the effect that Micky Mantle will hit a homerun in his first game.

The line for the accepting of these wagers of Gunder's, too, will form at the Auditorium.

Softball Stirrings

The softball boys, the managers, that is, are getting down to the serious business of signing ball players. They are even taking measurements and fitting for uniforms for the prospective players.

Red Thyren, of the T & S Implement team, has, according to well-founded reports, been doing some cultivating, seeding, and harvesting of the softball talent in the Plummer area. The rumor is that Red has succeeded in signing Jesse DuChamp and Dean Schoenauer to contracts.

We hope, though, that before the signing of softball players has progressed too far, and before any one team has become "loaded" with talent, that the various team captains, managers, and sponsors would have an agreement as to sharing of the available player talent. For the first time in several years, last year's softball program was of interest to the players and the spectators. The teams were quite evenly matched.

Pitching means so much in softball, perhaps as much as seventy percent of a team's strength, and we would like to see the league's weaker teams given the stronger pitching. For instance, it would be a boost for a weak team to secure the pitching services of Milt Relerson, the city's best softball hurler.

What we're looking for, of course, is well-played and evenly-contested games. The spectators like that, and the player, too.

An average attendance of 3,000 persons for the four Crusader basketball games played in Boston last season has caused Holy Cross College to announce that the school will play no future games in the Boston Gardens. The announcement also said Holy Cross-Notre Dame games in the East would be discontinued . . . Big Ten basketball teams were most accurate during the past season. Collectively, conference teams scored from the field on 35.8 per cent of their shots, bettering the previous high of 35.3 in 1953. But a partial elimination of the "one and one" bonus rule caused a drop of eight points per game . . . For the first time in 32 years, the Annual Shrine East-West Football Game, played last December 29 at San Francisco, netted more than a quarter of a million dollars. A report to Islam Temple showed the game netted $251,000.33 for the San Francisco Shriners' Hospital . . . A recent daily double at Oaklawn Park was worth $2,154, biggest of the 1957 horse racing season.

Four Police Cases in Court Monday

Data on Highway Patrol Cases Not Available

It was a fairly light day in municipal court here Monday as 8 cases went before Judge H. O. Chommie. City police and highway patrol shared equally in the docket, each having four cases.

Cases brought before Chommie by city police were:

Osmun M. Mandt, city, pleaded guilty of failure to heed stop sign, was fined $5 plus $4 costs with the fine suspended.

Terry Dawson, Cogswell, N.D., pleaded guilty of careless driving and was fined $25 and $4 costs.

Thomas A. Cochrane, city, charged with speeding 40 m.p.h. in a 30 m.p.h. zone, pleaded guilty and was fined $10 plus $4 costs with $5 suspended.

Clifford J. Johnson, Goodridge, pleaded not guilty to a charge of failure to heed a stop sign and his case was held over to April 15.

Due to illness of the municipal court clerk, Mrs. Pat Thompson, the court record of cases brought before Judge Chommie last Monday by the highway patrol was not available to the reporter, but will appear at a later date.

'56 Traffic Accident Survey Is Released

A six percent raise in all traffic accidents in Minnesota during 1956 over 1955 was reported today by the Minnesota highway Department in a summary of all motor vehicle traffic accidents for twelve months of 1956.

A total of 45,434 traffic accidents was reported to the department which had involved death, injury or total property damage of $50 or more.

The six percent raise resulted in a ten percent increase in traffic fatalities for the same comparative periods, with the 1956 toll of 637 being 57 more than the 580 in 1955.

The summary reported there were 545 mishaps resulting in one or more fatalities, 14,711 in which 22,821 persons received non-fatal injuries, and 40,178 in which the vehicles involved or other property was damaged.

Only in the categories of motor vehicle collisions with pedestrians and single cars which ran off the roadway were decreases shown for the year. The pedestrian death toll ended at 111 for 1956 compared to 123 for 1955, down ten percent, although the number injured climbed to 1,906 from 1,827. The number of persons killed when vehicles ran off the roadway dropped from 161 in 1955 to 126 in 1956 although the the number of persons injured climbed from 3,041 to 3,054 and the number of all accidents remained constant at 4,171 in 1956, only one less than 1955.

Eleven times each day during 1956, a vehicle ran off the roadway; while there was a collision involving two or more vehicles every 12 minutes throughout the year.

The raise in traffic accidents approximated the increase in mileage on Minnesota highways which rose from an estimated 11,709 millions of motor vehicle miles traveled in 1955 to 12,428 millions in 1956 a raise of about six percent. The state ended 1956 with a rate of 5.1 persons killed per 100 million vehicle-miles, a slight raise from the 5.0 figure of 1955.

A spring reminder to watch out for bicylists could be found in the not that 334 riders 14 years and younger were injured, six fatally in traffic last year. More than eight out of ten of the cyclists involved in traffic accidents were under 15 years of age.

An estimated 138,000 accident reports were submitted to the Commissioner of Highways covering 1956 traffic accident. These came from drivers and from officers investigating the accidents. There were 99,317 drivers involved in the reported accidents.

Farm Fire Losses Reported for '56

Eleven Rural People Die in Farm Blazes Last Year

About a million and a half dollars worth of farm property in Minnesota went up in smoke and 11 farm persons in the state died as result of fires, burns and explosions in 1956.

Glenn Prickett, extension farm safety specialist at the University of Minnesota, points to a report by the State Fire Marshall's office, showing that 127 barns, 122 farm houses, 23 poultry houses, 14 granaries and 11 garages on Minnesota farms burned during the year.

Farm property accounted for slightly less than 10 per cent of the total fire loss during 1956 in Minnesota.

Major causes of the farm fires, Prickett says, included defective electrical equipment and misuse of electrical equipment, defective and overheated heating units, defective chimneys, spontaneous combustion, lightning, rubbish fires, careless smoking and unsafe match handling.

Practically all of these fires could have been avoided, Prickett points out. He says it's important to clean up around the farmstead and keep electrical equipment and wiring in topnotch condition so that fire doesn't have a place to start.

Legion Head Lauds Minnesota School Patrol Project

National Commander Praises Training Center Known as Legionville

Minnesota's school safety patrol training center was called one of the finest safety programs in the country by W. C. "Dan" Daniels, Danville, N.C., national commander of The American Legion. Speaking recently in Duluth at its annual Hall of Fame dinner, Daniel gave Minnesota Legionnaires great credit for the construction and operation of Legionville, the state-wide safety training center north of Brainerd.

Child welfare and Americanism are two of the important programs of The American Legion, "and the school safety patrol program fits into these completely," Daniel said. "Certainly, Minnesota should be proud of this activity and give it full support. I know of no other similar activity in the country, where it is possible to give youngsters the foundation in traffic safety they need for the remainder of their lives."

The 1957 sessions of the school safety patrol training center will open on June 9, and continue for six weeks for boys and a seventh week for girls. Registrations are now being received at the department headquarters, The American Legion, Veterans Service Bldg., St. Paul 1. Attendance is held to 120 campers each week at a cost of $18.50 each per week.

Young leaders in the school patrol program receive advanced training in safety, bicycle safety, traffic rules and regulations; plus instruction in conservation and Americanism.

BRITAIN WANTED EGGS

At the end of World War II; ration-weary Britons, understandably, wanted fresh eggs. To encourage production the government guaranteed a fixed price. Mass production methods were adopted and soon there were fresh eggs in ample supply.

Now the supply is more than ample. The market no longer is adequate and at the present time the egg subsidy is costing the government two millions dollars a week. And other egg producing countries are ready to declare war because the British surplus is demoralizing the entire European egg market.

British egg men want the subsidy continued but they do not want production or marketing controls. Maybe they will be able to figure out a way to do the impossible.

SEAWAY SAVINGS

A study by the Indiana University School of Business on the probable effects on our national economy of the St. Lawrence Seaway has now been completed. As in all attempts to predict what the future will bring, there no doubt is much guesswork in this report. For those of us who live in the area that will be benefited by the development the forecasts are nevertheless interesting.

Duluth is one of the lake ports that is expected to enjoy a large increase in tonnage when it becomes a seaport, and most of the increased outgoing cargo will be grain, the report states. The estimated saving in shipping grain is at least ten cents a bushel and probably will be from 16 to 20 cents a bushel.

The seaway, due to open in 1959, is still having its financial and diplomatic difficulties. It is largely a Canadian project, our northern neighbors paying about two-thirds of the cost, and the obstructionists on our side of the line are not going to be able to delay it to any great extent. Competitive transportation in some areas of the East will suffer but the western roads that serve Great Lakes ports will benefit and are cooperating in the overall development.

Bringing a seaport into our territory should be an important factor in stabilizing the economy of the entire area and should do much to overcome the disadvantages of high cost transportation under which we have been handicapped.

TIME TO CALL A HALT

President Eisenhower defends his budget request by stating that it cannot be substantially reduced without depriving people of services or improvements that they want. We will not question the truth of this assertion. We are sure there are pressure groups actively supporting each of the proposed expenditures.

We do not subscribe to the thought however that merely because there is a request for a service it must be provided. Every responsible head of a family, and certainly every head of a successful business or farming operation, knows that it frequently is necessary to decide against an expenditure in the interests of sound financing.

In our private operations we often are forced to deny ourselves things which we very much desire but which we cannot afford. In a well managed government such unpleasant and often unpopular decisions must occasionally be made too.

Living within our means is essential to good management at any level. Folks who live beyond their means no doubt enjoy a temporary measure of satisfaction but it is a pleasure that is short lived. Bills must be paid.

It is especially important that we hold the line on public spending at the present time. Right now inflation is a serious threat. The dollar is losing buying power too fast. According to dependable reports it has lost an average of three per cent a year for the last ten years.

The fictitious prosperity this shrinking dollar has brought with it has been very pleasant for some, but it has been very unfair too for a large segment of the population whose income has not kept pace with increasing costs. The time to call a halt is right now.

TWO BY TWO

(New York Times)

Regardless of the weather, you can begin to count on the season when the birds pair off and start looking for nesting sites. Man puts it in his own terms when he speaks of "a young man's fancy," but the venerable urge is universal, not merely man's possession.

The robins begin to strut the lawns and pastures in pairs and the flocks will soon break up. You seldom see a bluebird without seeing another close by. Bluebirds, of course, are notable as family birds and are often spoken of as exemplars of domestic happiness and devotion. The house wrens have begun to court with song and flutter, and even the chickadees are taking to the woods again, two by two. In some places the flickers are pairing off and inspecting all the hollow trees in the area with the critical eye of apartment hunters. And the downy woodpeckers who still come to the suet boxes for a handout now come in pairs and seldom are long apart.

As they went into the Ark of Noah, two by two, so they return now and prepare for the time of nesting and brooding and raising the families. And the morning songs are mostly mating songs, for that is their urge and their purpose. That song will rise to a chorus with the growing season, bird song and bee hum and spring flowers opening. It's all a kind of celebration of life itself and life's own springtime, with a background of peepers chiming in with their own two-by-two chorus. For even the frogs know that spring is essentially a matter of one and one, endlessly repeated.

The Legislature

By Orlin Folwick

St. Paul—Governor Freeman's "put-the-finger-on-the-Conservatives" speech to his DFL followers hasn't produced the effects he sought when he wanted pressure put on state legislators to pull his taxing and spending program out of the hole.

The effect has been just the opposite. Legislators who do hear from home find their constituents opposed to the withholding tax and the compulsory joint income tax returns by wives and husbands who both work.

Now and then some constituent expresses concern over the governor's spending program which now also is giving legislators a lot of trouble. The payers better than $20,000,000 during the next two years. He has put little disclose on tax savings whatever.

Increase Close to $100,000,000

Legislative statisticians who first heard the governor say he would ask for a $25,000,000 increase in the budget for the next two years now have toted up increases and conclude quickly that if they are approved, the $20,000,000 tax savings will be eaten up and possibly some new or heavier taxes levied.

With the windup of the session two weeks away, some legislative leaders are now talking about adopting the spending and taxing program of two years ago and letting it go at that. The governor has proposed a special session, the whole fiscal picture will have to be resubmitted and the legislators will start out with a complete set of figures from the beginning and not a piecemeal picture such as they have had during this session.

Withholding Getting Opposition

The governor's request for a withholding tax on state incomes is just about washed up. Business men from the small towns have appeared before the tax committees protesting against the withholding plan.

They object to the extra expense put on them in additional bookkeeping to take out taxes and keep records. Some have explained that paychecks of individual employees vary from week to week and that amounts to be withheld would differ and require new computations each week. Little support for the measure has been given in the rural areas.

Opposition also is pouring in on the proposal for a compulsory joint return for husbands and wives who both work. The higher tax rates proposed by the governor on these persons is the nub of the opposition.

The bill would double the rates on the first 1,000, four per cent on the second $1,000. Where they would have joint taxable income of $5,000, the rate would go from the present five per cent to eight.

Effect Shown In Figures

A couple with a taxable income of $3,000, would pay $88.35 under the proposed law instead of the $51.70 they pay now. At $5,000, the tax would be $206.80 against $126.10 now. A joint taxable income of $7,000 would require taxes of $351.55 against $229.35 now.

In addition, the governor is asking the legislature to make permanent the "head" tax used for the World War II veterans' bonus, as well as the "temporary" five per cent surtax used to replenish the general revenue fund during the last two years. That would add a ten per cent item to all state income taxpayers.

Nursing Home Plan Stirs Fuss

As a part of his public welfare program the governor asked the legislature for a $2,000,000 appropriation to be used as state aids in matching funds for local governments which would build public nursing homes. An interim commission approved the idea and it appeared to have good prospects when introduced.

Legislators learned quickly, however, that what they were doing was to put the state in another business, that private enterprise can handle all nursing home problems, that considerable new money is being invested in such institutions and that approval of the plan would only wreck the private business by getting the state into it.

The governor's spokesmen in the senate, after the bill for the appropriation once had been killed, moved for reconsideration to get the senators on record for the next campaign. They succeeded in this effort but now are wondering how useful a political tool they created. The plan smacks of scout on that issue, they'll be ready for him.

Report on Viking News of the Week

By Mrs. Orville Peters, Phone 1730

Indispensable

Sometimes when you're feeling important, Sometime when your ego's in bloom, Sometime when you take it for granted you're the best qualified man in the room, Sometime when you feel that your going would leave an unfillable hole, Just follow this simple instruction and see how it humbles your soul. Take a bucket and fill it with water, Put your hand in it up to the wrist, Pull it out; and the hole thats remaining is a measure of how you'll be missed. You may splash all you please when you enter, you can stir up the waters galore. But stop, and you'll find in a minute, that it looks quite the same as before. The moral in this quaint example is: Do just the best that you can; Be proud of yourself; but remember —There's no indispensable man.

Estimated Tax Must Be Reported by Many

(This is the last one in a series of questions and answers on Income Tax. These articles are made available as a public service by the Minnesota State Bar Association's Public Relations Committee.)

Q. I have a wife and three children and expect to receive $3,000 from my employer and $200 interest income on my savings account during 1957. Must I file an estimate with my return?

A. Generally, an estimate must be filed if over $100 in income other than wages will be received. However, you need not file an estimate because your income will not exceed five (the number of your exemptions) times $600, plus $400 (a total of $3,400). All single persons and married persons not entitled to file a joint return who expect to earn over $5,000 must file an estimate. All married persons who make over $5,000 must file an estimate if it is anticipated that the total income of husband and wife will exceed $10,000.

The dates for filing declarations or amended declarations are April 15, June 15, September 15, and January 15 of the following year. These same dates are used in computing the 5% penalty on under-payment of estimated tax. Farmers need not file a Declaration of Estimated Tax for the year 1957 until January 15, 1958, but if he files his final return before February 15, 1958, he need not file a declaration of tax at all.

Do-It-Yourself Research

Resourceful parents do not need always to be told what to do with their children. If they operate already on reasonably sound general principles they can get at any important answers themselves.

Mrs. White was troubled by Norma's temper outbursts. Joan, a college freshman, gave her an idea: "Well, Mrs. White, you know what a laboratory course is. When you want to find out something you do some research. You get the facts. Why don't you do some research on Norma?"

The idea was so simple that Mrs. White wondered why she had never thought of it herself. She sat down and wrote out what she wanted to know: How often does Norma "explode?" Does she have more outbursts as time goes on? What makes her angry? Is one time of day worse than another? Is she alone or with someone else? With whom? Indoors or outside? What is she usually doing? What playthings are involved? Is she sleepy? What am I doing about it?

From these questions she made up an easy-to-use check-list and decided to try it out for two weeks and to write on the back of it any general impressions that came to mind.

Mrs. White and Joan studies the results. What a revelation! Among other things they discovered Norma's worst day was Monday (Sundays they shared with cousins at grandmothers). Her best day was Friday (favorite casserole dishes; helped mother cleanhouse; longer nap to go to supermarket with Mommy and Daddy). She had only two outbursts out of doors in the two whole weeks. Most of her outbursts were in the bathroom or kitchen. Most were with her mother. They usually followed interruptions being told to hurry, or to stop something without explanation. Mrs. White's responses were inconsistent, depending on what she was doing and how she felt herself—and so on.

This do-it-yourself research had some built-in answers. With only minor changes in routine and attitudes, both Mrs. White and Norma lived more productive and satisfying days.

Producing High Corn Yield

A hundred bushels of corn per acre seemed almost out of the question on the Donald Delzer farm near Dodge Center in 1952. But here's what Delzar recently told Ernest Schober, Conservationist with the Soil Conservation Service. "After we strip cropped the eroded sandy hills, my yields kept increasing. Last fall some of my strips yielded 100 bushels per acre. Conservation certainly pays off."

• • •

Can Aid Farm Income

Ernest Solseth, secretary of the Chippewa Soil Conservation District expects to make a $500 annual income from now on through sales of home sawed lumber, fire place wood and fence posts. Reason: a complete management plan has been developed for his 322 acre farm, including a management scheme for 40 acres of river bottom timber land.

• • •

Help Prevent Soil Loss

Clifton and Oliver Van Alstine are sold on the 70 acres of contour and field strips they established on their Washington county farm in 1955 and '56. Clifton Halsey, county soil conservation agent, reports the Van Alstines have reduced their soil losses, thanks to contouring. Water stays on the hillsides to boost crop yields. And by keeping more of the water "in place," they make better use of their fertilizer.

• • •

Corn on Contour Yields More

In fields trials in southeastern Minnesota corn planted on the contour yielded 14 percent more than corn planted in rows running up and down the slope, says Roger Harris, extension soil conservationist at the University of Minnesota. In both cases, the corn had received the same fertilizer treatment, was planted at the same time, and was cultivated the same number of times. The only difference was the direction of the corn rows.

Tree Planting to Open Soon in State

State Nurseries Plan to Ship out 18 Million Trees

The beginning of one of Minnesota's largest tree planting seasons will probably start next week provided that Ol' Man Winter pulls out and allows the digging of trees in the two state nurseries to get underway.

Ray Clement, forester in charge of nurseries and planting for the Minnesota division of forestry hopes that the snow cover and the frost in the ground will disappear during the first ten days of April. Digging will be started immediately thereafter and a considerable number of the young trees dug before shipping starts.

Usually first shipments are made to the southern areas of the state where field planting conditions should be good by the date the trees arrive. Clement says notices are sent a few days ahead of the shipment so that trees will be picked up immediately to avoid drying or heating of the tree bundles.

Plans are made for a total of 18,000,000 trees to be dug and shipped this year, 11,000,000 of which will be planted on private lands, and 7,000,000 on publicly owned areas. The private planting will be the largest on record, with farmers and land owners planting for windbreaks, woodlots, erosion prevention and on lands otherwise not used.

Clement says "there are no trees available now" and asks that people wishing trees for the spring of 1958 should send in orders late in the fall of 1957 to be sure of securing planting stock for 1958. Requests are filed in the order received. Information about securing trees for future planting will be published during the early fall.

QUESTIONS answered for VETERANS

Additional information or assistance on veterans benefits may be obtained by writing or visiting the VA Contact Representative at the Minot VA Hospital, or the Bismarck or Grand Forks VA offices.

Q—I am a disabled Korea veteran and I would like to take vocational rehabilitation training in a European college. Is this possible?

A—Under the law, it would not be possible. Vocational rehabilitation is not available in foreign countries, except in the Philippines for eligible U. S. citizens living there.

Q—I have just come out of military service. Will the VA find me a job?

A—Finding employment for veterans is not one of VA's functions under the law. What you should do is apply at your nearest public employment office.

Q—My World War II permanent GI insurance lapsed, and VA automatically continued it in force under extended term insurance. I want to reinstate my permanent policy. Will I have to take a physical examination?

A—If you reinstate within five years of the date the extended insurance would expire, you will not need a medical examination or any medical evidence of good health. If you reinstate after that time limit, you will be required to take an examination.

Q—If a school was approved to train veterans under the World War II GI Bill, will it also be considered approved to train Korean veterans?

A—Not necessarily. World War II GI Bill approval does not carry over. The school's courses must be approved specifically for Korean veterans.

Egg Profit Opportunity

The United States Dept. of Agriculture reports:

- Chicks started in Jan.-Feb. were 26% less than last year.
- Eggs in incubators for March hatch were 26% less than last year.

HOW YOU CAN BENEFIT

1. Raise your usual number of chicks, but start them now to get early eggs when prices should be highest.
2. If you're thinking about commercial egg production, now is the time to start.
3. See us for chicks now. We can supply good ones right away.
4. If you've already started chicks, be sure to grow them right for lots of eggs this fall. Our Purina Growing Program helps put good pullets in the nest.

PUBLIC OPINION

Editor the Times:

Because this concerns Marshall county and because your newspaper reaches into the homes of so many of its residents, both former and present, of the eastern half of the County, I am addressing this request to you in the hope that you will make the contents known to your many readers.

The year 1958 will mark the 100th anniversary of Minnesota as a state and it is the desire of the governor and the members of the state legislature that during the coming year, the people of Minnesota will become more conscious of their historical past and in their pride of the achievements accomplished in the past one hundred years, they will thus "sell" Minnesota to their neighbors and the rest of the United States and make them very aware of our wonderful state.

Many things have been suggested during the coming year to mark such an important event and committees have been formed and work has already begun in the formative stages. But one of the primary aims will be to record as much as possible of the history of each County. For this reason the Marshall County Historical Society is requesting the cooperation of all Marshall county citizens in assembling this vital information.

Associate historians have been appointed for each commissioner district with assistant historians to cover the various towns and townships in the county. It is hoped that enough history can be secured from each township this year to warrant an article in the county newspapers next year. Stories of the early days of the hardships and the sorrows, of the pleasures simple though they might have been, of how they farmed, of the duties of the early-day housewife and mother, of the early attempts at organizing schools and churches, of the political scene, of the early social and fraternal organizations right down to the present organizations that serve that purpose, of the various nationalities that came seeking a home and a place to raise their families. In fact of every phase of life for we need knowledge of everything to fully appreciate what we have now.

The committee would apreciate receiving the histories of families who have resided in Marshall county telling, if possible, when they were born, where they came from, when they married, when they arrived in Marshall County, where they resided, their business, if they farmed where their farm was located, who their children were including the maried names of the daughters, and, if the nioneers have passed on, when they died and where they are buried.

If the pertinent information is put down on paper and handed to the historian for that person's district, the history will be written up for them should they so desire. Furnishing the committee with stories of the early days and the family histories is a mark of great respect and a memorial to one's parents or grandparents, for all this information becomes a matter of record not only here in Marshall county but at the State Historical Society in Saint Paul, Minnesota, where it will be on file.

In the Eastern half of Marshall County, Mrs. Ed Stennes of Strandquist is the historian for the 4th Commissioner District. The 5th Commissioner District has been divided thus:

Chester Larson, Route 2, Thief River Falls, is historian for the townships of Como, Cedar, Holt, East Valley, Excel and Agdar.

Mrs. Tila Erickson and Mrs. Mable Stanley of Grygla, are joint historians for the townships of Thief Lake, Moose River, Linsell, Whiteford, Rollis, Veldt, Mud Lake, Eckvoll, Valley, Grand Plain, Moylan and Espelie.

It is hoped that they will be flooded with stories and family histories starting right now. Each delay and each death in the County deprives us of more knowledge of the past and it is this knowledge that we are striving to save.

Historian for Marshall County

Mail Volume up 15 Pct. in Four Years

Postmaster General Cites Fewer Employes

The nation's mail volume will hit close to 59 billion pieces a year by June 30, up 15.34 per cent since 1953, Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield said today.

Volume this 1957 fiscal year is expected to be at least 58,770,000,000 pieces. This is about 346 pieces, on the average, for every person in the United States.

The 58.7 billion piece mail load compares with 56,441,000,000 pieces during the last 1956 fiscal year.

"There has been an increase in mail volume in the Thief River Falls, post office in recent years comparable with the national average," said Postmaster R. J. Dryden. "Patrons of this office are getting more letters and other mail on the average than they did a few years ago, although it may not reach the national figure of 346 pieces per person."

The 15.35 per cent increase since '53 has been handled with a reduction of all types of employes except the city letter carriers needed to make the actual delivery of the increased load.

Since fiscal 1953, the average employment of city letter carriers has increased from 124,312 to 146,439. This increase is a reflection of the tremendous expansion of suburban and urban areas.

In all other categories of employment, average postal employment is expected to total 385,042 for this fiscal year, a decrease of about 0.3 per cent below 1953.

ONE FRIDAY

When we become mired in the routine of life, one day is like any other. This was just another working-day for most of the people in Jerusalem.

Three men died on Calvary Hill. One of them was the Galilean!

Business as usual in Jerusalem. Unless we understand the whole significance of what is happening we pay little attention . . .

Do you understand what happened that Friday. Do you realize WHO hung on that central Cross. Do you know WHY He died. And FOR WHOM?

There is nothing more necessary in our lives than the deep, personal knowledge of what happened that Friday . . . and the Sunday following.

Come to Church!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

THE MINNESOTA STORY

Prepared by the Minnesota Historical Society

MAPPING A LAKE

The Lake of the Woods has played a very interesting part in the history of Minnesota. It is a very large lake with vast expanses of open water and other areas marked by thousands of rock bound islands.

It is a strange fact that it took so many years to accurately map this lake. It was first known to students of the North American continent in 1711. Some twenty years later the elder Verendrye built a fort on the lake; the last outpost of French influence in the area.

The first known map of the lake was made by one Dobbs in 1746. It showed the lake in oblong form with nine islands. It is not believed that Dobbs made any careful exploration of this great body but translated to paper some information given him by the Indians.

The Ellis map is the second still in existence. It showed the greatest part of the lake as lying east and west and indicated six large islands.

The Mitchell map of the 1750ies showed the lake as round with the long river leading towards Rainy lake. This was probably the only map available at the end of the Revolutionary War when the first boundary treaty was made with England. It was thought at that time that the Lake of the Woods sent its waters to Lake Superior and that the Mississippi had its source west of the Lake of the Woods.

In 1823 commissioners representing England and the United States began to negotiate the northern boundary. This was settled by the Webster-Ashburton treaty of 1842. The Lake of the Woods was not finally surveyed until 1876.

GEOGRAPHY AND LIFE

The history of Minnesota has been influenced by the geography and geology of the state. Natural elements of many kinds has influenced the life of every generation in ways beyond understanding.

Probably no state received greater study of its natural environment than did Minnesota. The Winchell studies of geology, carried out through so many years, are outstanding.

The natural conditions of Minnesota reach back millions of years and constitute, as it were, the history of the longest time. The state once had great volcanoes of which hardly any physical elements still remain. The state had vast mountains which were spread out over southeastern Minnesota, and parts of other states, in the form of the great limestone deposits with their important agricultural effects.

The formal surveys of the state began with the creation of the territory and were virtually completed a generation later. A great state was mapped out. The state is almost exactly 400 miles in length, north and south. The width is 180 miles at the narrowest point, where the state may be said to draw in its waist line. From St. Vincent on the west to the Pigeon river the state is 375 miles wide.

The lowest and highest elevations in the state are found close together in Northeastern Minnesota. The lowest elevation is that of Lake Superior, 602 feet and the highest some nearly rounded off mountains reaching 2230 feet into the sky.

GREELEY WAS WRONG

Horace Greely was noted for his famous advice to young men to go west. But he never advised them to go to Minnesota. In fact, he said that they should stay away from this newly formed territory. In the early 1850ies he wrote most discouragingly of this new land in the New York Weekly Tribune. He said that the lands were poor and the climate worse. He said that Minnesota was good, only for its cranberries and its muskrats.

Since Horace Greeley was considered a keen authority on agriculture his prophecies disturbed the early settlers of the territory. They resolved to exhibit some of the products of the state at the worlds fair in New York in 1853.

General William DeDue was chosen to prepare an exhibit. He had a hard time getting any agricultural products that would inspire eastern farmers. He picked up a few ears of corn at Cottage Grove. He found a dozen more at Sauk Rapids, one of the early settlements on the Mississippi. He found some vegetables in the garden at Fort Ripley. With these, some furs and his famed buffalo-bull he proceeded eastward to redeem the good name of the territory.

It was not until 1857 that Minnesota shipped its first wheat. This was raised on the praire at LeSueur. There was only a half boatload of it so the rest of the cargo space was filled with hoops cut along the river. The boat went down the Minnesota and thence to a market on the Mississippi.

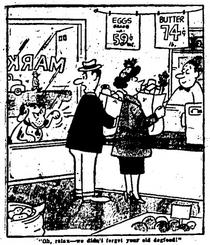
FRONTIER ANIMALS

Perhaps the first to write of the wild animals of Minnesota was Jonathan Carver. In his description of his travels of nearly two hundred years ago he wrote of the puma, of which a few lived in Minnesota. He described this as the "tyger". He compared it to the tiger of Africa and Asia, stating that it was dark, free from spots and not so ravenous. Carver also described the wild cat and many other interesting things in a land which the white man had hardly penetrated.

Scientific study of animal life later indicated that Minnesota had 63 species of wild animals. It was once prophesied that eight would be extinct. Among these were the buffalo which roamed the prairies in such vast numbers and which was slaughtered without reason. The moose has always tried to get away from civilization. The white tailed deer, once common to every part of Minnesota, has restricted its range. Twenty one of the various species were assigned definite economic values. Among these would be the fur bearers.

Twenty four of the wild animals were considered injurious. At close to the top of this list would be the wolf. The wolves howled at night in most parts of Minnesota and they continued to howl in the big woods until recent years. The settlers feared these animals and early day stories tell of those who escaped by climbing trees and remaining there until the wolves got to fighting among themselves or help came.



"Oh, relax—we didn't forget your old dogfood!"

DRESS UP FOR LOVE

By Lillace M. Mitchell

LULIE emptied the coffee grounds on the Spartan rose and eyed the ground around the plant as it drank the liquid almost thirstily.

Although she did not look next door she could see, out of the corner of her purple eyes, Charley Cornell polishing his convertible.

"Hoo hoo!" he said suddenly.

"Hoo hoo yourself," she retorted. She laughed gaily and went back into the kitchen.

"I wish you'd press my blue nylon, Sis," Emmy said. "It only takes a whisper of the iron but—I'm really in a rush."

"Go on! My white shoes have to be whitened," Jimmy cut in.

The other two sisters looked at the sink full of breakfast dishes distastefully. "My stars, when we all get up late on these holiday mornings," grumbled Grace, "it puts everything back—I simply can't take time to help with the dishes, Lulie."

Lulie noticed now that the oldest sister, Marcia, was already decked out in her "little cotton" that was skillfully cut and had cost forty-two-fifty at the dress shop. Lulie stood there for a few moments after they had all left the room, her eyes studying the dishes, the nylon dress that needed only the whisper of the iron and the white shoes that would need at least three coats of whitening—to look white.

Out in the yard next door she could hear Charley Cornell whistling tunelessly; a little sound that always pulled her heartstrings. For Charley Cornell had always whistled like that when he had been waiting to take her to the Prom or on a class picnic when they were in high school. Since graduation Charley Cornell has asked her for a dozen dates but Lulie remembered dully that she seemed never to be through with her tasks and she had refused him almost crossly. She was sorry now as she remembered back; after all, it wasn't his fault if the work was all too much for one slim girl to handle.

Her Mother had broken down under the strain and had been in the hospital for three months. No one else ever seemed inclined to shoulder any of the burden and somehow Lulie had found herself "elected" to the job.

"Hoo, hoo! Where you going, for Pete's sake?" called Charley.

She looked over at him and smiled tantalizingly. "Did you have any special place in mind, Charley?"

He blinked. "ME? You mean you're going places with ME?"

"Oh, didn't you intend your kind words as an invitation, Charley? Excuse me!"

He shook his polishing rag uneasily. "Gee, I thought I was poison—'r something. You kept turning me down every time I asked you. You want to go places today, Lulie?"

"Why not?" she asked simply.

From the upstairs bedroom the sisters shared, Emmy called shrilly, "Bring my nylon up, Sis. I'm ready for it now."

Lulie looked up and waved carelessly. "It isn't ironed, darling. Charley and I are going places—"

Jimmy crawled out his bedroom window onto the roof over the kitchen porch. "It's mutiny!" he howled. "Mutiny on the Bounty! It's mutiny, that's what—"

"Hm," laughed Charley loudly. "I thought Lulie was going to be MUTE all the rest of her life while you-all walked back and forth over her stretched-out body! Come along, Lulie—let's get going—I sure got sick and tired of those old cotton kitchen dresses you've been living in."

"I s'pose you're wanting to buy her real dress-up dresses, huh?" Jimmy yelled down angrily.

U. S. Senator Ed Thye Reports

Natural Gas Hearings Set For May 14.

The Federal Power Commission has set May 14 as the date hearings will start on the final stages of the case affecting the supply of natural gas to Minnesota.—This is the most difficult and complex case the Commission has been faced with it says. Two major pipeline companies are competing for the right to supply gas in Minnesota. In addition, other major companies have intervened to protest certain phases of the proposals submitted by Northern Natural Gas and Midwestern Gas Transmission Co.—Nearly 60 Minnesota communities are involved in these two applications.—The decision by the Federal Power Commission came four days after I had conferred with the Commission Chairman, Jerome Kuykendall, and received assurances of early action.

Thye Introduces Small Business Bill

I introduced a bill in the Senate to amend the Small Business Act of 1953; Senator Capehart of Indiana and Senator Bush of Connecticut joined me as authors on the bill which would make the Small Business Administration a permanent agency. The limit on loans would be $250,000.00, the disaster loan program would be improved, provisions for financing small business pools are included, and the agency would be authorized to make loans to small firms in drought-stricken areas. There are many more provisions which would clarify existing legislation and which would enable the Small Business Administration to be more effective in its work in behalf of that segment of the economy.

Prenatal Diet Important

A baby's health may suffer during pregnancy even though the mother's diet is only moderately deficient. Nature does not protect the baby at the mother's expense; both of them will suffer if her diet is poor. The quality of the mother's prenatal diet can't be stressed enough, says Annette Gormican, assistant professor of home economics at the University of Minnesota.

Give Baby New Foods Gradually

The milk diet of babies must be supplemented early in life. The most successful additions of new foods are made gradually according to Annette Gormican, assistant professor of home economics at the University of Minnesota. The should be given at first in small amounts so that the child may become accustomed to new flavors and textures. Foods the baby accepts should be given soon again so that they become familiar. A food he rejects should be offered again after a few days. A food dislike may last only a few days and if a food is not forced upon him, chances are good that he'll accept it another time.

Costs Twice As Much for Two

The old saw, "Two can live as cheaply as one," has been spiked again! It costs at least twice as much, according to the U. S. Department of Agriculture, which has just published the first of a series of reports on Food consumption of Household in the United States.

On the basis of the amount of food actually used in representative households in cities and towns during a week in spring, 1955, the single person living along use $11.17 worth of food in a week, while two people use an average of $23.56 worth. For a family of three, the figure went up to $31.73; for four, it was $37.49, and for families of seven or more, the weekly food bill was $45.14.

New Annuals for 1957

Looking for something new to plant in the flower garden this year? In this year's list of all-America selections of flowers, there are three new annuals: Glitters petunia, Red Satin petunia and Twinkle phlox.

According to C. H. Hard, extension horticulturist at the University of Minnesota, Glitters petunia is a scarlet and white star-patterned petunia. Plants grow to a height of 12 inches. Because of its low-growing habit, it may be used as an edging plant or for bedding.

Red Satin petunia is a vivid, non-fading, deep scarlet flower. A prolific bloomer, the plant grows to a height of about 12 inches. The University horticulturist suggests planting Red Satin in the foreground of the flower border or in raised plant beds. To bring out its vivid color, it can be contrasted with a white petunia such as the Paleface.

Twinkle phlox is a low-growing annual, six to eight inches in heighth, with small criply pointed stars of salmon pink, crea, white with red, purple, lavender and rose. It can be used as an edging plant or a bedding plant.

Seeds of petunias and phlox should be started indoors to extend season of bloom.

Other new annuals include a double-flowered Morning Glory, a new single-flowered French marigold and a new dawrf-type vervena.

New Rose Varieties

To many homemakers, adding a new rose or two the the flower garden each year means new adventure in gardening. Among the new rose varieties this year are the All-American winners, Golden Showers, a fragrant yellow ever-blooming pillar and climbing rose, which can be grown without support or trained on a trellis or along a fence, an white bouquet, a new floribunda with sparkling white-gardenia-like flowers.

C. G. Hard, extension horticulturist at the University of Minnesota, urges gardeners to order rose plants from Minnesota nurseries to be sure they are grown on hardy roots.

Blaze Causes Damage to TRF Business Block

Bystanders Help Move Goods From Burning Building

Observers watching firemen fight blaze in DeCremer building owned by Dr. W. P. Kaisler here, gladly lent John Anderson a hand as he moved some of his jewelry showcases from the smoking interior of his store here. His establishment, Anderson's Jewelers, along with the offices of Dr. W. P. Kaisler, did not suffer actual fire damage but had extensive damage from smoke and water. Smoke can be seen coming from the door of the burning building. Fortunately for bystanders windows in the building did not blow out from heat, otherwise some may have been injured. At least one large window was cracked, however.

Watch Damaging Fire Sunday

Standing helplessly by as local firemen battle flames in the DeCremer building Sunday afternoon are the occupants of the building and their wives.

Anderson Jewelers and Dr. W. P. Kaisler Sustain Heavy Loss

Cleanup work started today after a Sunday afternoon fire that made a shambles of one of Thief River Falls newly opened business concerns and chiropractic offices on Main av. N.

Fire of an as yet unknown origin started in a shed behind the DeCremer building which houses Anderson's Jewelers and the offices of Dr. W. P. Kaisler, owner of the building, and threatened for a time to consume the whole building before the Thief River Falls fire department brought it under control.

The alarm was turned in at 1:54 p.m. Sunday by a Northwestern Bell switchboard operator who smelled smoke coming into the temporary central office above the Union State Bank and saw the source of the smoke when she investigated.

The fire had made considerable headway and burned through a large portion of the shed roof before firemen brought it under control about 45 minutes later. Two pumpers were used by the fire department to put out the fire.

Actual fire damage was mostly confined to the wooden shed but serious smoke and water damage was sustained to Dr. Kaisler's offices. Much damage was also caused by smoke and water at Anderson's Jewelry which shares the building. Jewelry showcases showed the effects of heat, smoke and water, and a huge cleanup job faced John Anderson, owner of the establishment.

Anderson lost an undetermined amount of stock and tools and other goods in a storeroom and workshop in the back of the store, he said today. An estimate of the actual damage sustained by Anderson and Kaisler was not available at this time but an estimate of $4-5000 was placed on the building. However, it is doubtful if it could be replaced for that, Fire Chief Langevin said today, and added that fireproof materials would have to be used in replacing it according to city ordinances.

The DeCremer building had been purchased by Dr. Kaisler last year and an extensive remodeling project was completed late this past winter.

Anderson's Jewelers had moved into the building in early February and Dr. Kaisler occupied his new offices in March.

Langevin said the fire apparently started near the switch board and spread from there. Ideal weather conditions favored local firemen in combating the blaze, he said. Damage was restricted to the DeCremer building, although some smoke filtered into adjoining business places.

Full Schedule at Postoffice Expected Soon

Department Head Foresees End of Curtailment Apr. 20

Thief River Falls and all other communities had no mail deliveries Saturday, either in the city or on the rural routes, as a result of an order by Postmaster General Arthur Summerfield curtailing service when Congress failed to vote a requested $17,000,000 deficiency appropriation to make up a shortage in department funds.

A House committee Friday yielded and agreed to advance the department $11,000,000, but Summerfield stated that the bill must be passed by Congress and signed by the President before the money can be drawn on to resume full service. He said he hoped the money would be forthcoming this week so that Saturday deliveries could be resumed by April 20.

In the meantime, Postmaster R. J. Dryden reported that he had received instructions to limit daily window service at the postoffice to the hours of 8:30 a. m. to 5 p. m., compared to the former schedule of 8 a. m. to 5:30 p. m., and that there will be no window service Saturday morning until the full schedule is resumed.

"The present situation," said Summerfield "has puzzled many people since they do not realize all the money the postoffice department receives from the sale of stamps and other items goes to the treasury and that the postoffice can spend only the appropriations congress provides.

"If Americans decide to send more mail than the department estimated they would in its budget, then the postal service must deliver that extra amount of mail. This costs extra money which the department can get only from the congress by way of a supplemental appropriation.

"That is exactly what happened this year."

Holy Week Rites Schedule Revised for St. Bernard's

Holy Thursday Masses to Be Celebrated This Evening at 6 and 8:30

This year the order of services for Holy Week at St. Bernard's parish will be different from previous years. Also the time of services has been changed. This change, in accordance with new regulations for all Catholic churches throughout the world, has been inaugurated so that the people may take a more active part in the principal mysteries of the Christian religion, said Rev. J. Bernauer, assistant pastor.

The time of the services has been moved to the afternoon or evening to make it easier for a greater number to attend the services, and also to make this yearly commemoration of Christ's suffering and resurrection correspond as closely as possible to the actual time these events took place.

Consequently, Holy Thursday Masses will be at 6:00 and 8:30 p. m.; Good Friday services at 12:30 noon; Holy Saturday vigil services at 8:30 p. m. Palm Sunday Mass and procession were at 10:30.

Other services at St. Bernard's are as follows: Wednesday 7:30 p. m. instruction and confessions. Friday 7:30 stations of the cross.

Elementary Class Work Studied by Goodridge Board

Last Tuesday morning the Goodridge school board members, Messrs. Swanson, Waale, Hoffman, Hanson and Anderson observed elementary classes in action. Rev. Heltne, also a member, was unable to attend.

They viewed arithmetic, reading, spelling, social and rhythm classes. Afterwards Orville Jensen, the elementary principal, showed them the achievement testing program and the curriculum used.

Hospital Problems Topic at Meeting in TRF Last Wednesday

A meeting of the First district of the Minnesota Hospital association was held in the dining room of Northwestern Hospital on Wednesday, April 10th. About thirty persons attended from the hospitals of Crookston, Moorhead, Greenbush, Warroad, Roseau, Karlstad, Hallock, and Thief River Falls.

The group had dinner at the Rex Cafe and later held their business and discussion meetings at the hospital. Representatives from Fosston, Park Rapids, Bemidji, and Bagley could not be present because of weather conditions.

The business meeting, led by H. W. Peterson, chairman of the district, heard a report by Thomas Hagen, administrator, of Bethesda Hospital of Crookston, regarding the proposed state law which will give the University of Minnesota $24,000 for the next two years to enlarge its program for the training of laboratory aides. The proposal of the American Hospital association to build a 17-story, $9,000,000 building on Northwestern University Campus was also discussed since a 50% increase in membership dues is being proposed.

A short talk was given during the business by Miss Laura Hegstad, nurse consultant with the state department of health. Miss Hegstad announced that a two-week institute in rehabilitation nursing was to be given in Minneapolis and urged attendance of physical therapists and other nursing personnel.

John X. Lynskey and John Coleman, executive secretaries of welfare boards of Pennington and Roseau counties respectively, informed the group concerning important changes of welfare laws relative to payments of vendors in county welfare cases which are to be made effective on July 1st.

The group was informed that following July 1st all vendors of hospital and medical care to county patients would have to collect directly from the recipient of welfare monies. Welfare checks, including amounts for authorized medical and hospital care, are to be made out to the welfare recipient directly.

The hospital group discussed the difficult problems that would ensue from this new system. For the past four years welfare checks for this kind of service have been given directly to the vendor of medical and hospital care.

Norman Peterson, administrative assistant at Northwestern Hospital, discussed the topic "The Patient From No Man's Land." This topic had reference to the many borderline cases admitted to hospitals; persons who could not receive relief because of fine points of welfare laws or for other reasons and who could

$700,000 Federal Loan Granted for Baudette Bridge

T. H. Rowell of Baudette Sees Chance of Starting Construction This Year

The federal housing and home finance agency Friday authorized a $700,000 loan to the village of Baudette for construction of an international toll bridge across the Rainy river.

The announcement came from Sen. Thye's office, according to T. H. Rowell, Baudette, former mayor and now a member of the village's bridge committee. Rowell said bids may be opened by July 1, and construction may begin late this summer.

The bridge would connect Baudette and Rainy River, across the river in Ontario.

Only means of connection now is a ferry boat, which runs only during the summer and cannot handle the ever-increasing number of business and tourist cars between Baudette and Canada, Rowell said.

The only international bridge between Duluth and Pembina, N. D., now is at International Falls, Minn., more than 50 miles from Baudette, Rowell said.

Senate Kills Withholding Tax Measure

Votes Indefinite Postponement of Bill after Debate

The Minnesota senate Friday administered the death blow to Gov. Freeman's withholding tax plan, and laid it to rest for the 1957 session.

The action came at the conclusion of a two-hour debate on a motion to uphold the senate tax committee's recommendation for indefinite postponement.

The vote 45 to 21, was along factional lines except for three conservatives who deserted the majority to vote against the motion, and thus joined 18 liberals in favor of the withholding principle.

The liberal leadership of the house of representatives has scrapped Gov. Freeman's tax package and will introduce an entire new tax program in the house early this week.

The announcement came at the end of a liberal conference with the governor Saturday.

"The Senate took the heart out of the governor's tax-study committee package when it killed withholding," said Rep. Fred A. Cina, liberal majority leader.

House speaker A. I. Johnson pledged that the new program, being worked out over the weekend by the liberal leadership and Joseph M. Robertson, commissioner of taxation, will provide for programs like education, welfare and "other essentials."

Asked if there will be any relief for business and industry—an essential part of the Freeman program—Johnson said that will come, if at all, after the essentials.

RED LAKE FALLS SAILOR SHARES IN MANEUVERS

Ford, machinist's mate first class, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ford of Route 3, Red Lake Falls, aboard the attack aircraft carrier USS Bennington, participated in the largest amphibious operation to be held in the Far East since World War II. The powerful armada of 60,000 men and 75 ships took part in the "Beacon Hill" operation from Mar. 14 to Apr. 1.

Teen-age Road-e-o Is Planned by Jaycees for Saturday, May 11

The Thief River Falls Jaycees have announced the date for their annual Teen-Age Safe-driving Road-e-o as Saturday, May 11th.

Plans are underway to make this years event the biggest and best ever.

General Chairman for the event is Ralph Foster; with Dr. Gary Gross, publicity chairman; Bruce Reski, eligibility chairman; Ed Broughton, judging and scoring chairman and Kermit Kemnitz, course and equipment chairman.

The Teen-Age Road-e-o is designed to give young drivers the opportunity to prove their ability to drive safely, to improve their driving habits and attitudes, and to stimulate community interest in High School Driver education programs.

The Road-E-O is open to all teen-agers who can qualify for a learner's permit or a drivers' license and who have not turned 20 years of age. Contestants need not be attending school, but cannot be officially employed as a commercial vehicle driver or have had a moving traffic violation in the preceding 6 months.

The local Road-E-O will begin Saturday morning, May 11th, at 9:30 A. M. with a written contest on common sense knowledge of rules of the road. A driving contest will start at 12:00 noon at last years' site, 1st street and LaBree Avenue. The latter will be a performance test in obstacle type exercises.

Local teen-agers may get their applications at the Lincoln High School when it reconvenes April 23rd. Teen-agers from the surrounding area may pick up their applications at the TRF police station or write to Jay-Cee Road-E-O, Box 53, Thief River Falls. All teen agers who are eligible are encouraged to participate in this Jay-Cee safe driving program.

RLF to Pay 4.04 Pct. Interest on School Bond Issue

The Red Lake Falls school district, No. 15 will be required to pay a net interest rate of 4.04 per cent on the $305,000 issue of bonds sold recently to finance school building construction. The issue, sold to a Twin Cities syndicate, will mature serially thru 1987. Interest payments for the life of the bonds will aggregate $278,080.

Plummer School Dist. Gets Go-ahead Signal on School Addition

The board of education of School District No. 16, Plummer, at a special meeting on April 9, let the construction contracts for a new gymnasium-auditorium and two elementary classrooms. These units were put in a base bid to be built first at the request of the state department of education.

The state department of health had previously withheld approval of the final plans because of a petition presented to them and signed by 91 residents of the Plummer community. The petition asked that the village of Plummer be required to improve its sewage system. Of the 91 petitioners, not more than nine had property adjoining the river.

After considering the petition and after meeting with Roger Piehl, superintendent of schools, and Emil Malwitz, village mayor, the state department of health gave their approval to the final plans of the proposed building program.

On April 1, Plummer school district treasurer Arthur Fridland and clerk O. L. Skatvold went to Minneapolis and delivered the bonds which were sold recently, receiving $160,000 in proceeds.

This amount is sufficient to build the gymnasium-auditorium and two elementary classrooms which were set up in the base bid. Construction contracts have already been signed and construction is scheduled to begin soon on the gymnasium-auditorium and two elementary classrooms.

A special election will be held in the near future in which the voters may vote on building the agriculture shop and a third elementary classroom, said Supt.

Shootin' the Breeze

BY Mack Draper

Since grousing about the weather has returned to prominence as an indoor sport recently, perhaps we can be a typical spoilsport by quoting some figures from April, 1956 just by way of proving "you never had it so good."

Any way you care to slice it the weather this month has been, BY FAR, nicer than April a year ago. True, it hasn't been as warm as March—but when you stop to think that this time last year we had a couple of blizzards to come —well, perhaps the weather we've been having isn't so bad after all.

On the other hand, you weather-gripers please move over. We don't like the recent apell of sour weather any more than you do!

We had an opportunity to fly Martin Rantanen's Super Cub a week ago and all we can say after the experience is "Wow!"

—Now the Super Cub looks just like any other Cub plane basically—but the real difference is under the engine cowling and in the wing flaps, (the ordinary Cub doesn't have flaps a-tall.)

That 150 h.p. Lycoming in the nose takes the Supe upstairs like a homesick angel, even when the ship is fully loaded. But the real treat is in landing it—you dump full flaps and she'll glide as slow as 45 m. p. h. without falling off in a stall. You just sit there keeping her lined up with the runway and when you're a few feet off, you flare her out gently and she greases onto the runway like a piece of thistledown.

No kiddin'—it's that easy. We like it!

You folks who'd rather keep one foot on the ground don't know what you're missing by not learning to fly. No heavy traffic, no goof up ahead to make you cuss about the way some people drive—Well, we don't know exactly how to put it into words but take our word for it— it's a grand and glorious feeling to sit up there away from all those ground traffic worries.

Better yet, if you have a back-seat driver problem it's solved in an airplane—said back-seat driver may make herself (or himself) heard over the engine noise for a while but eventually the engine will win out when your back-seat driver loses her or his voice.

One of our lakeshore neighbors, H. O. Ness, was seen in the vicinity of Oen's boat show the other day and rumor has it he has bought himself a sleek new fiberglass boat and new motor to match.

We were told that "Ole" has one of the oldest (30 years or so!) outboard motors in these parts. You know, that explains all the racket he used to make when he pulled away from the dock in his old outfit. We used to wonder why it sounded as though someone in his boat was pounding on an old wash tub every time he started up. Now we know!

A man's right to his own opinion, however wrong it may be, doesn't necessarily make him any the less stupid for holding to that opinion. Nor is a certain opinion the more right because a majority of people share in it. A wise man is not forward but a jackass and a fool are both recognized by the noise they make.

And may the sun shine brighter upon you next week. So long!

Sen. Humphrey's Newsletter

Tough Competition

One of the most alarming developments in recent years has been the almost inhuman effort which the Soviet Union has been putting into the training of scientists, engineers and all kinds of technicians. The results have been startling, so startling indeed that we urgently need to review our own position and that of the Free World to determine whether it is possible for the Soviet to close the scientific, educational and economic gap now existing. If the Soviet Union and the Communist sphere can close the gap, and thereby surpass us in industrial productivity, we could suffer a disastrous defeat without a shot being fired. Our growing shortage and the Soviet's growing abundance of scientists and technicians could be the critical factor that tips the scales in the Soviet favor. Not only may the rate of growth of the Soviet economy be stepped up beyond anything we have anticipated, but we may be faced with a tremendous outflow of Soviet scientists and technicians into the uncommitted and have-not nations of Asia and Africa.

A Call To Leadership

Last week I called on the President to take the lead in calling an international conference of scientists and educators to consider ways and means by which the Free World may meet this serious new Soviet competition by stepping up our own training of scientists, technicians, engineers and other professional personnel. This is a Free World problem, but we must recognize the basic need for initiative and leadership from the United States.

Crash Program

We must give serious consideration in the United States, meanwhile, to a crash program that would supply uswith in a few years with the scientists and engineers we need rightnow and are going to need even more desperately in the near future. Some of the training methods we found successful during World War II crash programs for military personnel should be studied. We must provide additional facilities and laboratories. Perhaps some of our regular university programs can be accelerated.

Long-Range Shortages

Of course it would be shortsighted to seek to correct only our deficiencies in scientific and engineering personnel. Our failure to provide sufficient educational opportunities for all of our youth of intellect and talent is a disastrous policy. We have a fundamental problem of a teacher shortage, particularly in the mathematics and sciences. In fact, all through the professional fields we find critical shortages — which match the wasted resources of these talented young people who each year fail to go on to college because they lack the necessary funds. That is why I have introduced a comprehensive Youth Opportunity Program which embodies a broad scholarship program, a loan program, and tax benefits to encourage the 150,000 brightest young people who are each year being turned away from college, to go on to higher education. That is why I am pressing for the restoration of the GI Bill educational benefits—as a benefit not only to servicemen but to the whole nation. It is also why I have recently called for a broad program of training "grassroots ambassadors" — young men and women of definite technical skills who can go abroad trained to speak the languages of the "have-not" areas of the world, and ready to dedicate themselves to an American program of helping other people help themselves.

People Line up for Chow at Oklee

Shown here is part of the line of persons passing the counter in the modern kitchen of the Oklee public school as they picked up their plates at the "Town and Country Day" celebration Friday at Oklee. Nearly 400 persons were served in less than an hour at the free event sponsored by the Oklee Commercial Club.

The Bureau of Mines has developed a portable telephone system for use in coal mines, which makes use of minute hearing-aid parts, including batteries, transistors, earplugs and microphones.

A one-day record for coal-dumpings—108,087 tons, or 1,653 cars— was set by the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway on Feb. 3, 1957 at Newport News, Va. A new $3,200,000 coal dumper, recently put into operation, helped set the new record. The bulk of the coal went to overseas points.

Seven Teachers to Return to Grygla School Next Fall

Principal and 2 Other Teachers Have Resigned, School Board Reports

Seven teachers are returning to Grygla public schools next year, three have resigned and two new teachers have been hired, a school board spokesman announced last week.

Manford Stennes, principal of School District No. 79 Jt., Grygla for the past six years has tendered his resignation effective July 1. He indicated he was leaving the field of education but made no comment on his future plans.

Two others have also resigned from the 10-teacher school system. They are Mrs. Marilyn Bucholz, of Grygla, and Mrs. Clarice Sorteberg of Thief River Falls.

Returning for the 1957-58 term are Mrs. Clara Boyum, Grygla; Mrs. Lillian Sundberg, Grygla; Miss Maxine Pesek, Strathcona; Mrs. Helen Knutson, Grygla; Mrs. Harriet Nelson, Grygla; John Shereck, Bagley and Mrs. Luella Solberg, Skime.

New teachers hired include Mrs. Bernice Jelle, Grygla and Miss Mary K. Erickson of Bagley.

State Approves Plummer School Building Project

Roger Piehl. Most of the funds needed for these units is now on hand in the form of a surplus in the district treasury. It may also be necessary to ask for a small amount in bonds to build the agriculture shop and the third classroom.

It is very likely that these bonds will not have to be sold because at the time this money will be needed tax receipts and additional state aids will be in and available to be spent for this addition.

President Offers $254,000,000 Cut in Soil Bank Funds

Sec'y. Benson Says Move Denotes No Reduction in Soil Bank Program

President Eisenhower Thursday told Congress it can cut 254 million dollars from the $1,254,000,000 he asked to operate the soil bank program in the 12 months beginning July 1.

This reduces his budget request for the program to an even billion dollars.

Presidential Press secretary Jars C. Hagerty said that the change resulted from a detailed study of operations of the soil bank program which has just been completed.

This study showed, he said, that "the financial needs of the program in 1958 will be less than was contemplated at the time of the preparation of the 1958 budget."

Agriculture Secretary Benson said, "In no sense does the budget amendment reflect any cutback in the soil bank program."

"We are making and will continue to make every effort to utilize in a sound manner the funds authorized by the soil bank act," he said.

The secretary said farmers have slow to participate in the conservation reserve or long range phase of the program.

Hospital People Hold Meeting in City Wednesday

not pay for their own hospitalization or medical care. It was pointed out that almost every hospital has to absorb the cost of care of such patients and that this often costs hospitals thousands of dollars in the course of one or two years. The hospitals are open to all people who need hospital care but hospitals often are not in a financial position to carry this burden.

Thus the hospital, or rather the patients who can pay their bills, are placed in the position of having to give charity whether they can afford to or not. There seemed to be no answer to this problem which concerns all hospitals and all self-paying patients, said a hospital spokesman.

At the world's largest coal barge unloading dock, now being built at Memphis, Tenn., each boom will handle 1,300 tons of coal an hour, or enough coal to heat more than 200 modern six-room homes for an entire winter.

The Legislature

By Orlin Folwick

St. Paul—Heading into the windup hours of the 1957 session the Minnesota legislature will give Governor Freeman only a portion of his program, possibly setting the state for a special session and most certainly a rousing campaign next year in the battle for senate seats.

Even at this late date, there is little reconciliation between what the governor has proposed in his tax saving program and his requests for a spending program. In the independent senate, where most legislation is given its final laundering, the feeling is less optimistic than in the house that the governor can call for tax relief and have the biggest budget increase in state history.

Senators Look To 1959

What will occur won't be known until the final hours of the session. The house, led by followers of the governor likely will not agree to changes made by the senate. Hence, conference committees likely will labor for hours long after the legal adjournment time before one side or the other gives in.

It is a certainty, too, that the governor will not get the big bidget he asked for. Senate leaders contend that even with "windfalls" available to take much of the blow in the current biennium, the taxpayers would get a hefty hike in taxes beginning in 1959 to take care of the new things asked by the governor. To prevent such an occurrence calls for stern measures now to conserve the people's resources, they say.

Reorganization

Senate leaders indicate they feel the governor's reorganization bill has a good chance of adoption at this session. The current version is somewhat milder than what wae adopted by the legislature two years ago and then declared unconstitutional because of a clerical error.

The major reorganization bill alreday has passed the house and is now before the senate. The civil administration committee, to which it was sent, has been studying the subject for some weeks and if the house bill carries provisions similar to those approved by committee members, it can get on the floor for fairly fast attention. However, the senate does not feel it can slide this or any other bill through even though it might be the governor's most cherished proposal.

Reapportionment

Although there still is opposition to reapportionment of the state's legislative districts, indications are that some sort of reapportionment legislation will be adopted.

The plan most favored in the senate is the one calling for a constitutional amendment requiring any reapportionment to be based on area and population, in which the senate would be apportioned on a population basis and the house on area.

This is a necessary provision in the minds of most rural legislators who feel that if a new reapportionment should take place on a population basis only, the large cities would take over control of the legislature and the rural areas, which depend much more on the legislature than the cities, would lose position.

Considerable opposition has developed in the senate to the so-called "Bergerud" bill which would apportion on population only. This bill has been passed by the house, as has another reapportionment bill, submitted by Rep. Carl Iverson of Ashby, which is based on area and population.

School Aids

Another touchy subject is shaping up to possible acceptable solution. This is the school aids bill, which appears to be coming through with a figure of $87 per pupil as the basic aid. The present figure is $82. The proposed figure would contribute nearly $6,000,000 in basic aids to the state's school districts.

State aid in education costs has become a standard practice, but it does get tangled up in politics. Governor Freeman asked the legislature to boost the basic aid figure to $92 at this session, but did not convince many legislators that the money would be there to support this figure.

Nevertheless, the proposal looked good to school officials and local taxpayers who have to come up with local education funds. The legislature, however, has had to figure out where the money is coming from and when it did get the figures down, discovered that the best it could do would be to go to $87. There also is activity in the education committees to raise from $200 to $235 per pupil unit the computation basis for equalization aids. This, legislators feel, will provide considerable help in many districts.

At Oklee's Town and Country Day

Tables were soon filled at the free bean feed Friday at the "Town and Country Day" celebration in Oklee. The affair was held in the new addition of the Oklee public schools and an overflow crowd of persons sat in the gymnasium-auditorium to enjoy their free noon meal. The event proved to be a real booster day for town and country relationships. Shown here are several tables set up in a long corridor of the school.

Community Event at Oklee Friday Is Termed a Success

Claude Ebling of Soo Line Entertains Crowds at Town and Country Day

"Town and Country Day" at Oklee Friday, April 12, proved to be a successful affair as hundreds of farm and town families enjoyed a bean feed and other entertainment sponsored by the Oklee Commercial club.

A bean feed that began at 12:30 started the day's festivities. The free meal included home baked beans, cheese sandwiches, cookies and milk. The food was served in the attractive new kitchen of the Oklee public school. Earlier, hundreds of school children had been served their hot lunches in the same place. Their noon meal had been moved forward that day to allow for the special event, C. G. Quist, superintendent of schools, stated.

During the dinner hour and prior to the formal program that began at 2 p. m. the Oklee high school band and a girl's trio entertained the audience.

Featured on the afternoon program was Claude O. Ebling, agriculture specialist for the Soo Line Railroad, who presented a combined lecture and magic show. His theme was "what's good for the small farm and the small town." It was graphically presented with demonstrations in magic to put his points across to the audience.

Rain Is Falling in N.W. Area Today

Mercury Hits 9 Thursday, but Rises to 44 Sunday

'Tis a great day in northwestern Minnesota despite the moisture that's falling. Matter of fact the moisture is what makes it a great day because, for a change, residents in this area are getting their moisture in liquid form, instead of congealed into snowflakes.

A definite warming trend has been under way since Thursday when the area shivered with a low of 9 above, and the high reached only 22. Sunday's 44 was the warmest in over a week here.

Bad Moment During Sunday Fire

Smoke pours from the burning shed behind the DeCremer building as firemen battle the flames for control. The fire was under control moments later as conditions here Sunday afternoon favored fire fighters.

Nevertheless, severe damage was done to offices of Dr. W. P. Kaisler and to Anderson's Jewelers, mostly by smoke and water. Shown here is one of two fire engines employed in fighting the fire, in the alley behind the establishment.

Here is the temperature record since Thursday:

	High	Low
Thursday, April 11	22	9
Friday, April 11	33	24
Saturday, April 13	35	22
Sunday, April 14	44	23

The Monday low was 29. So far precipitation has not been measured but amounts to only slightly more than a trace to Monday noon. The noon temperature was 43.

The ice on the river pool here is the only large sheet left in the area now, as the Red Lake River below and some distance above the dam is ice-free. The average break-up date is April 10, which was passed nearly a week ago.

The area forecast, according to KTRF, is for increasing cloudiness and warmer today with scattered showers. Cloudy Monday night with more showers and little temperature change. Tuesday will be partly cloudy with little temperature change. Highs today will range from 50 to 60 while lows tonight will be in the 30's. Winds will be southeasterly, 15 to 25 m.p.h., decreasing tonight.

M. M. Johnson, Here 57 Years, Succumbs

Rites This Afternoon for Pioneer Resident

Funeral services for Morris M. Johnson, Thief River Falls resident 57 years, were held today (Monday) April 15, at 2:00 p.m. at Trinity Lutheran church, with Rev. Otto Dale officiating. Interment will be made in the Greenwood cemetery. Mr. Johnson passed away Thursday, April 11, at the age of 89 years.

Mr. Johnson was born October 20, 1867 in Oslo, Norway and came to the United States with his parents at the age of six months. They settled in Prairie Farm, Wisconsin where he attended school and grew to manhood. He worked with his father as a carpenter before going to Duluth and Minneapolis where he continued in the same line of work.

He was united in marriage to Miss Anna Clifgaard of Minneapolis, February 20, 1894 and in 1900 they moved to this city where they have since made their home. He was foreman on construction of Lincoln high school, and worked as a contractor and carpenter in this community for many years. He also owned and operated a furniture store for a number of years.

Survivors include one daughter, Mrs. Carl Kobes (Mabel) of Amarillo, Texas; six sons, Reubin, Harlowton, Montana, Arthur, Leonard, Ernest, Lloyd and Willis, all of this city; 18 grandchildren and 11 great-grandchildren. He was preceded in death by his wife. Gulbranson Mortuary had charge of arrangements.

Rites at Stephen Apr. 5 for Mother of Mrs. C. Rinkel

Funeral rites were conducted Friday, April 5, in the First Lutheran church of Stephen for Mrs. Annette Johnson, for 50 yrs. a resident of that community, who died in the Warren Hospital April 1 at the age of 90. She was the mother of Mrs. R. C. Rinkel of White Bear Lake, formerly of Thief River Falls. Also surviving are four other daughters and three sons.

Alcoholism to Be Topic of Seminar

Noted Authorities Talk at Sandstone May 3d

Alcoholism will be the subject of a special seminar for the general public to be held at the Sandstone State Hospital, beginning at 9:15 on Friday, May 3. Announcement of the program was made this week by Dr. Kenneth W. Douglas, Superintendent of the Hospital who has made arrangements for the meeting.

Two nationally-known authorities on alcoholism are being brought to Minnesota for the program. They are Dr. Seldon Bacon, Director of the famous Summer School of Alcohol Studies at Yale University, and Dr. Leon Greenberg professor of physiology at Yale University, who has specialized in the study of alcohol and its effect on the human body.

Dr. Bacon will deliver two lectures, "The Problem of Alcoholism" and "The Sociologist Looks at Alcoholics Anonymous." Dr. Greenberg will discuss "Alcohol in the Human Body" and demonstrate the Alcometer, a device for detecting the amount of alcohol a person has consumed.

The seminar, which will climax the Sandstone Hospital's Mental Health Week program, is designed for non-medical people who are interested in the problem of alcoholism in their community and would like to learn more about the problem and what can be done about it. Law enforcement officers and others who deal directly in the community with persons who have an alachol problem will find the program of special interest, says Dr. Douglas, but the seminar is open to all interested persons in Minnesota.

There will be no charge other than 50 cents to cover the cost of lunch, but anyone planning to attend should notify Dd. Kenneth W. Douglas at the Sandstone State Hospital, Sandstone, Minnesota, as soon as possible.

Two Collisions in City Last Week

More Than $400 Damage Is Reported by Police

Two collisions in the city since last Thursday spoiled an otherwise perfect weekend as far as traffic is concerned in the Thief River Falls area. Both accidents were reported by city police.

Hans O. Wecklunget and Clarence Williams, both city residents, were involved in a collision which occurred when Wecklunget drove out of an alley between Horace and Atlantic avenues and hit Williams, who was going east on 9th st.

About $50 damage was sustained to Wecklunget's vehicle while Williams' pickup truck sustained about $215 damages.

Friday Myron Gutterud, city, going east on 3rd st. hit Miles Swanson who was going south on LaBree av. Total damage to both cars was estimated at $250.

Neither the sheriff's office or highway patrol reported accidents on county and state highways over the weekend.

Planning The Landscape

Careful planning of the landscape is essential for a beautiful home landscape setting. The landscape plan need not be elaborate; but it should be complete enough so the home owner can visualize the areas which need landscaping and also be able to list the shrubs he wants to grow.

• • •

Draw the plan on graph paper according to scale, using one inch as the equivalent of 10 feet. Included on the plan should be the boundaries of the area to be landscaped, the house, the driveways and sidewalks, permanent trees and all other permanent objects of the landscape.

• • •

When this much of the plan is completed, you'll notice that the house tends to divide the areas for landscaping into rather distinct divisions: the public areas for landscaping into rather distinct divisions: the public area at the front and the private area at the rear of the house.

• • •

The public area has three important elements: the lawn, which should be a broad, open expanse of grass; the foundation planting, which should be simple in design and easy to maintain; and the permanent trees, which serve to frame the house.

• • •

The shrubs for the foundation planting can be selected on the basis of two rules. Rule number one: vertical lines in the architecture usually require vertical lines in shrubs. These are shrubs upright in habit of growth such as pyramidal evergreens or deciduous shrubs at least three feet in height. Rule two: horizontal lines in architecture require horizontal types of shrubbery. The vertical lines are usually at the corners of the house at doorways, at the ends of picture windows or where porches or other additions are attached to the house. The horizontal lines are usually found between the vertical points of the architecture.

• • •

Always be careful to select plant material in over-all proportion to the size of the house.

• • •

The private area to the rear of the house usually includes the flower borders, the home garden, picnic area or outdoor living room and space for recreation. In this area, the gardener has the opportunity to develop his own design. Take care not to overplant and create too large a maintenance problem. Gardening should be enjoyed rather than become a drudgery.

QUESTIONS answered for VETERANS

Additional information or assistance on veterans benefits may be obtained by writing or visiting the VA Contact Representatives at the Minot VA Hospital, or the Bismarck or Grand Forks VA offices.

Q—I have just retired from the Armed Forces after 30 years of service. Would it be possible for my GI insurance premiums to be paid by allotment from my retirement pay?

A—Yes. However, authorization must be registered with your branch of service.

Q—Is it possible to take college extension courses by correspondence under the War Orphans Education program?

A—No. Correspondence courses are prohibited by the War Orphans Education Law.

Q—I am a disabled Korean veteran and I am planning to take vocational training under Public Law 894. What is the maximum length of time I will be allowed to train?

A—You will be authorized whatever length of time is needed to rehabilitate you so that you can earn a living in spite of your handicap. Generally, however, the maximum is four years.

Q—I understand that a World War II veteran must file his application for a GI loan by July 25, 1958. Just what steps have to be taken by that date?

A—By that date, a lender must at least have agreed to make the loan and must have requested VA's approval. The law allows up to an additional year, after that deadline, to complete the deal.

Q—I am planning to sell my house and let the buyer take over my GI loan, provided VA will release me from liability. Once I receive my liability release, would I automatically be entitled to another GI loan.

A—No. Obtaining a release from GI liability does not entitle you to another another GI loan. The only veterans whose GI loan entitlement may be restored are those who must dispose of their property for certain compelling reasons such as condemnation by the Government for ill health.

Q—Is there any deadline for applying for disability compensation for a service-connected disability?

A—There is no deadline. You may apply at any time. However, if you file your application within one year following your discharge from service, the payments may be made retroactive to the day after your discharge, providing your disability was compensable at that time.

Q—I have a Korean GI term insurance policy. Will it get dividends on this policy?

A—No. Under the law, Korean GI insurance is non-participating; it does not pay dividends. However, your premiums are lower than the premiums for GI policies that do pay dividends.

Q—I lost my sight in the Korean conflict, and I am planning to take vocational rehabilitation training. Will VA provide me with reader service?

A—Yes. Reader service may be provided if it is necessary for the successful pursuit of your vocational rehabilitation. The number of hours of service will depend on the amount of reading required in your course.

McIntosh Man Heads North Minny League

Representatives from Thief River Falls, Bagley, Fosston, Winger, Erskine, and Red Lake Falls were in attendance at the Northern Minnesota baseball league organizational meeting held at McIntosh on Friday night.

Officers elected for the ensuing year were Maurice (Mush) Nornes of McIntosh, president; Ole Rice of Bagley, vice-president; and Fritz Frethem of Fosston, secretary-treasurer.

The league was organized as a six-team circuit this season, and according to present plans, the schedule will be drawn so that a double round-robin will be played. Tentative opening dates were set for May 19th or May 26th.

A schedule-making committee, composed of Jack Poole of Red Lake Falls, Dick Evenson of Erskine, and Maurice Nornes, was named. This committee will have a schedule arranged for the league meeting that will be held at McIntosh on April 25th. At this meeting, the final details for the 1957 season will be completed.

It was agreed that the league schedule would call for games on Sundays and Wednesdays. With Thief River Falls, Fosston, Erskine, and Red Lake Falls having lighted fields, there won't be any difficulty in arranging the schedule to fulfill the Wednesday night dates.

Husband Seeking Damages in Mary Moonen Slaying

Action Filed Thursday Against Dr. A. A. Axilrod Seeks $17,500 Damages

A lawsuit asking $17,500 damages from Dr. A. Arnold Axilrod for the wrongful death of Mrs. Mary Moonen, formerly of Thief River Falls and Plummer, was filed in Hennepin county district court by her husband, Mathias Moonen.

Axilrod, former Minneapolis dentist, is serving a 5-to-20-year term in Stillwater prison. He was convicted of the strangulation death of Mrs. Moonen, one of his patients in the spring of 1955.

Legal papers were served on Axilrod at Stillwater Thursday, according to John R. O'Keefe, Minneapolis attorney representing Moonen.

Moonen, 27, was appointed trustee in behalf of his wife's heirs in an order signed by District Judge John Weeks.

Moonen and his daughter, Gloria, 2, who is living with relatives at Plummer, would share any damages recovered through the suit, O'Keefe said.

The lawsuit said Moonen and his daughter suffered a financial loss and were deprived of Mrs. Moonen's "services, society, and comfort."

"The Rainmaker," Hal Wallis' filmization of the hit Broadway play, will open Wednesday at the Falls Theatre, starring Burt Lancaster and Katharine Hepburn and co-starring Wendell Corey, Lloyd Bridges, Earl Holliman and Cameron Prud'homme.

Hailed as one of the year's outstanding films, with superb performances and a powerful story, the Technicolor comedy-drama concerns a traveling pitchman and the ranch girl whose life he changes.

Keeping Score with "Huck" Olson

The Year's Hockey Finances

Darwin (Gus) Ferrier, the efficient general manager of the senior hockey Thieves this past season, forwards some figures taken from the statement on the finances of the senior hockey organization. According to Gus, the total receipts, from admissions and the lunch counter, amounted to $728.55. The total expenses, for travel and equipment, and some expenditures in behalf of the Midget hockey team, amounted to $1,068.30. The deficit, as you can see, was $339.75.

These figures are surely a far cry from the receipts and the disbursements for the senior hockey Thieves back in 1947-48. In that hockey season, 1947-48, the expenditures for the Thieves came to $8,568.00. The receipts totaled $8,659.05. And of this latter amount, all except a sum of $893.04, was from game admissions. The Thieves played eighteen home games that season, and drew $7,706.90 from paid admissions. Those days will never return.

The record paid attendance for one games was made in a playoff game between the Thieves and the Grand Forks Amerks when the "take" was $972.00 considering the limited capacity of the Arena rink, that amount was phenomenal.

In a regularly scheduled game between the Thieves and the Amerks, earlier that season, the gate was $842.25.

Gus adds a footnote to his report, thanking the hockey fans the business places for their support of the Thieves this past season.

The Oracle

Harold M. Johnson, East Third street's oracle on boxers and boxing, surely walked, or should we say talked, himself into a wager th other week. Harold, who is a cover-to-cover reader of the "The Ring" magazine, and follows the information of that magazine closely, came out with the prediction, and offered to make a wager to that effect, that Chick Speiser would defeat Rory Calhoun in their scheduled match.

Al Holzknecht, who makes a practice of lying in ambush for wagers such as this, covered the bet, and quicker than you can spell Holzknecht backwards.

Came the Friday night, and not only didn't Speiser win, he was knocked out, but he didn't even fight Calhoun, for the match was against Tony Anthony. That's the kind of wagers that makes life a pleasure for Al. These cinches.

Johnson, who is endearingly called Cold-coffee by his friends can't understand how he became so befuddled as to have Rory Calhoun, a middleweight, in the ring against Speiser, the second-ranked light-heavyweight.

Harold will be a long time in living down that Speiser-Calhoun affair.

Welcome, Lyle

In attendance at the Northern Minny league at McIntosh on Friday night, and looming plenty large, in a baseball sense was none other than Lyle Westrum.

Lyle, the youngest brother of the New York Giants' famed Wes Westrum, has established residence at Erskine, having bought a home, and he will be the player-manager of the Erskine Merchants this season. Lyle has an insurance agency in Erskine.

Lyle, a native of Clearbrook where his mother still resides, is a nephew of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Robinson of this city, and a cousin of Leslie and Ardel Robinson.

He had a promising career in organized baseball snuffed short by a stint in the Army, and when he returned from service he was unable to pick up the threads of progress. Just prior to entering the service, Lyle, like his brother Wes, a catcher, played with the Joplin team of the Western league. And as a team-mate on that Joplin team he had none other than Mickey Mantle. Mantle, in those days, was a shortstop.

Joplin was a farm team of the New York Yankee baseball organization, and Lyle was a Yankee chattel. Following his return from army service, Lyle was assigned to the Binghamton team of the Eastern league, but feeling dissatisfied with his progress, he left that club to play semi-pro baseball in Minnesota.

Lyle joined the Fergus Falls Red Sox, and together with nifty southpaw Fred Copeland, they formed a battery that sparked the Red Sox to the state championship.

Last season, while at Fergus Falls, Llye had the misfortune of breaking an ankle, and was side-lined for most of the year. According to the reports we have received, he is doubtful of the strength of his ankle, and therefore will confine his baseball activities with Erskine to pitching duties. We can assure the fans that Lyle has the arm of a pitcher.

An Added Honor

Ray Cronk, Bemidji's agile-six-foot, five-inch center, and an all-state tournament selection this season, was given further honors this week when he was named to the "National Scholastics" magazine All-America high school squad.

Clarence (Bun) Fortier, the Lumberjacks capable coach, is understandably perturbed at all the honors that are heaped upon Cronk. Not that coach Bun has any worries about Ray not being able to carry these honors with proper modesty and humility, but the fact is that these honors will serve to "pin point" Cronk as the "big" man of the Bemidji squad.

You can well understand that the 29th district and eight region's basketball coaches, when they have any idle moments this summer, will utilize that spare time in plotting defensive maneuvers to hamstring this Lumberjack all-star. The more honors he receives, the more of a marked man he becomes. And that's Bun's gripe.

Active Tuesday

Damage in the second outbreak of window-smashing vandalism to hit Duluth in less than a month was estimated at several thousand dollars by police.

The raiders broke windshields and other windows of 77 cars and chipped windows of four east side stores Tuesday night.

Det. Inspector Walter L. Wisky said the vandals probably used air guns to fire pellets at some of the cars on the three parking lots which were invaded.

Similar vandalism March 12 caused damage estimated at $50,000 to 80 downtown and east side business establishments.

The vandals damaged 28 cars Tuesday night.

10 of 18 Teachers in the Goodridge School to Return

Six Resigned and Two Others Granted Military Leave, Says Supt. Brown

The board of education of Consolidated School District No. 8 Jt., Goodridge, has accepted the resignations of six teachers, allowed military leaves of absence to two others and rehired 10 in the present 18-teacher system, Supt. David M. Brown announced today.

Resigning from teaching duties are Mrs. Hilda B. Johnson, high school English instructor who has been a teacher in Goodridge for 12 years; Mrs. Helen Halvorson, high school science and mathematics instructor; Mrs. Ruth Rasmussen, home economics; Roland Samber, music instructor; Mrs. Ruth Cords, 7th and 8th grades science and mathematics; and Yvonne Habedank, second grade.

The school board also acted favorably in the requests of Larry Foley, agriculture-vocational instructor; and John A. Gargrave, social studies, for a year's leave of absence to fulfill their military obligations.

Returning to Goodridge next year will be Supt. David M. Brown, Goodridge; Robert Boeckman, Thief River Falls; Mrs. Lillian H. Fuller, St. Paul; Julian J. Gasperlin, Goodridge; Orville W. Jensen, Goodridge; Donald T. Olson, Thief River Falls; Mrs. Lillette Anderson, Goodridge; Mrs. Beatrice Helstad, Gryglа; Miss Joyce Hemmestvedt, Goodridge; Mrs. Edna S. Omlid, Goodridge; and Mrs. Myrtle H. Thompson, Goodridge.

The Goodridge board of education decided at its March meeting that children entering first grade in September 1957 must be six years of age or before August 31, 1957. The decision it was pointed out is in line with the action of other schools in Minnesota.

Officers and members of the Goodridge school board include Ernest L. Swanson, chairman; Henry Waale, clerk; Oldrich Hoffman, treasurer; Jesse Anderson, Milford Hanson and Rev. A. B. Heltne.

Quackgrass Damages Soil, Research Shows

University of Minnesota scientists are finding out why alfalfa and grain often don't grow well on soil that was infested with quackgrass the year before.

The reason is that quackgrass seems to have a double-barreled harmful effect on a soil, according to Thor Kommedahl, University plant pathologist.

First, quackgrass produces some kind of substance that's poisonous to legumes and grain.

Second, quackgrass rhizomes are a harboring place for organisms that cause root-rot diseases in cereal crops. Rhizomes are a horizontal, underground stems of quackgrass, and resemble roots.

In a field test at the University, new alfalfa on soil that was free of quackgrass the year before produced 2 to 3 times as much as dry matter per acre as a nearby plot that had been quackgrass infested a year earlier. Some of that difference might be explained by the fact that quackgrass robs soil fertility.

But Kommedahl found similar results in greenhouse tests where fertility was carefully controlled. He raised alfalfa on sterile soil and on soil that he "contaminated" with quackgrass in three different ways. In one test, he raised quackgrass on the soil, then sifted the soil out and planted it to alfalfa. For a second test, he put ground-up quackgrass roots in sterile soil, and in third tests, he poured into sterile soil run-off water from pots that had quackgrass growing in them. That way, he was able to check for any toxic effect of quackgrass without having a difference of fertility in different soils.

In every case, alfalfa seeds in quackgrass-contaminated soil didn't grow properly. Some seeds didn't grow at all. Others were stunted in growth and more susceptible to disease.

In tests with grain, Kommedahl isolated root-rot disease organisms from quackgrass roots, put the organisms in soil, then planted cereal crops. Compared with cereal crops growing in "clean" soil, the crops on soil treated with organisms from quackgrass roots were severly reduced. Some of these inoculations reduce barbless barley yields by 85 per cent, one corn variety by 70 per cent, and completely killed out Mindum wheat.

Higher Cost Seen for Easter Dinner

Ham up 7 Pct. over 1956, Says 'U' of M. Specialist

American consumers will be spending more for red meats for their Easter dinner this year than they did in 1956, according to Mrs. Eleanor Loomis, extension consumer marketing agent at the University of Minnesota.

The traditional Easter ham is up 7 per cent over a year ago at the retail level; leg of lamb costs 12 per cent more and rib roast 9 per cent more. On the other hand, consumers will pay less for turkey than they did in the spring of 1956 and only slightly more for chicken.

The average family is now spending about five cents out of each dollar of income for meat, the U. S. Department of Agriculture reports. Over the last 30 years Americans have usually spent between 4 and 6½ cents for meat out of each dollar of total income. During World War II, when meat was rationed and prices were controlled, consumers spent only 4 cents or less for meat out of each dollar of income. When prices zoomed upward after the war, the meat bill was about 6½ cents out of each dollar. Since then it has coasted down to less than 5 cents.

Income and price of meat per pound are two factors that influence the amount of meat consumers buy. Last year, the spendable income of the average American reached the highest point in history, while the average price of meat dropped to the lowest figure in 10 years. Consequently, Americans ate more meat than ever before. This year's outlook is for consumption of slightly less red meat and more poultry.

Bookkeeping and Shorthand II

By Miss Marilyn Meyer

There are thirty nine girls enrolled in the Shorthand II course. It is open to seniors, after successfully completing the course in Shorthand I.

The overall aim of the Advanced Shorthand class at the high school level is to build shorthand speed and to develop transcription techniques. Thus they will be able to produce mailable copy at a fair rate of speed. The following goals must be attained in order to achieve this aim:

1. To write readable shorthand notes.
2. To improve typewriting techniques.
3. To co-ordinate the reading of shorthand with typing from symbols.
4. To apply the knowledge of English, punctuation, and spelling that he already has.
5. To increase vocabulary and become word conscious.
6. To master the spelling of basic business vocabulary.
7. To recognize commonly used grammatical constructions to enable him to apply the correct pronunciation to them.
8. To estimate the transcription space required for each letter to assure correct placement.
9. To arrange materials for a steady flow of work and to select correct materials.
10. To use the dictionary intelligently.
11. To develop responsibility for a usable final product.

The average rate of speed when entering the course is 60 words per minute. By the end of the year the greater portion of students is able to take dictation at a rate of 100 to 110 words per minute.

After successfully attaining the aforementioned aims of the course, the final product of any student should measure up to the four criteria on which a mailable transcript is based:

1. It follows very closely the thought of the dictation are permitted provided they do not change the original meaning of the dictation.
2. It contains no uncorrected errors, such as misspellings, typographical errors, incorrect punctuation.
3. It looks reasonably neat. The erasures must be neatly done. Strikeovers are not permitted. Margins should be fairly even and the letter in good balance.
4. It contains no omissions, such as an entire clause or sentence in the body of the letter, or he omission of the date, salutation, or the complimentary close.

Bookkeeping, though a vocational course, is of value to every student regardless of his or her future plans. It is assumed that the knowledge gained in bookkeeping will be used at some time in keeping personal books, books for a social organization, or working in a business.

The first weeks in the course are spent in learning the basic part of the course, which is referred to as the "bookkeeping cycle." As the year progresses only new problems and more complicated transactions are added to this cycle.

Throughout the year the students do work with the books of single-proprietorship businesses, partnerships, and corporations. Also, special sections on the use of the cash register and income tax are included.

A special project, the Davis Practice Set is completed during the second semester. This set is especially practical and interesting to the students as they complete all transaction and do the end-of-the-month work for a small business. The records are based upon the cash register as the integral part of the bookkeeping system, making it of particular value in a community with many small businesses.

1. To develop an adequate understanding of Bookkeeping principles and business practices with a comprehensive personal and business vocabulary.
2. To cultivate desirable attitudes and habits necessary for success in school activities and business situations.
3. To develop in the pupil a realization of the value, uses, and necessity of accurate records as a guide to intelligent personal, social, and business management.
4. To encourage the development of character traits—systematic procedures, initiative, honesty, accuracy, neatness, orderliness, punctuality, responsibility, and dependability.
5. To serve as an exploratory course to determine the pupil's interest and aptitude for the opportunities offered by accounting as a profession.

Miss Marilyn Meyer

Miss Meyer, who is teaching bookkeeping and advanced shorthand in Lincoln high school for her second year, was graduated from high school at Larimore, N. D., and from the University of North Dakota in 1955, with a major in business education and a minor in home economics. She is serving as treasurer of the Thief River Falls Education Association.

OF LILIES, PIGS, CAT AND FIDDLE

Mrs. G. A. Strelow, New Ulm, made interesting news with two East Indian sacred lilies in bloom. . . With only 14 "faucets" in operation, 18 pigs on the Don Ridl farm near Renville drew lots so to speak, and four wound up on bottles. . . A Northfield family has a well-stocked lake in their basement, and an ardent fisherman who occasionally scoops out a choice specimen with a furry feline law, enjoys a little romp, then a good meal. . . There was no special celebration on the 20th birthday of REA in southwest Brown county—at least not the kind planned; power failure on the anniversary relegated some 800 farms to 24 hours of "primitive" living. . . Nearly 60 years ago Carl Johnson of International Falls paid around $150 for a violin in Michigan, which has turned out to be a 1734 Guarnedius.

Old Fashioned Ideas

"Believe me when I tell you that thrift of time will repay you in afterlife, with a usuary of profit beyond your most sanguine dreams; and that waste of it will make you dwindle alike in intellectual and moral stature, beyond your darkest reckoning."

—W. E. Gladstone

Batter-Up

Another baseball season is getting under way and the dopesters are busy disagreeing among themselves as to which teams will be out in front at the finish next fall. The American Association race should be especially interesting for us this year.

The St. Paul Pioneer Press looks hopefully ahead to the Saints taking the pennant with Minneapolis in second place. The Minneapolis Tribune concedes first place to Denver but knows the Millers will be a close second and the Saints third.

The Saints being owned by the Brooklyn Dodgers and the Millers by the New York Giants, and both clubs anxious to justify their new ball parks, the progress of these teams thruout the schedule will be worth following. Each organization has hopes of bringing big league baseball to the region

And big league ball will come to the Northwest if the Twins will work togther. Maybe some day the area will be favored by having intelligent leadership in both of the cities at the same time, overcoming the provincial approach that retards not only their own progress but the progress of the great region they serve.

The two villages have an opportunity to become a really great city.

Does Finishing Pay?

Elsewhere in this issue is a picture of a fine group of beef animals on the Emil Sanders farm north of Mavie. They merit special attention because the first six of them to be sold topped the market at South St. Paul last week. The remaining twenty-two will be sold shortly.

The good result is interesting because most of the beef animals raised in this area are marketed as feeders, and among stockmen there is a question as to whether or not the finishing process can be completed profitably on our farms. Most of the feeder stock of the northwest states is finished in the feeding pens of the corn country.

Mr. Sanders is not sure he has the right answer. He naturally was pleased when his first shipment of the year measured up to top quality standards. He admits that there are good arguments both ways on the question. His main argument for completing the finishing job at home is that it fits into his general operation, giving him something that he likes to do during the winter months. And we'll agree that doing what you like to do is mighty important in any operation and a big factor in getting good results.

When all of the twenty-eight steers have been marketed we will be glad to make a more detailed report on the results, Mr. Sanders having kindly consented to give us the facts, and a few observations.

School Election Coming

Another annual school election is scheduled for next month, and for the Thief River Falls district this election has a special problem. At last year's annual meeting the voters approved a proposal to increase the six-member school board to seven members. Behind this proposal was the thought that at least two of the seven members should represent the rural residents of the district.

Carrying through with this good intention may not be easy. Certainly it will require a special effort, and residents of the rural area should be giving some thought to the question of representation.

One of the two present board members whose terms expire this year is a rural resident. This means that of the three board members to be elected, at least two should be from the rural area. All candidates must run at large and unless there is an organized effort to establish such a balance it probably will not be accomplished.

If the residents of the rural communities would agree upon a slate of candidates in advance, and let their selections be known, the problem would be greatly simplified. That is not an easy thing to do either. It is not likely that any candidate would have unanimous rural backing. We think, however, that such an attempt should be made.

It has been suggested, as one possible solution, that rural voters might choose their representatives on a separate ballot and that, of course would be one way to assure a five-to-two ballance. But there are good arguments against such a procedure. Giving all voters an opportunity to express themselves on all candidates is much to be desired and, over a period of time, would bring the best results.

But thinking in terms of the election that is immediately before us, city voters do have a moral obligation to fill at least two of the three vacancies from the rural area. Unless some effort is made by rural residents to gain support for their favorite candidates it is quite possible that the good purpose will not be achieved in spite of the best of intentions.

Our Sympathy, Sir

We like to be fair about such things and we think now that Senator Hubert Humphrey should be given credit for a substantial cut in the federal appropriations. The failure of Congress to pass the special soil bank program for corn growers makes it possible to reduce the administration's recommended expenditures for agriculture by a quarter of a billion dollars.

Secretary of Agriculture Benson submitted the special plan to the corn growers in a referendum last fall and urged them to support it. Senator Humphrey told the corn growers not to support the plan and he would see to it that Congress would give them a better deal.

The corn farmers favored the Benson plan by a very substantial majority but a little short of the two-thirds margin required. That gave Senator Humphrey an opportunity to make good on his promise.

Now the Congress, controlled in both houses by the Democrats, refused to go along on the corn bill, and the quarter of a billion dollars that was to be used to help the corn farmers will not be needed. There will be a substantial saving for the taxpayers, however, which the ever modest Senator probably will not want to take credit for — in his corn belt speeches.

Senator Humphrey has our sympathy. We know exactly how he feels. Sometimes we talk too blamed much too.

We Should Be There, Too

(Sleepy Eye Dispatch)

"Money alone won't win friendship," Dr. Lloyd V. Berkner, recently returned from the Far East, told a group of Sleepy Eye friends Tuesday evening.

Dr. Berkner spent some time in India and visited three or four times with Nehru and other Indian leaders. He found that few in that country realize how much money we have given them, but they are quite conscious of the money given them by Russia.

Why? Because the Russians send men as well as money. In India Berkner met several Russian scientists with whom he had previous acquaintance. Why were they there? "O, we are just visiting friends," they replied, or "We are just on vacation and enjoying ourselves."

Berkner's opinion is they are there to "win friends and influence people," to use the words of Dale Carnegie. They have no influence on Nehru who realizes the inadequacy of communism, but there are lesser men in India who are susceptible to their blandishments. If we furnish money to build power plants and factories, then let the Russians move in and run or help run them, who are ingratiating themselves with the Indians? The Russians, of course.

Perhaps our foreign policy should be revamped. Perhaps we should concentrate less on cash, more on emissaries who will live among the foreigners in India and other lands, providing visible and voluble evidence of what we are doing to help them.

A while back a Minneapolis judge gave H. O. Holve a 90-day sentence. Holve had failed to yield right of way and two people were fatally injured. Last week the judge changed the jail sentence to a $100 fine. "It's getting so most anyone can afford to kill two or three pedestrians," says Bob Forrest in the Slayton Herald.—Sleepy Eye Dispatch.

Weatherwise, for many months, Minnesota has been the favored spot in the nation. If those nightly news reports of tornadoes, blizzards, dust-storms, hurricanes, earthquakes, drouth and floods continue, there should be a large migration to this mild and balmy North Star state.—New Prague Times.

Trouble with overhauling the tax structure is that it doesn't mean a repair job, but rather enlarging the spending program while making the people think something is being done for them. Just think of it—no more taxes on household furniture, reduced taxes on farm inventories of personal property, reductions on merchants inventories and manufacturers stocks. Sounds good until one is brought up short with realization that the Liberals are planning to spend $58 million more than has been spent during the last biennium.—Sleepy Eye Dispatch.

REPORT from the GOVERNOR

by Orville L. Freeman

Lobbying is an important characteristic of any legislative session, and this one is no exception. There are many kinds of lobbies. There are representatives of business and trade organizations who want to present their interest in certain kinds of legislation. There are those who want trading stamps, and those who don't want trading stamps. There are those who want daylight saving time, and those who oppose it. And countless others. Lobbying, if conducted properly, is a necessary and useful part of democratic government.

Worthy Causes

I am especially interested today in those lobbies that work for worthy causes, for programs that we all want. There are those who work for more extensive rehabilitation programs for the physically handicapped, for better care for the mentally ill, for further improvements in education, for expanded programs to prevent juvenile delinquency, and for many other measures to meet urgent human needs. Organizations that work to further all of these worthy causes perform a great service. Their efforts make our state a much better place in which to live.

Requests for Appropriations

All of these programs take money. Organizations devoted to each worthy cause plead the case for appropriations to meet its special program. Their leaders protest that the budget recommendations should have included more appropriations, and urge the legislators to be generous. Their members write letters to this same end. And this, too, is good. For each organization, representing a special cause, has made a special study of the needs and problems. In most cases they present the needs of men, women and children who cannot plead effectively for themselves.

No Santa Claus

In government, however, there is no Santa Claus. And when the Governor adds up all these requests and arrived at the total he must face the responsibility of either recommending a program that will bring in enough revenue to meet all the requests, or of cutting the requests down to a total that can be met by the revenue program he does recommend. And the members of the Legislature must face this same responsibility. They cannot vote for appropriations, no matter how worthy the cause, unless they can also pass revenue measures that will produce enough money to meet those appropriations.

Opposition

Meanwhile, some groups who have not studied the needs in the fields of education and welfare are concerned primarily with lowering taxes, and these groups exert pressure to keep down appropriations. And it is here that the efforts of most of worthy causes too often fail to the organizations dedicated to carry out their full responsibilities. Organizations dedicated to securing better mental health programs, better education, greater efforts for the handicapped, and many others, could achieve their goals more successfully if they would also give attention and support to a revenue program adequate to meet the total needs of the state.

Government Responsibility

The Legislative and Executive branches of government must consider both sides of the budget. If the lobbying and pressure groups would also consider both sides, progress would be greatly facilitated, and understanding of government problems greatly increased. We need more, not less, public interest in these government problems. We need pressure groups dedicated to measures in the public interest. We need more consideration of taxes in the light of human needs; we need more consideration of programs to meet human needs in the light of measures needed to pay for such programs.

Our LAND

Appearing in newspapers of the Minnesota Editorial Association through the cooperation of the U. S. Soil Conservation Service and the University of Minnesota Institute of Agriculture.

First-Cutting Hay

The Rolling Brothers, out in the Rock County Soil Conservation District, have a unique way of harvesting their first hay-cutting. They windrow it with a grain windrower which cuts it about two inches above the ground. The hay bales very nicely and in wet weather the stubble that's left holds the hay off the ground, enabling it to dry twice as fast. Also, corn stalks and stubble don't get into the hay. The Rollings often plow down much of their second crop of hay.

Reduce Corn Moisture

A Waverly, Minnesota farmer, in the Wright County Soil Conservation District, chalked up some unexpected benefits by contour strip cropping his corn last year. In addition to a big reduction in soil losses, his contour strips reduced the amount of moisture in the corn. At harvest, a soil moisture test showed the contoured corn had 17 per cent moisture. In the larger, usual-shaped fields on similar soil corn moisture was 26. Planting dates and fertilizing were the same on both the contoured corn land and the regular.

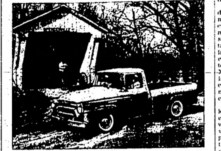
Planting Tips

If your plowing was delayed until spring, be certain the seedbed is well firmed. That's the suggestion of a University of Minnesota Extension Soils Specialist, Harold E. Jones. He explains that good seedbed firming will prevent land drying out from late summer winds. He says the best way is to shallow-plow heavy soils in the spring, then disk with the disk set straight cut down and pack as deep as you plow. This is one way to set the stage for good germination and healthy crop growth, says Jones.

How To Use Diverted Acres

Still uncertain about how to make best use of land you've diverted from acreage allotment crops? This land offers a chance to put on some badly-needed conservation measures and develop high quality pasture. The 1955 ACP program was set up to give strong help in improving conservation problems on land taken out of crop production. ACP cost-sharing help is offered for many things—filling gullies, buying high quality grass and legume seeds, preparing seedbeds, liming and fertilizing. ACP will provide about half their cost. County agents and ASC offices have complete information on these benefits.

International Hits 50th Year



Fifty years of progress in International motor truck engineering and production are represented by the original 1907 "IHC Auto Wagon" and the new "Golden Jubilee" light-duty pickup, one of the new International A-line of light, medium and heavy-duty motor trucks being introduced to the Thief River Falls area by C. Gustafson and Son. The high-wheeled Auto Wagon's 20-horsepower, two-cylinder air-cooled engine compares with five gasoline and four LPG six-cylinder truck engines available for the new International models.

Heavy Tax Burden Re-emphasized at Income Tax Time

Citizens Object to Big State Spending Program, Says Taxpayers Group

Over the past weekend a million Minnesotans, battling with their state income tax forms, realized that high state expenditures automatically result in high state taxes. This is why the taxpayers are taking a jaundiced look at the record state budget now under consideration by the legislature, according to Norman A. Borgen, executive secretary of Minnesota Taxpayers Association.

Borgen called attention to the fact that Minnesota income taxes are substantially higher than the average for the nation. "Figures from the Internal Revenue Service offer a chance for Minnesota taxpayers to compare the size of their taxes with the amounts taken by other states," Mr. Borgen said. "For example, the average amount claimed for federal tax deductions in the $5,000 to $10,000 bracket was $282. In Minnesota the average income tax alone for a person with a gross income of $9,000 to $10,000 is $214.69. If you add to this figure real and personal property taxes on his home, automobile license fees, gasoline taxes and other deductible tax items, it would place the Minnesota taxpayer substantially higher than the average."

Borgen pointed out that a study of these average tax payment tables furnishes additional evidence that the average Minnesota taxpayer is paying substantially higher state income taxes than the average taxpayer in the United States. If our federal deductible taxes are added to the income taxes paid in Minnesota the state tax burden is far out of line with the average reported throughout the nation by persons paying federal income taxes.

"These facts are generally known by Minnesota taxpayers," Mr. Borgen said, "but they were doubly conscious of them within the past week when they paid their income taxes, when they got their property tax statements, and when they read in the daily and weekly press that they may be called upon during the next biennium to pay almost three years state income taxes in two years, and face a possible continuation of a state income tax rate at this higher rate."

Mr. Borgen urged members of the legislature to keep these facts in mind as they pass appropriation bills for the next biennium and figure the bills that it will be necessary for Minnesota Taxpayers to

CUTTING EXPENSES

On January 2, 1860, Alexander Ramsey was sworn in as the second governor of the state of Minnesota, twelve years after he had become its first territorial governor. In his inaugural message to the legislature, Ramsey urged that the expenses of the state government be cut.

The legislature took him at his word, slashing his salary from twenty-five hundred to fifteen hundred dollars a year. The salaries of other state officials were also trimmed.

In addition, the legislature reduced its own size, cutting the number of senators from thirty-seven to twenty-one and representatives from eighty to forty-two. By these and similar measures, Minnesota's second state legislature accomplished the astate's expenses about thirty-six per cent below those of the previous year.

THE DOG BITE WAR

Minnesota's first major Indian massacre is reputed to have been started by a dog bite. Although it is usually known as the Spirit Lake Massacre of 1857 it is sometimes referred to as the "Dog Bite War."

The tragedy began in the late winter of 1857 when a famine-ridden band of ten or fifteen Sioux Indians led by Chief Inkpaduta were hunting on the Rock river in northwestern Iowa. One of them, while begging at a settler's cabin was bitten by the owner's dog. The Indian killed the dog and the enraged settler beat the Indian severely.

Early in March, armed and seeking vengeance, Inkpaduta's men descended upon the settlers around Lake Okoboji in Iowa and killed about thirty persons. After a few days of feasting, they headed north into Minnesota. A passing white man saw the burned cabins and the Indians' tracks. He guessed that they were going to the settlement of Springfield, Minnesota, now called Jackson in Scott county. He succeeded in getting to Springfield in time to warn the people of Inkpaduta's approach.

The Wood brothers, who were traders at Springfield, had had dealings with the Indians, and they could not believe that Inkpaduta would harm them. In any case, it was impossible to get help in time, for the nearest white men were sixty miles away.

The Indians struck on March 26., and had it not been for the warning, the whole settlement would probably have been wiped out. At is was, seven people were killed and three women were taken into capitvity, two of whom were killed later.

Eventually, Inkpaduta's band was driven from Minnesota and joined the western Sioux. Inkpaduta appears again in history twenty years later, as an old man who was nearly blind, camped with Sitting Bull on the Little Big Horn.

ROAD COSTS IN 1852

How much did it cost to survey a road through the Minnesota wilderness? In 1852 the Minnesota territorial legislature authorized the laying out of a road between the Mississippi and Minnesota rivers in the region purchased from the Indians the year before by the treaty of Traverse de Sioux. In the summer of 1852 a road was accordingly surveyed from Read's Landing on the Mississippi to a point on the Minnesota near the present town of Mankoto.

Warrants preserved in the Minnesota state achives reveal exactly how much money was spent to equip this surveying party and what supplies it took along. Some of the items were: two barrels of flour at $4.50 a barrel, one bushel of beans at $2.50, one barrel of pork at $23.00, one keg of gun powder at $2.75, one bag of shot at $2.25.

The party also had tin cups, a large coffee boiler, a tin lantern, candles, rope a shovel, oats for the horses and other supplies. In all, it cost Minnesota Territory only $100.43 to equip the surveying party.

FIGHTING FREEDOM

Before the days of municipal fire departments, private fire-fighting companies or clubs were equipped by private funds and manned by volunteers. More or less friendly rivalries sprang up between such fire companies, and each tried to outdo the other in getting to a fire first.

In 1860 there were two fire companies, each with one wagon, in St. Paul. They were the Hope Engine Company No. 1 and the Minnehaha Engine Campany No. 2. In October 25 of that year the two staged a contest to see which could reach a fire first, be the first to pump water, and which could shoot water, and highest and farthest. Partsan feeling ran high among the fans of each company, but when the pumping and water shooting were over, the judges decared that the Hope company had won.

Immediately, cries of foul play rang out among the Minnehaha men. On October 30, a letter from one William Colter, "a citizen and also a member of Minne-ha-ha Engine Company No. 2," appeared in the "St. Paul Pioneer and Democrat." Cloter protested that the decision of the judges "was unfair." Not only had they made an obviously prejudiced choice, he said, but they had made no attempt to hide the fact that they had bet on the outcome of the contest.

This controversy moved the newspaper's editor to write a soothing editorial in which he allowed that "mistakes" may have been made on both sides, but that the "controversy being waged between the respective friends of the Companies" was "productive of no good." The companies had been allowed to choose the judges, they should be willing to abide by the decision. "We regret," he remarked with surprising moderation, "that all betting was not left to outside parties."

Remodeling Job

The basement quarters of the Evangelical Free church is being completely remodeled with knotty pine panel on the walls, tin flooring and folding doors for the Sunday school rooms. The men folk of the church along with the pastor are donating their time and labor to the job.

A Tour With The Knutson's

From Pine to Palm, from the snow covered prairies of Minnesota to the white sand beaches of sunny Florida, from the smallest unit of government our township to our largest the Federal in Washington, D.C., these are the experiences of Alice, Buddy and Mervin Knutson on their recent trip to the east and south this past month.

There first place of interest was at Springfield, Illinois, which was once the home of Abraham Lincoln. They visited the home where he lived when elected President of U.S.

Other stops in their tour included Kentucky with their blooming daffodils, Tennessee, Mississippi, Alabama, on to sunny Florida, with its white beaches, garden resorts, Brahama cattle, alligators, and snakes and last but not least all it's beautiful flowers waving in the hot breezes. Leaving Florida the Knutsons came into Georgia, a typical southern state with evidence of its plantation homes. Farms are small and worked with mule power. On they traveled into Columbia, S. C. then into North Carolina which was a very scenic state. The Knutsons spent a day in the Blue Ridge Mountains, climbed to the top of Grandfather Mountain, one of the highest points in the east. From here the Knutsons traveled on into Falls Church, Virginia, suburb of Washington, D. C. where they visited with their brother and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Holmaas who live there. We will learn more of their trip next week.

83 Years Young

Mr. Andrew Hanson was honored on his 83 birthday at a party Sunday, April 7, 1957 at the home of his daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Folden.

Those present for the birthday party included, Mrs. Andrew Hanson, Mr. and Mrs. Marlin Sallors and family of Cavalier, No. Dak., Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hanson and family, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Folden, Mr. and Mrs. Clareng Lund, and John, Ingward, and Otelia Lockstad.

Andrew Hanson and his wife are long time residents of the Newfolden community and are highly respected by all of us.

The process of growing older has been no barrier to the vim and vigor which so possess Mr. Hanson at 83. He is as chipper and robust as he ever was with no sign of giving up.

His outdoor interests include the cutting and sawing by hand of his yearly supply of stove wood, raising several acres of garden; and keeping his spacious lawn neat and trim. Reading is a favorite passtime and to be sure he knows what is going on in this world.

The secret of Andrew's age may be habitual healthy living habits and last but not least, his beloved wife. A great inspiration to him are his three granddaughters and two grandsons. Many Happy Returns Mr. Hanson!

Dishwashing Made Easy

Dishwashing need not be drudgery if it is well organized.

Making dishwashing as easy and pleasant as possible is one of the things 4-H'ers learn in the homemaking assistance project.

Since dishwashing is such a frequent task, any short cuts will save much valuable time — time that could be used for hobbies or other interesting pastimes.

The work can be divided into three parts—getting ready, doing the job, and cleaning up.

Getting ready—If there's time during preparation of the meal, the mixing bowls, pans and other utensils could be washed before the meal is served. If not, they should be soaking while the meal is eaten. As you clear the table after the meal, put leftovers in small dishes in the refrigerator and scrape the dishes. Stack items in the order in which they are washed. Clear the area around the sink, range and work area. Arrange dish pans and drainers so that you can work from right to left if you are right handed.

Washing the dishes. Use hot, hot water and a clean, soft dish cloth or sponge. Wash glassware and silver first. These items may be dried with a clean towel or allowed to drain dry. Wash the china next. It is more sanitary to let the dishes drain dry after they have been dipped in hot rinse water. Finish with casseroles and pots and pans. These may be left to drain to save time. If necessary change rinse and dish water or add hot water.

Cleaning up. Wipe the cupboard tops, range and refrigerator. Empty the rinse and dish water, and clean the sink. Wipe pans and dish drainer and put them away. Rinse dish cloth and rubber pad in soapy water and then clean water. Hang cloth and towels to dry.

Plan for College Now, War Orphans Urged

This spring is the best time for young men and women to start taking action, if they intend to enroll in school or college in the fall under the War Orphans Education program, Mr. Carroll, manager of the Veterans Administration Center, Fargo, North Dakota, suggested today.

The program is for the sons and daughters of war veterans who died of injuries or diseases resulting from their military service in World War I, World War II or the Korean conflict. Generally, War Orphan students must be between 18 and 23 years of age.

First, students will have plenty of time to arrange for admittance this fall to the college of their choice. Many colleges, particularly larger ones, are crowded. A delay to the last minute can result in the disappointment of learning that there's no more room.

And second, prompt action these spring months can result in speedier service by the VA, with all the preliminaries out of the way before the rush at enrollment time begins.

It normally takes at least a month from the date an application is filed to the date VA gives its final approval for schooling. VA must check its records to determine whether the young person meets basic eligibility requirements. And then it schedules a session of vocational counseling, where expert guidance is given to assist the young person's living parent or guardian in mapping out an objective and a program of study. Final approval can come only after counseling has been completed.

By waiting until later, VA said, prospective students run into the yearly peak load of veterans applying to VA for schooling under the Korean GI Bill. And it's possible that the time between application and approval could then run into longer than one month, because of VA's extra workload, the agency added.

War Orphan students may receive up to 36 months of schooling, generally in institutions of higher learning. The Government pays them up to $110 a month for each month in school.

OH WELL, IT'S BOUND TO HAPPEN

Mr. Hintz of Mound met Mr. Hintz of Le Sueur on highway 15 near Winthrop; more or less head on, the meeting was; in the exchange of formalities it further developed that the cars of Robert L. Hintz and Frederick J. Hintz were insured in the same company. . . Billed as Sandra Guse, a Sleepy Eye entrant won second place in a New Ulm spelling bee; she confided to a newspaper reporter that she's kind o' like to have her name spelled right in the story of the outcome: Sandra GUZA. . . State Highway signs indicated that while it was only 6 miles on highway 152 from Rogers in Hennepin county to Albertville in Wright county, it was 8 miles from Albertville back to Rogers; when the Department put up a revised sign at Albertville it showed the distance to be only 6 miles, same as from the other end, but an extra letter in the name made it Rodgers. . .

Minimum Tillage for Corn Advised

Disking May Soon Be Obsolete, Says Co. Agent

Disking fields for corn may some day be obsolete in many areas of Minnesota, says county agent Paul Stalmaschuk. There's a trend toward less cultivating, too.

"Minimum tillage" and tractor-track planting are the key words in a time-saving corn planting system that's gaining popularity in the Gopher state. Minimum tillage means working the soil less or not at all before planting and cultivating only when necessary to control weeds later on. Tractor-track planting means planting corn directly on undisked ground, in the tractor's wheel tracks.

These combined systems can save up to an hour or more of man and machine time for every acre of corn, says George Blake and Charles Simkins, soils scientis and extension soils specialist respectively at the University of Minnesota.

But minimum tillage and tractor-track planting have more advantages. By staying off the field in early spring, you don't pack the soil as much. Less-tillage leaves looser soil and better soil structure. Loose soil has better aeration and absorbs more rain.

Less tillage means less erosion on sloping land. It also helps control weeds, because the seeds can't germinate in loose soil.

The old idea that a thorough disking makes a better seedbed isn't always true. Sometimes there's a tendancy to overwork the soil, which can result in soil compaction. Crops need a firm soil, but not one that's packed hard. To prevent this compaction, it's necessary to avoid too much tillage so as to maintain a "crumb" soil structure.

Twenty-one eastern Minnesota farmers compared minimum tillage and tractor-track planting with conventional seedbed preparation last summer. County agents kept their yield records. Average yields for all trials were 89.9 bushels per acre for minimum tillage and 85.1 bushels for conventional seedbed preparation.

Three farmers tried minimum tillage on fall-plowed land. One made higher yield with minimum tillage, one had higher yields with conventional tillage and one had no difference.

Co-op Elevator at St. Hilaire to Build $35,000 Addition

Plan to Start Soon on Construction of 50,000 Bushel Annex to Plant

The board of directors of St. Hilaire Cooperative Elevator Friday evening, April 12 voted to proceed at an early date with a $35,000 building construction program, Henry Thorson, manager, announced.

Plans call for the erection of a 50,000 bushel cribbed annex with leg and cross-spouting to be built on the north side of the present structure. Contractor for the addition is the firm of Dakota Builders, of Marmarth, N. D.

The present elevator located along the Great Northern railway tracks in St. Hilaire was moved to that location in February 1947 from Hazel. It was previously owned by the Barzen Co.

Officers and members of the board include Robert Swanson, president; Paul Anderson, secretary; Glen Haugen, William Palmquist and Ray Maxson.

Board of Home for the Aged Confers with Architect

Call Attention to Need of Larger Site for the Proposed New Building

The board of directors of The Valley Christian Home met with their architect, Myron Denbrook, at the Rex Cafe in Thief River Falls last Saturday. Sketches and plans of various types of buildings suitable for the proposed new Home for the Aged were considered.

Because the type of structure generally agreed upon will require approximately one-half of a city block as a building site, the board is now faced with the problem of securing a suitable building site, said the Rev. Joseph Swan, secretary. The present location is not suitable for the type of building envisioned, he added. Housing authorities on the state level have been conferred with, and it is their opinion that homes for the aged should be built as near the center of activities in the cities in which they are located, as is possible.

The present location of the home at Fourth st. and Horace av. in Thief River Falls is ideal in this respect, but a larger building site is required for the contemplated new structure.

The board of directors is composed of representatives from Warren, Red Lake Falls, Fosston and Kennedy as well as Thief River Falls, so the entire Red River Valley is being considered in the plans for a new building and site.

Lincoln Athletes Honored April 24

Lettermen's Banquet to Be Held at Trinity Church

The annual Lincoln high school Prowler lettermen's banquet will be held next Wednesday evening, April 24, at 6:30 in the Trinity church dining hall, under the sponsorship of the Chamber of Commerce, Jaycee chapter and Rotary and Lions clubs.

Toastmaster at the dinner will be Douglas Tegtmeier, sports announcer for Radio Station KTRF, and he will introduce the guest speaker, Jim Adelson, sports announcer for KXJB-TV, Valley City, N. D. Also appearing on the program will be a group of Lincoln high school musicians. Lettermen among the school athletes will be introduced by the coaches of the various teams.

Robert Netteland, competing Friday in the discussion division of the state declamatory contest at Hamline University, St. Paul, was given a rating of Excellent. First place in the tourney was won by Morris high school, with second honors going to Winona. Netteland, Lincoln high school senior, was accompanied to St. Paul by his instructor, Norman Arveson.

Plans Advance for 8th Annual N.W. Dairy Day

Directors Arrange Details of Event in TRF Tuesday, June 11

Plans for the eighth annual Northwest Dairy Day to be held in Thief River Falls Tuesday, June 11, were further developed at a meeting of the board of directors of the Northwest Dairy Improvement association, sponsoring organization, in Thief River Falls April 11. Stuart McLeod, president, conducted the meeting.

Reports by board members from the various communities revealed that the number of entries in the calf show is expected to be fully equal to that of previous years. As a new feature this year, it was voted to invite all winners of purebred calves at former Dairy Day events to enter their animals in a special display at the show June 11.

McLeod announced the reappointment of Don L. Olson, manager of Radio Station KTRF, to serve again this year as chairman of the central committee in charge of the dairy princess contest, the winner of which will compete at the 1957 state fair for the title of Princess Kay of the Milky Way.

The board approved the payment of a $10 prize to the 4-H clubs whose members are chosen either as regional dairy princess or one of her attendants. At its annual meeting in January, the board had set up a $300 fund to be used for training the girl who wins the title of Northwest Dairy Princess before she enters in competition for the state title in August.

It was voted that the money will be spent under the direction of a board member and a representative of the agricultural extension office in each of the 11 participating counties.

The rules for the Princess Kay contest will apply to the Northwest, Dairy Princess contest, and they provide this year that all candidates' families must reside on a farm and be active dairy producers at the present time. Former regional winners will not be eligible to compete this year. Speaking ability, quality of voice and personality will be among the principal factors used in judging the candidates.

$590 Collected Here to Apr. 10 in Easter Seal Sale

With a large portion of returns still to be received, a total of $590.25 had been collected thru April 10 in Pennington county in the annual mail sale of Easter seals to finance the activities of the Minnesota Society for Crippled Children and Adults, Mrs. H. G. Halverson, county chairman of the campaign, stated that total collections in 1956 were $836. She added that the sale of paper Easter lilies conducted last week-end by Job's Daughters brought in $30.02.

Omaha Firm Seeks to Serve This City with Natural Gas

Northern Natural Gas Co. Asks U. S. Permission to Serve 48 Cities in State

Northern Natural Gas Company, Omaha, Nebraska, today announced its plans to file an application with the Federal Power Commission to provide service to 48 more communities in Minnesota in 1958, including Thief River Falls and Red Lake Falls, and extend its system into North Dakota to serve four communities.

W. L. Shomaker, vice president, said that the proposal follows on the heels of a filing recently made to serve 213 more new communities in Minnesota, Iowa, Nebraska, South Dakota, and Wisconsin. The two proposals include service to 145 communities in Minnesota.

When these communities are all added it will bring the total attached to the system since 1953 to 365 and boost total communities served to 649. Northern's plans for 1958 were revealed in a supplemental filing to its application to the Federal Power Commission for its 1957 construction program.

The filing to serve the 52 communities will be made in sufficient time to furnish service by the fall of 1958, the company stated in the supplement to its applications.

Mr. Terry, representative of R. L. Polk Co., Minneapolis directory publishers, is in the city this week making preliminary arrangements for the production of a new Thief River Falls city directory. The Polk company published the last directory here, which appeared ten years or more ago.

Many Items of City Business Before Council

Summer Recreation Budget Approved Wednesday Night

A wide variety of matters occupied the attention of the city council at its postponed regular April meeting Wednesday evening.

The group approved a $2,400 budget submitted by the recreation board to cover the salaries of school men who will direct the summer recreation program for local children, and also for the services of J. C. Plymire, who again will supervise the Tindolph park bath house.

G. A. Frahm, chairman of the airport commission, at the request of Commr. Solberg of the state department of aeronautics, submitted an outline of work at the airport that would be desirable during the coming six-year period. Principal suggestions were better mechanical facilities and the blacktopping and lighting of the second runway. The council approved the outline.

Albert Koop, James Parkins and Elmer Bratsch, appearing for the county fair board, asked a city appropriation of $1,500 to the 1957 fair. City Attorney Robert Wurst cited a state law which limits to not over $1,000 the amount that may be donated. The council voted to table the matter for the time being.

Mayor O. D. Beich stated that the local Eagles aerie had offered to give the city a granite slab 51 inches tall bearing a reproduction of the Ten Commandments, as part of a nation-wide project of the Eagles order. The mayor stated that he and the park board recommended that the slab be set up on the lawn south of the Auditorium, and the council concurred in the suggestion.

President Roy Barzen of the park board was authorized to buy $200 worth of trees and shrubs to be set out between the Auditorium and court house, and at the site of the Soo Line locomotive west of the depot, as well as various other places in the city.

Barzen again mentioned the long-pending project calling for the installation of modern toilet facilities in Riverside park. No action was taken.

In response to a resolution submitted by the Pennington county safety council, pointing

Rev. Gilbert Bretheim, Tenor

Prof. J. T. Fudge, Baritone

A 100-voice community chorus, made up of singers from Thief River Falls and surrounding communities, will present the Easter cantata, "The Seven Last Words of Christ", by Th. Dubois, in the Lincoln high school auditorium Good Friday evening, April 19, starting at 9 o'clock.

Director of the chorus is Bryant Ulseth of the Lincoln high school faculty, with Mrs. A. C. Purdy as accompanist. Soloists will include Mrs. T. H. Megorden of Grafton, N. D., soprano; the Rev. Gilbert Bretheim of Pembina, N. D., tenor; and Professor James T. Fudge of the University of North Dakota, baritone.

Mrs. Megorden is a graduate of Concordia college, Moorhead, with a degree in public school music, and was soloist with the Concordia concert choir.

Mr. Bretheim served as soloist with the Augsburg college choir, and as minister of music at Trinity Lutheran church, Minnehaha Falls, Minneapolis.

Mr. Fudge teaches voice at the U. of N. D., and was a soloist with the famed Robert Shaw Chorale. He is now serving as director of the Federated church choir at Grand Forks.

The cantata delivers the Easter message of Christ's suffering and death on the cross. Each of the seven last words are presented by the soloists. The chorus serves as background for the solos and at times takes the part of the crowd which screamed for Christ's crucifixion.

The chorus will be attired in choir gowns furnished by the local churches. Sopranos will be in blue, altos in maroon and the basses and tenors in black gowns. Mrs. Melville Simon is in charge of the arrangements for the robes.

A white cross, constructed by George Montue, will be the background for the chorus. Darrlan Green, a junior at Lincoln high school, will handle the lighting effects during the presentation.

The chorus will be seated on risers especially set up for the cantata. George Erickson and Howard Hoel have made the arrangements for these stands.

Twelve Lincoln high school girls will serve as usherettes for the program. Miss Julie Ose, president of the Lincoln high school concert choir, is in charge of this group.

Co. Board to Hold School District Hearing Monday

Two Districts in Mavie Area Have Petitioned to Be Added to TRF District

A special meeting of the Pennington county board will be held Monday afternoon, April 22, at 3:30 o'clock to hear arguments on a petition for dissolution of school districts 15 and 46 in the Mavie community.

Residents of these districts and of district No. 70 of Marshall county, have sought to become a part of the Thief River Falls district. They are in the Goodridge district high school area, however, and action on their previous petitions have been postponed.

By a dissolution action they hope their purpose can be accomplished through the county board. They have also filed a petition with the state department of education to be joined to the Thief River Falls district by consolidation. Residents of these districts have voted almost unanimously in favor of becoming a part of the Thief River Falls district.

Goodridge school officials are opposing the proposal, arguing that the inclusion of this area with their district is the proper solution because of the distance factor and is essential to the development of adequate high school facilities within their district.

State Bankers Plan Tree Planting Event

Milt Dwyer, Elk River, chairman of the Minnesota Bankers association forestry committee, states that 'Operation Pine Tree', the 1957 version of the Minnesota Bankers association Treeville will take place on Sunday, May 5, in the Sand Dunes state forest at Orrock located northwest of Elk River, which can be reached by driving to Big Lake on Highway 10 and going north 9 miles on Eagle Lake Road or by traveling Highway 169 to Zimmerman and going 8 miles west.

The comprehensive program will include demonstrations of hand and machine planting of seedlings, pruning, tree care, and the uses of pine trees and their products.

The activities begin at 10:30 a.m. with the various demonstrations. Early in the afternoon, Maynard Speece, WCCO Radio, will be master of ceremonies for a program of speakers. The main speaker will be Governor Orville Freeman who will attend the event with his family. Also on the program will be A. G. Sirek, New Prague, president of the Minnesota Bankers association, whose hobby has been tree planting for many years. In fact, Sirek was chairman of the first statewide MBA Treeville in 1953.

Other speakers will be: James Clark, director, Minnesota development; Clarence Prout, assistant director, Minnesota conservation department; Ray Clement, state forester; Parker Anderson, extension forester; Enoch Bjuge, Sherburne county extension agent; and Milt Dwyer, chairman of "Operation Pine Tree."

For many years the Minnesota Bankers association has carried on an extensive program of soil conservation and tree planting. As a result of the purchase of 55 tree planting machines by various banking groups in the state, millions of trees have been planted on farms. Like "Operation Pine Tree," local and regional Treevilles have also helped to develop a greater love and appreciation of trees, a stronger general interest in reforestration and a broader understanding of the overall conservation problem.

Air Force Reserve to Stage Member Drive

Air Force veterans from World War II to the present time are eligible to join the Air Force Reserve and serve with pay under a new recruiting drive to be staged by Thief River Falls' Flight E, 9749th Air Reserve Squadron this spring, according to 1st. Lt. V. M. Draper, Flight E commander.

The only requirements are that the former airmen should have held rank equivalent to Airman 1/class or better, be in good health and be able to serve without family hardship, Draper said.

The applicants for Air Reserve service would be enrolled in a specialized training course in Thief River Falls and draw one day's pay for each 2-hour training session, 36 of which would be scheduled annually. Uniforms would be required, which would be issued by the Air Force, Draper emphasized. After Sept. 1, 1957 all reservists, regardless of training category will be required to attend meetings in uniform.

Flight E will stage the recruiting drive this spring so that the specialized training course can be gotten under way promptly when reserve training sessions are resumed at the beginning of the new semester in September. All interested Air Force veterans are urged to inquire at meetings held here every Monday evening except April 29 in the downstairs meeting room of the city auditorium.

Present strength of Flight E is 15 officers and airmen, which makes the required minimum attendance difficult to maintain at some meetings, Draper pointed out that once a reservist joins a unit he definitely is obligated to attend and owes his fellow reservists the courtesy of being present meeting nights. Excuses will be accepted in some instances, he said.

In the future a cash attendance prize will be awarded to the member of Flight E who maintains the best monthly attendance record. Members of the flight contribute toward the fund, part of which goes to a permanent flight fund.

Any Air Force veteran from World War II to the present who is interested in earning the equivalent of a month's salary, in some cases, by joining the Air Reserve may do so merely by becoming a member of Flight E provided he possesses the necessary qualifications.

Such veterans should inquire within the next month if possible, Draper said, in order for the local unit to set up a training course for next fall before meetings are discontinued for the summer.

T. Hagen, Hospital Head in Crookston Speaks to Rotary

Thomas Hagen, administrator of Bethesda Hospital at Crookston, was the guest speaker at the Rotary club luncheon Monday in the Elks club rooms, giving an informative discussion of the important part a hospital plays in the economic life of a community.

Hagen also disputed the contention that costs of hospital services have increased greatly, pointing out the effects of inflation and stating that the length of the average person's stay in the hospital has been so reduced in recent years as to offset the higher cost per day.

Hagen was introduced by Harold W. Peterson, administrator of Northwestern Hospital.

Evert Corbet, Ex-4H'r Does Well with Pigs

Proof that having a 4-H farm project can lead to a profitable farm occupation and be lots of fun at the same time is furnished by Evert Corbet, a former member of the St. Hilaire 4-H club.

Evert, 21 now and too old to be a 4-H'er, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Corbet who have a small farm just west of St. Hilaire. Evert bought a registered Duroc brood sow at the 1952 Crookston Winter Show when he was 16 and now, five years later, that one hog has been multiplied 93 times not including his present brood stock.

Evert and another Pennington county Duroc breeder, Harry Loggans, cooperate in their activities and several of Evert's spring litters are the offspring of young Loggans' outstanding registered Duroc sire which he purchased last year.

Evert's present brood stock consists of 14 registered sows and a registered sire. All 14 sows produced excellent litters this spring. They started farrowing in February and the last litter of five was born last Friday. At present he has 93 pigs ranging from 7 days to 8 weeks old.

His chief claim to fame among county hog raisers is his pioneering in use of farrowing pens. A very few hog raisers in the county may have used farrowing pens before Evert; however all but two of his litters were born in them this year and he is one of the few in the county who uses the pens almost exclusively.

Among the advantages of farrowing pens, he says, is the increased number of hogs that can be kept in a given amount of space, less loss due to mashing of pigs, greater cleanliness and other considerations.

The pens themselves are easily demountable according to space requirements after the litters put on size and weight.

Each pen is 4 ft. wide, Evert said, which gives the small pigs ampel room to move about. The sow is confined to a smaller partitioning of the pen which restricts her movements. The fact she cannot move about to any greater extent makes it possible for her litter to feed more often, thus adding growth faster than litters not penned.

Evert is pleased with the success of his pork raising program and said he has done very well in spite of low hog prices the past year or two. He attributes much of his success to having a good meat-type hog at the right weight and delivered to the market at the right time.

He plans to have some of his stock farrow next fall so he can have marketable stock for the spring market in 1956, thus taking advantage of better hog prices which usually prevail in the spring.

Evert won trips to the St. Paul Market Barrow Show the past two years in succession in county 4-H competition. At present he is also raising a herd of Guernsey dairy cattle in partnership with his grandfather, H. R. Allen. In addition to his parents' 44 acres he has 80 acres of his own west of the home farm.

Youthful County Duroc Breeder

Everet Corbet, young St. Hilaire Duroc hog breeder, shows off a pair of his 93 spring pigs in this photo, taken on his farm. The brod sow is in an enclosure called a farrowing pen, which young Corbet says is the best arrangement he knows of for farrowing pigs. The pen measures 4 feet wide and about 6 feet long, leaving ample room for the litters to move around in but preventing the sow from roaming or crushing her offspring.

Rev. Zellekens, 57, Dies in Germany

Tabor Priest Once Served in This City and Plummer

The Rev. August Zellekens, 57, pastor of the Holy Trinity Catholic church in Tabor, died Tuesday in Frankfort, Germany, where he had been visiting relatives since early this spring. He had been confined to hospital there for the past two weeks.

He was born Dec. 31, 1899, in Frankfurt and made his high school and college studies in Italy and Germany. He served in the German army from 1916 until 1919. He finished his theological studies in St. John's Seminary of St. Cloud and was ordained in St. John's Abbey June 11, 1927, by Bishop Joseph Busch.

After being assistant at Thief River Falls for a few months, he was assigned to St. Vincent's Catholic parish at Plummer, which he served until Feb. 5, 1940. He was then transferred to the Holy Trinity parish at Tabor, where he built the rectory in 1940 and the new brick church in modern modified Gothic design in the years 1953 and 1954.

Fr. Zellekens was chairman of the Diocesan Music Committee from 1930 until his death and was examiner of the Junior Clergy from 1951 until 1955.

He is survived by two brothers and one sister, all living in Frankfurt, where the burial will take place April 23.

Cancer Drive Set Thursday, May 9

Women Plan to Finish Canvass in One Evening

A "Fight Cancer" solicitation will be made in Thief River Falls on a house-to-house basis Thursday evening, May 9, it was announced today by Mrs. Agnes Israelson, chairman of the Pennington county chapter of the American Cancer Society.

Plans for the canvass were made Monday evening at a conference with team captains at the Eagles hall. Mrs. Israelson asked each captain to arrange for ten solicitors, and she also appealed to other local women to assist in the drive, pointing out that 200 workers would be needed to cover the city in one night.

The women will meet in the basement of the Auditorium May 9 at 6:30, and after making their rounds will return there for lunch to be provided by the Chamber of Commerce.

Council Acts on Varied Items of City Business

out the danger to children fishing or loitering on the banks of the swift-flowing river below the dam during the spring months, the council voted to post an area extending about 50 feet below the dam. The safety council also called attention to the hazard created by motor-boats on the river in the vicinity of the swimming pool.

The Chamber of Commerce was granted the use of the arena for the trade show April 26 and 27, and of the Auditorium for the magician show April 27. The use of both buildings also was granted for Northwest Dairy Day June 11.

The Falls Squares, local dancing club, asked for the use of the Auditorium for dances two Saturday nights a month during the summer months. The council set a fee of $15 per night, subject to the room being available.

Six building permits, calling for home remodeling and additions, were approved in the aggregate amount of more than $12,000.

Following a survey of the parking situation on Fourth st., Police Chief Elton Cummings recommended that the street be improved and that parallel parking be set up on Fourth st. from Main av. to Atlantic, with two-hour parking from Main av. to Horace av. No immediate action was taken.

Shootin' the Breeze

BY Mack Draper

"The best laid plans of mice and men
Gang aft a-gley," etc., etc., etc.

One bit of news we'd eagerly looked forward to reporting this spring was the breakup of the ice in the river pool here. Well—today we can say most of it is out and water, not ice, is flowing under the several bridges by the city.

But the joy was taken out of reporting this news. Spring dragged her feet and the ice sheet went out up and down the river weeks before so that reporting the breakup of the ice behind the dam is anti-climactic.

We wonder how the crapple fishing will be in the river this year. Here's hoping those planted in the river take hold and multiply. Of course we do most of our crappie fishing at Union Lake where they grow nice and fat — none of those scrawny, stunted Lake Sarah specimens for us!

All kidding aside, catching those Union Lake crappies on spinning tackle is good sport. We snagged several last summer that fought and broke water like the best largemouth bass. A nice fat crappie makes pretty fair eating, too!

If this weather doesn't warm up pretty soon we know of a certain fella here in town who may have to spend July 4 applying fiberglass covering to his boat. Namely, us.

Here's hoping we have a couple of warm Saturdays before May 18!

Regardless of the weather a lot of spring activities will be taking place in the near future. The first event we can think of is the annual quarterback banquet at Trinity Lutheran Church April 24.

Comes May 11 the JayCees will hold their Teen-age Road-eo in the parking lot at the corner of LaBree and 1st av.

Next (that we know of) a committee will pick three Pennington county beauties in the Dairy Princess contest on Dairy Day June 11. Those plans are, as yet, indefinite. But, get those formals ready gals!

Even before that the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen and the 9th district Legionnaires hold their conventions here. All in all it looks like a busy time in the old town this spring!

Oh yes—we want a foto of the first boating enthusiast who braves chill winds and cold spray to get on the river this spring. If you're going out soon or know of someone who's going out give us a buzz. You couldn't find an easier way to get your picture in the paper!

We're betting there'll be a lot of strange faces in church Easter Sunday. These, of course, will belong to the people who don't want to establish a permanent residence in Heaven but feel duty-bound to spend an occasional week-end there. So long!

Easter Services Are Announced by Local Churches to share in the evening's meeting.

The Sunday School of the Assemblies of God Tabernacle will present its Easter program beginning at 9:45 Sunday morning. Following the program, the morning Easter message will be given by the pastor during the 11:00 o'clock worship hour. An evening Easter message will be given during the regular Sunday night service beginning at 7:45.

The Evangelical Free Church will hold services at 11 a. m., with special music by the choir and other vocalists. At 7:45 Sunday evening the choir will present a cantata under the direction of David Martin.

The Church of the Nazarene and the Christian Science church each will hold Easter services at 11 a. m., and Our Saviour's Lutheran church will conduct services at 9 a.m.

Korean Bonus Vote Is Due in Senate Today

Bill to Pay Bonus Already Has Been Passed by House

Supporters of the Korean bonus bill won assurance Tuesday that the measure will come to a vote in the Senate today. The Senate passed judicial redistricting and state employes pay bills, and the Senate tax committee approved an amended truck package.

By a vote of 47-21 the Senate agreed to make the Korean bonus bill, which already has passed the House, a special order of business for 10:30 a.m. Thursday. The motion needed two-thirds, or 45 votes, to pass.

Opponents of the measure, who said its 27 million dollar cost would complicate an already serious financial situation, had hoped to head off a vote on the bill at this session.

The truck package, as it passed the House and came to the Senate tax committee would increase the maximum legal length of trucks from 45 to 50 feet; legalize 32,000 pound axle weights and increase taxes on heavy trucks by about a million dollars a year.

The committee adopted an amendment by Sen. J. A. Johnson of Preston to increase the taxes by an additional $350,000.

It rejected three other amendments. One would have doubled the tax increase; another would have maintained the same license tax throughout the life of a truck without any allowance for depreciation; and a third would have given special consideration to transports used to haul new automobiles.

The judicial redistricting bill, made necessary by a constitutional amendment with a provision that every district have at least two judges, would cut the number of districts from 19 to 10 by combining existing districts. The bill maintains the total number of district judges at 57 and requires that the judges keep their present headquarters within the new districts. The bill now goes to the House.

The pay bill provides increases averaging about 10 per cent for the 13,200 state employes covered by civil service. Cost of the pay raise is estimated at about 9 million dollars a year.

Troop 57 Scouts Wash Cars to Raise Camp Fund

Troop 57 scouts from St. Bernard's church swarmed over cars brought in for wash jobs at Groslie's Pure Oil station Wednesday as the troop continued its extensive drive to raise funds to send Troop 57 scouts to the National Scout Jamboree at Valley Forge, Pa. in July. About 20 scouts participated in the car wash. This group of boys is the interior sweep-out and chamois detail which put the finishing touches to the cars after the large wash crew was through with them. City car owners took advantage of the scouts' low wash price and at one time during the day there wasn't room left on Groslie's lot to put additional cars. The boys were so busy they couldn't stand still long enough for the photographer to get identifications.

The pocket gopher runs backward as easily and rapidly as forward.

12 Cases Heard in Municipal Court

Motorists Brought In for Variety of Offenses

Twelve cases, incolving no less than seven varieties of traffic violations, were brought before Municipal Judge H. O. Chommie in the last two Monday court sessions by the highway patrol and city police, according to court records.

Of the 11 cases four are highway patrol cases from the court record of Monday, April 8 because they were unavailable for last Thursday's paper due to the illness of Mrs. Pat Thompson, court clerk. These were:

Gary H. Lien, city, speeding, was fined $12.50 and $4 costs after his guilty plea.

Gerhart M. Hanson, city, pleaded guilty to careless driving and drew a $25 fine plus $4 costs, with $10 suspended.

Last Monday's highway patrol cases involved Irvin E. Imler, Kansas City, Kans., driving over the legal axle weight. Imler pleaded guilty and was fined $10 and $4 costs.

Lloyd R. Ellingson, Grand Forks, N. D. was fined $10 and $4 costs after pleading guilty to driving at a speed not prudent under existing conditions leading to his being involved in an accident.

Willis E. Warring, city charged with failure to yield right of way, i. e. cutting in after passing, forcing the passed car into a ditch, pleaded guilty and was fined $10 plus $4 costs with the fine suspended.

Ernest Thune, city, charged with speeding, plea of guilty drew a fine $12.50 and $4 costs.

Joe G. Hollan, Rt. 1, city, pleaded guilty to driving with illegal brakes and was fined $5, suspended, and $4 costs, paid.

Sheriff Charles Richards' only case involved a 16-year-old charged with possession of liquor. After pleading guilty he was sentenced to 10 days in jail with sentence suspended under specified conditions of behavior.

Clifford J. Johnson, Goodridge, whose case was held over on his plea of not guilty and fined $15 plus $4 costs.

Melvin Joppru, rt. 1, city, was fined $100 plus $5 costs after his plea of guilty to driving under the influence.

Donald M. Jorde, rt. 2, city, pleaded guilty to running a red light and was fined $5 and $4 costs.

PUBLIC OPINION

Mill Valley, California

Editor the Times:

A great institution of democracy has lost a devoted teacher and friend in the retirement of Lyda Batten, after fifty-five years of human service. Her thousands of pupils down through the years will look on her as a teacher who believed in youth, their dreams, hopes and visions. Her confidence in youth's power to achieve greatness was undying.

Miss Batten's golden years of retirement will be enriched in her thoughts of those fifty-five years. It will be with great pride, when she remembers, to name a few: Lincoln Arnold, who is now in the Attorney General's office in Washington, D. C.; Emmett Shanahan, a Catholic priest, and Donald Waage with the United States Chamber of Commerce in Washington, D. C.

Miss Battens' guiding hand in their tender years has had a salutary effect on these and all of her other pupils.

As one of her former pupils, I would like to suggest we all send her a card and enclose a remembrance.

Heavy Flight of Mallards Came to Mud Lake Monday

Herb Dill, Manager, Says Influx Was Biggest in Recent Refuge History

Herb Dill, manager of the Mud Lake migratory waterfowl refuge, reported that a heavy flight of mallard ducks came into the refuge on Monday. There had been a sprinkling of mallards reported previously, but this was the heaviest concentration of mallards that the refuge personnel had observed.

A few blue-bills and divers have been noticed, too, but these ducks are usually a week or ten days later in arriving than the mallards.

Several pairs of Canada geese have been beginning "housekeeping" operations at the refuge. According to Dill these geese, about twelve pair, have begun establishing nests on what is termed the "Boy Scout Island" just east of the refuge headquarters building. It marks one of the earliest returns of the spring flight of geese in Mud Lake refuge records.

It is interesting to note that Dill is in a sense renewing acquaintances with these Canada geese. When the Canada goose breeding project was first inaugurated at the refuge, under Robley Hunt, the breed stock was secured from the Swan Lake refuge. And manager of the Swan Lake refuge at that time was Herb Dill.

4-H 'Share the Fun' Program Slated

Will Replace Former Search for Talent Event

A 4-H "Share the Fun" program for Pennington county club members and other 4-H'ers in the state has been announced by the State 4-H office, says County Agent Paul Stelmaschuk.

According to Leonard Harkness, state 4-H club leader at the University of Minnesota, the new program will be broader in scope than in the former 4-H Search of Talent contest. "The competitive aspects of the program will be de-emphasized and the educational features will be strengthened," Harkness said.

The University of Minnesota agricultural extension service and Cargill, Inc., will sponsor the program.

District and state 4-H "Share the Fun" festivals will be held, similar to the former 4-H "Search for Talent" contests. Acts may be one of four classes: musical, dramatic, folk and square dancing or novelty stunt or skit. No limitation has been set on the number of participants in any act. Time limit for each act is six minutes.

All county 4-H "Share the Fun" festivals or similar events must be held before May 25. Counties will be asked to suggest from one to three numbers for the district festivals, scheduled for late June or early July. A statewide festival is being planned in conjunction with the Minnesota State Fair.

Not So Smart

It gives us considerable pleasure to explode the myth of Al Holzknecht's invincibility, in the making and collecting of athletic event wagers.

The revelation comes to us in this manner: It seems that one day a couple of weeks ago, Dennis (Spanky) Sullivan and Al were engaged in some idle chitchat. The talk swung around to baseball, and the exhibition game that was to be played at Minneapolis between the Millers and the Milwaukee Braves.

Spanky advanced the theory that the Braves wouldn't field their "varsity" team for the exhibition. Al pooh-poohed that idea, and ridiculed Spanky's theory, adding that the Braves, in the interest of their public relations, couldn't afford to use their reserves.

Sullivan then offered to bet a modest sum that the Braves' third baseman, Eddie Matthews, wouldn't show for the game. Al immediately covered the bet, with both hands.

Here's part two of the episode: It appears that Spanky, through devious channels, had learned that the major league's player representatives were slated to hold a policy meeting on Saturday. Eddie Matthews is the player representative for the Milwaukee Braves, and as a result he had to be in attendance at that meeting rather than playing an exhibition in Minneapolis.

There are occasions when Al is as innocent and bare-footed as the rest of us.

With the Cobbers

Aasland is a pitching candidate, while Klungness is an outfield prospect.

We hope that Cobber coach, Cliff Rothback, will be able to remedy the quirk in Lefty's delivery, and give the stylish southpaw a degree of control. There isn't anyone with more desire to play ball than LeRoy, and as a pitcher he has worlds of stuff. When he gets his curve ball over the plate, and its not too often, it's an unhittable strike.

Klungness is a product of the Pennington county league, having played for the past several of seasons with the Silver Creek club.

The Year's First Golf Challenge

Doug Tegtmeier, L. L. Tygeson, Phil LeGault, and Orvis Olen, southpaws all, have officially opened the golfing season by issuing a challenge to any quartet of right-handed golfers, with comparable handicaps, to a four-man match.

It happens every year that these "brave bulls," before the fairways have turned green, are pawing the ground and issuing challenges and threats.

The fact is, we are of the opinion that a four-team of Larsons and Olson—Stan Larson, Justus Larson, Emil Olson, and Don Olson — could take these southpaws, and handily.

Renege.

Last week we promised that we would reveal the bowling averages of the girls in the Nite Hawk League. This week we will will have to renege on that promise.

The league secretary informed us that these bowling averages will not be released until the night of the annual trophy and award banquet, which will be held at the Eagles on Wednesday night, April 24th.

The awarding of the individual high average trophies, and the announcements of these winner, adds considerable spice to the night's festivities, and we can readily understand the league officers' reluctance in giving out this information. So we will have to wait until April 24 before the bowling girls reveal their figures, their bowling figures, that is.

Gopher Hockey Letters

According to a release received from the athletic department of the University of Minnesota, eighteen hockey letters have been granted.

And included in this list of hockey letterwinners are Marv Jorde of Thief River Falls, and John Delmore and Kenny Wellen of Roseau. Those three boys are the only former region eight players to gain this honor.

Region Seven, the iron range, also provided the Gophers with three letter winners—Jack Petroske, Don Vaia of Hibbing, and Tom Riley of International Falls

Only two Canadians, Bob Pearson of Fort Frances, Ont., and Murray Williamson of Winnipeg, are included in the list. Of this fact, coach John Mariucci is quite proud. The Gophers are mostly a home-talent team.

I shall never permit myself to stoop so low as to hate any man. —Booker T. Washington.

G.N. Freight Hits Truck at Fosston

Driver and Two Boys Escape Serious Injury

A Fosston man and his two young nephews from St. Paul escaped serious injury Monday when the pickup truck in which they were riding was hit by a Great Northern local freight train at a Fosston intersection.

Russell Eastlund, driver of the truck, said his attention was distracted momentarily when he tried to quiet Joseph, 3, and John Eastlund, 6, who were playing in the truck seat.

He glanced up to see the diesel locomotive of the freight bearing down on the truck. The locomotive collided with the truck's left rear, and Eastlund was thrown from the vehicle.

Joseph was taken to the Fosston hospital for treatment of cuts and bruises. He is in good condition, according to hospital authorities. John was unhurt. Eastlund received a bruise on his head, but did not require treatment.

The two boys are sons of Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Eastlund of St. Paul.
